ROAD CLOSED FOR A MONTH ON ACCOUNT WASHOUT

Burlington Hard Hit by Wyoming Flood—Park Tourist Business Is At Its Height.

The central Wyoming line of the Burlington may be closed by flood damage until after the middle of August. That probability is indicated in a statement issued by the passenger department of the road placing an embargo on business to Bonneville, Boyson, Dornick, Emery, Ly-site, Madden, Minnesota and Schoening. These towns are all between Casper and Thermopolis. The passenger department says service to these towns may not be re-established for 30 days.

This break coming at the height of the park tourist business has made necessary a great many detours for railroad passengers. The company is now handling all of the park business in both directions by way of the old line, via Sheridan. Every effort is being made to minimize inconvenience to passengers.

The greatest damage done at any one place was at Bonneville. There the flood from the Badwater river covered the railroad property. The railroad buildings remained on their foundations but box cars, way cars, side track and other property were swept into the river. The greatest damage from the flood was along the Badwater, altho considerable damage to track and bridges occurred along the Big Horn to the north of Bonneville. At one place in the canyon of the Big Horn river the grade was washed away wider than the track and the track was left suspended twenty feet above the river. There was practically no damage reported north of Thermopolis.

Vice President E. P. Bracken, in charge of the operation of the railroad, arrived in the flood territory Friday.

No attempt has been made to estimate the amount of damage done to the railroad in money. The number of bridges washed out is not great, and reports indicate that most of the steel bridges withstood the stress. The greatest damage is to washed away grades and damaged fills. Reports show that not less than twenty washouts were reported by track inspectors. Some of these were of but a few feet in extent, while others reported the track out for great distances. Railroad reports show little or no damage at Thermopolis to railroad property but considerable damage was done at Minnesota, the first station south of that place. Track is damaged and bridges weakened along a stretch of line covering sixty miles or more between Armito and Thermopolis.

The Old Settlers' association will find that they have a real treat for their entertainment and one that will give a series of programs of the best and highest class music that could be desired and in a very artistic manner.

STRANGER CAUSE OF GREAT ALARM NEAR MURRAY

John Pavlovic, Who Cannot Speak English, Causes Some Alarm by Supposed Threats.

From Saturday's Daily.

Yesterday afternoon Sheriff C. D. Quinton was called to the vicinity of Murray, where a stranger was reported to be causing more or less excitement among the residents of that locality by his strange actions and what was reported as using threatening words to the householders there.

The sheriff apprehended the man, who gave the name of John Pavlovic and was brought in to face the machinery of justice which is operated by William Weber as justice of the peace. As John could not explain himself intelligently in the English language a hurry-up call was sent for Edward Donat, who has for years been the official translator of the country of law in these parts.

From the statements of the man made through the aid of Mr. Donat, it would seem that he had been begging in the Murray vicinity and sought something to eat, and in doing so had threatened to hang himself if he was not given food.

After hearing the facts in the court Judge Weber decided that he would give John a free meal ticket for the next thirty days and he was accordingly placed in the custody of the sheriff until his sentence is served and John seemed well pleased that he was once more to be in touch with the bread line.

As the man is a foreigner he would probably be turned over to the federal authorities and may suffer deportation from the shores of the United States.

SHOWING IMPROVEMENT

From Saturday's Daily.

George W. Snyder, one of the old residents of this locality and as well one of the most genial and well-souled gentlemen in the county, was in the city for a few hours today from his home west of Mynard. Mr. Snyder is still feeling the effects of his recent operation which he underwent at Kansas City for a very severe case of hernia but is able to be around with the assistance of a cane but as yet cannot do his usual share of the farm work and which goes very much against the grain as he chafes under the entires, writes Mrs. He has been home for the past two weeks and believes that he will have a permanent relief from his suffering. The operation was performed at the Thornton & Minor sanitarium in Kansas City.

HAS ATTACK OF SICKNESS

From Saturday's Daily.

