There are roads to riches—but most of us travel in the wrong direction.

Rotation of crops, well bred seed, study of soil conditions, seasonal preparation, intensive cultivation, scientific management—all these enter into successful farming.

The Murray State Bank has access to much authoritative information along these lines and will be glad to procure data for you on any or all of them.

WOULD ORGANIZE PIONEERS OF STATE

Native Born Sons and Daughters of 1860 or Prior to Furnish a Lot of Historical Data.

The organization of the society of "The Native Born Sons and Daughters of Nebraska Territory—1860 or Prior," has been creating a great deal of interest in the state and in all localities there have been a number enrolled in its ranks who will assist materially in supplying some very valuable facts for the early history of the state.

It has been thought by restricting the membership to a date as far back as 1860 much territorial history may be obtained which will soon be unavailable and that should be stored in the archives of the state historical society for the information of the future generations.

The thought has been that the men and women who were born here in Nebraska prior to 1860 could supply much pioneer history as the memory of many children run back to very tender years.

Already Nebraska City, Weeping Water and Murray have responded but so far there has been no one from Plattsmouth file their application. There are only a few in the state who are eligible to this society and if there are any of the pioneer boys and girls still living in this vicinity, they would assist the good work by registering in the ranks of the society.

All communications in regard to the matter should be addressed to Eugene O. Mayfield, 4417 South 23rd street, Omaha.

DAIRY HERDS BRING CONTEST TO BE HELD IN STATE

90 Bushels Per Acre in Eastern, 70 in Central and 50 in Western Nebraska, is the Goal.

Lincoln, Feb. 3.—Ninety bushels of corn per acre in eastern Nebraska, 70 bushels in the central part of the state and 50 bushels in western Nebraska are the goals set by the Nebraska Crop Growers association in its new project, the 10-acre corn yield contest, which will be encouraged throughout the state.

Rules and entry blanks are being mailed out to the county agents over the state for distribution among farmers who wish to compete.

Divisions of the state, as announced today by Paul Stewart, secretary of the association, at the state agricultural college here, are as follows: East section, line between Holt and Antelope counties south to the Platte; middle section, line between Polk and Butler counties and south to the state line; central section between this and a line starting on the east line of Cherry county and dropping straight south to the south line of Dawson, where it jogs east to the east lines of Gosper and Furnas counties; west section, west of this line to the state boundary.

Ten acres are the minimum in the project. The acres must lie together in one field and be in such shape that they can be measured easily. More than 10 acres may be entered in the contest, or the 10 acres may be a part of a larger field.

Contestants ranking highest in each section and the highest scoring individual in each county having five or more entries, will be given medals by the crop growers association.

Others completing the project and making the goal set for their region will be officially presented with "Recognition of Achievement" certificates at the annual meeting of the association. Cash premiums also will be given by the association. Local organizations may give additional premiums.

Awards are to be on the following basis: Yield per acre, 65 per cent; cost per bushel, 20 per cent; quality, 10 per cent, and reports, 5 per cent. A local committee of two appointed by the county agent and the secretary of the crop growers will be judges of the yield. Yields are to be determined between October 20 and December 1. A 20-pound sample of the corn raised must be sent to the agricultural college for moisture and quality tests. The accurate yield will be figured on a uniform moisture content of 15 per cent.
