ALICE TERRY IS ONE SCHOOL GIRL WHOSE DREAMS CAME TRUE

Leading Feminine Player in "Scaramouche" Made Way to Success from an "Extra."

Alice Terry is the consummation of all the tales about a school girl who entered the motion picture field and won her way to success by her own efforts. For once, in thinking of Miss Terry, one need not remember the number of failures that are chronicled in Hollywood—merely how one girl reached the sunlight.

ALICE TERRY

Miss Terry, who plays the leading feminine role in "Scaramouche" the new Rex Ingram-Metro production to be shown at the Parmele for three days next week, starting Tuesday, lived in Indiana before she entered the movies. Vice versa to be exact. Two years before she became known because of her work in "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," she attended school in her own town, living the usual life of the small city girl, and dreaming the dreams of ambition.

A Momentous Visit
On a visit to Los Angeles she was induced by some of her friends to be an "extra" for a few days. She discovered she liked pictures and stayed. At that time Rex Ingram, who was just becoming recognized as a promising director, was looking for a certain type girl for Metro's production of "Hearts are Trumps," his first assignment for this organization. He saw Alice and found her ideal for the role.

She was so successful in the film that when Ingram was given his commission by Metro to do their most important picture of the year, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," he chose Miss Terry again. She was "made," and the school girl of eighteen months before was now a star of the film firmament. Her character in the picture was a victim of a loveless marriage, who found relief in a love affair with a gay Argentinian.

Miss Terry then continued as the leading player in all the Rex Ingram films. "The Conquering Power" was the next, and in this production a love-affair developed between the director and his star, and they became engaged soon afterward.

Beauty Became Byword
"Turn to the Right" was another success for the Indiana girl, where her beauty became a byword with the fans. One of the authors of this latter story is Jack Hazzard, who is well known in Plattsmouth.

Then came Mr. Ingram's production of Anthony Hope's "The Prisoner of Zenda," the first of all the romantic kingdom stories. Alice was ideal for the part; indeed, it is said she formed the inspiration that caused Ingram to select the romance of Ruritania. During the making of the production the pair were married.

After an absence from one of her husband's films, "Trifling Women," she returned in "Where the Pavement Ends" as the missionary's daughter.

Now she has another sympathetic role in "Scaramouche." Rafael Sebastian's story of the days of the French Revolution gives her a splendid opportunity as the proud Aline de Kercaidou who loved the hot-headed young noble despite his reckless fights against Royalty for the People's Cause.

"Scaramouche" is a Rex Ingram production for Metro adapted to the screen by Willis Goldbeck. John F. Seitz photographed the picture.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Copy for this Department furnished by County Agent

Liming Soils and Inoculating Legumes

We read a good deal about the need of inoculation and lime in the growing of alfalfa, clovers and soy beans. Many farm papers, particularly those to our east, have much to say along this line. What about inoculation and lime for Nebraska conditions?

Occasional cases have been found where inoculation has given good results on alfalfa and sweet clover. In most of the tests that have been conducted, however, no beneficial results have been secured. Inoculation of soy beans seems more apt to give returns than of alfalfa or the clovers. Soy beans will grow without inoculation, but in that case obtain all their nitrogen from the soil just as does corn or wheat. Very little Nebraska soil tests acid and shows a response to lime. Some of the glacial soil in Southeastern Nebraska tests strongly acid and in some liming trials which have been carried on that soil lime has helped to secure good stands. Under average Nebraska conditions neither liming nor inoculation are apt to prove beneficial or necessary in getting stands of alfalfa and the clovers.

Food and Nutrition
The first series of meetings on Food Selection was held at Elmwood, and delegates from four clubs were present. Clubs represented were Cascade, Weeping Water, Morning Glory and Fairview, Elmwood, and Cloverleaf at Wabash. The next meeting is April 23rd and the other clubs in west half of the county are asked to send delegates.

Home Health and Hygiene
The second meeting was held at

Nehawka with six clubs in attendance, as follows: Merry-Go-Round, Triangle and Maple Grove, at Nehawka; Merry Workers, Mynard, Liberty and Eight Mile Grove. There can four more clubs in east half of county send delegates.