Last night Charles S. Johnson, yardmaster of the Burlington here, suffered quite a severe attack of stomach trouble and his condition for a time seemed quite serious, but Mr. Johnson was feeling much better this morning and within a short time expects to be back on the job of assisting in handling traffic in the local railroad yards. Mr. Johnson has not been in the most rugged health the last few years and the first reports of his sickness greatly alarmed his friends.

GOLFERS HAVE BIG TIME FRIDAY; NO NINETEENTH HOLE

Journey Down to Weeping Water and are Guests of Sharks There—Plan Return Visit.

From Saturday's Daily.

Yesterday a party of the members of the Plattsmouth Golf club made their long promised visit to our neighboring city of Weeping Water to engage the members of the golf club there in a round or two on their links and the members of the party vow that never was there more enjoyable time had than that which they experienced in their neighborly visit to the city of the sobbing waters.

Those making the trip were Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Knorr, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Bestor, A. W. Goidt, Dan and E. P. Stewart, L. O. Minor and Searl Davis, the irreplaceable golf shark. The Plattsmouth members found a hearty welcome awaiting them and at once started in on the enjoyment of the sport that has become so popular in the vicinity of Weeping Water. The course at Weeping Water is a very "sporty" one and filled with many hazards to which the Plattsmouth players were unaccustomed and which served to their disadvantage in making many of their drives.

One of the most thrilling encounters of the day was the foursome played by Roy Knorr and Frank Bestor against Dr. M. U. Thomas and L. R. Snipes and the councilmen found themselves at the high end of the score against the doctor and the general count agent at the close of the round and a great deal of pleasure was derived in the playing of the game.

The fact that Rev. Edwards of the Congregational church was one of the Weeping Water players held the interest of the other members of the party when they made a bad drive and aided in preserving the peace and quiet of the occasion.

At the noon hour the Plattsmouth party were royally entertained at a luncheon by the Weeping Water players and a real neighborly time enjoyed for some time before the battle was renewed on the links.

During the afternoon the ladies of the party enjoyed a few rounds on the course and showed their skill at the game that has made Scotland famous. The ladies of Milwaukee and it was at a late hour in the afternoon that the Plattsmouth caravan returned home, feeling that they had been given a real treat in the visit to Weeping Water and anticipating an equally pleasant time when they have the visit returned.

ENTERTAINS FOR SUMMERTIME BRIDE

Ione Dovey Betts Hostess at Gathering of the "Hikers" in Honor of Mrs. Vesta Sevier.

From Saturday's Daily.

The pleasant home of Mr. and Mrs. George O. Dovey was the scene of a very delightful post-nuptial shower given by Ione Dovey Betts yesterday afternoon in honor of Miss Vesta Douglass Sevier, one of the brides of the past few weeks.

The members of the "Hikers" club of which the hostess and guest of honor have long been members, were invited to enjoy the pleasant party on an ideal afternoon on the attractive lawn of the Dovey home and where the time was spent most interestingly in the fascinations of bridge until a late hour in the afternoon and in this Mrs. Jack Davis, of Omaha, was awarded the prize for being the most enjoyable of the party.

A very unique and pleasant method of showering the bride was carried out in a "gift tree," the presents being placed in one of the trees on the lawn, and a great deal of pleasure was derived as the guest of honor was requested to place the remembrances from the tree. During the afternoon the members of the party were served with very appropriate refreshments by Misses Helen Jane West and Ruth Sanderson, which proved a most enjoyed part of the entertainment afforded.

The "Hikers" had as their guests for the afternoon Mrs. Henry G. Soennichsen and sister, Miss Gunderson, of Vermillion, South Dakota, Mrs. E. G. Dovey, Chicago.

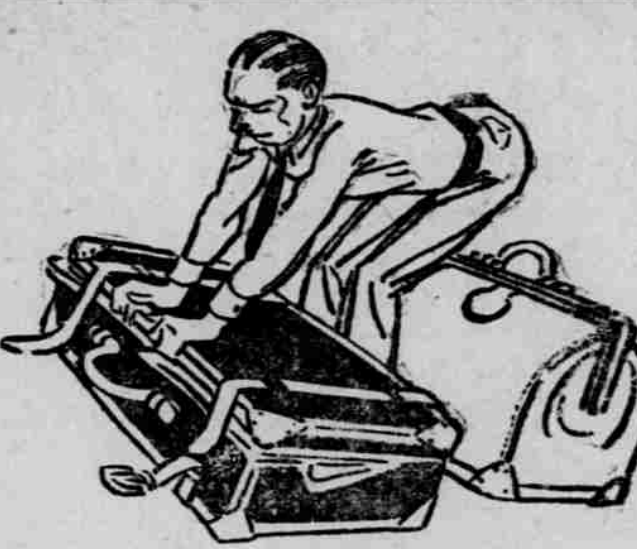

GETTING READY FOR THE OPENING OF THE SCHOOLS

The country schools will be open for the training of the young for another term within the next few weeks as some of the schools will probably open up the last part of August and others the first part of September.

A number of the young women who will be in the teaching forces of the county have been attending schools that carried no approved normal course and therefore are making this up by study at the normals while others who have had the normal training will have to await the examinations to complete their work.

From the general indications there will be plenty of teachers in the schools for the coming term.

"ON THE CORNER"

ONE GROUP OF STATE OFFICIALS NABBED BY OTHER

Governor Bryan's Secretary and Head of Finance Department Stopped by Enforcement Officers.

Three state officials, who were riding in a car on the highway, doing as they said, "nothing to nobody," at 2 o'clock in the morning were held up at the end of guns. The tale was divulged Thursday morning, says the Lincoln State Journal, when Deputy Secretary George E. Hall, of the department of finance, Secretary F. C. Radke of the governor's office, W. J. McNichols, chief of the bureau of securities, reached the building. The fourth man in the party was Frank Harrington, son of M. F. Harrington of O'Neill. Mr. Harrington is an ex-service man who is taking vocational training in Lincoln.

As the state officials were held up by four other state officials, all appointed under the direction of Governor Bryan, and as the hold-up was conducted in a gentlemanly but firm manner, there was no kick coming out of the incident, not even a murmur about useless duplication under the code law which results in the state paying one set of state officers to hold up another set of state officers when one set is quite able to hold itself up, if there is any holding up to be done.

The state officials who did the holding up have not been identified, but it is surmised by Tom Carroll, chief law enforcement officer, that his good man Milton Gates of University Place, was in charge of the party that did the job.

Mr. Radke produced an envelope addressed to him at the executive office to prove his identity. George Hall told who he was, but omitted some of his political history. Mr. McNichols was introduced as an attorney of Lexington who had just been honored with an appointment by Governor Bryan.

The law enforcement officers heard these explanations but continued to search the car for firearms or water. Mr. Harrington had some money upon him and a watch. These he desired to save, so when he saw the hold-up gang meant business he secreted his money under the seat and hid his money in the bottom of the car.

After Mr. Hall ceased to shiver with fright, he began to make a show of authority. Meekly but firmly he told the law enforcement officers that he might be able to have their names taken off the state payroll.

Mr. Radke and Mr. Hall refuse to state the nature of the mission that took them to Omaha, but they explained that they left there at 11 o'clock at night, later sustained injuries to the car and woke a man up at Gretna to make repairs, and what looked like a gun protruding from the car was only a rod of a broken steering wheel.

YOUR TOWN

If you want to live in a town That's the kind of a town you'd like; You needn't slip your clothes in a grip And start on a long hike.

You'll find elsewhere what you left behind. For there's nothing that's really new. It's a knock your town— it's you. It isn't your town; it's you.

Real towns are not made by men afraid. Least somebody else gets ahead; Where everyone works and nobody shirks. You can raise a town from the dead.

And if you make your personal stake, Your neighbor can make one too. Your town will be what you want it to be. It isn't your town; it's you. —J. R. Jones.

OREGON TRAIL PIONEER IS ON HIS FIFTH TREK

Ezra Meeker Arranging For Movie to Perpetuate Story of Early Days—To Depict a True Tale.

Ezra Meeker, 93, author of "Ox-Team Days on the Oregon Trail" and many other books of frontier days, arrived in Omaha yesterday on his fifth trip over the Oregon trail. Mr. Meeker crossed the Missouri river at Bellevue May 18, 1852, in a covered wagon drawn by a team of oxen. He was on his way then from his birthplace in Ohio to the Oregon country, where he became a founder of the state of Washington and a constructive pioneer. He has traversed the same trail three times since in the same covered wagon, the last two times to urge the erection of granite monuments along the old gateway to the Oregon country. He was successful in this enterprise.

This time the trip is being made by rail to pick out suitable locations for "shooting" movies for use in a picture, which is being produced by the Pioneers of America, Inc., of which Mr. Meeker is the president. Mr. Meeker also plans to raise money along the trail with which to produce the picture.

The picture, in which the old pioneer will play a prominent role, will be a true love story, based on the life of Mrs. Annan, a woman who was massacred by the Indians in 1847. "It will preserve the memory of the Oregon trail forever," says Mr. Meeker.

RURAL ROADS BETTER THAN STREETS OF SMALL TOWNS

It was only a few years ago that villages and small cities prided themselves on the way their roads were kept. These towns usually had a committee to induce township road supervisors to keep the roads leading into their towns in good condition.

With the changing of the laws so the country roads were taken care of by an overseer, the country roads have become far better than those to be found in the average town or small city. Next thing we know farmers will be petitioning city councils to "please drag your streets."

Automobile tourists passing thru Nebraska pay a tribute to the state system of good roads and are frequently heard to remark that the worst roads they encounter are the main streets of some of the villages. It is observable that tourists leave no money in a town that gives bad impressions of hospitality.

HARVEST WORK IS NOW IN THE THRESHING STAGE

The farmers in this locality are now busy in their threshing and the wheat crop of the county is going to be far below the usual average from the reports made by the different farmers as the yield of wheat seems to run from sixteen to as low as eight bushels, and those who have kept in touch with the threshing over the country are of the opinion that yield will show an average of close to ten bushels per acre and not very greatly from this year.

The Hessian fly and the very wet season of the late spring are the reasons given by the farmers for the great falling off in the yield of the wheat for the year. With these conditions prevailing the price of wheat has reached a very low figure, which is unusual as the shortage usually leads to a sharp advance in the price.

SUFFERS SMALL ACCIDENT.

From Saturday's Daily.

Louis Wanders, while engaged in helping with the threshing at the farm of George Stander west of the city yesterday suffered a very painful accident that will lay him up for some time from active work. Louis was engaged in hitching bundles at the threshing machine when the team hitched to the hay rack from which he was working suddenly became frightened and started to run with the result that Louis was thrown against the framework of the rack and sustained a very painful injury to the right elbow but kept on with his work until today, when he came to town and had the arm examined with the result that it was found the bone had been cracked from the effects of the blow.

STAY USE OF DRUGS ON FAST INCREASE

United States Leading Nations in Consumption of Narcotics, According to Department.

The alarming quantity of narcotics being consumed in the United States is brought out in a bulletin issued by Dr. Chauncey F. Chapman, superintendent of health at Lincoln. When reminded that many people believe that the use of drugs has increased since the adoption of prohibition in this country, Dr. Chapman refused to give his opinion.

The bulletin: "Drug addictions are fast on the increase in this country. Forty times more of habit forming drugs are consumed in America per capita than any other white nation. Three times the amount of habit forming drugs are being used now compared with three years ago.

"According to Dr. Frederick A. Wallis, commissioner of correction, New York city, the amount of opium used by the leading nations of the world is as follows: Annual per capita consumption, Italy, 1 grain; Germany, 2 grains; England, 3 grains; France, 4 grains, and in the United States, which does not grow the commercial poppy plant at all, uses 36 grains per capita per annum. This exceeds the consumption in India, which is an opium producing country and where the amount per capita per annum is 27 grains.
