DEATH OF MRS. S. C. LEWIS AT HOME IN WEST

Sister of E. H. Schulhof, Mrs. A. B. Smith and Miss Caroline Schulhof, Passes Away.

Last evening at 10 o'clock in the family home at Denver where she has made her home for the past twenty-five years, occurred the death of Mrs. S. C. Lewis, formerly a resident of this city and the eldest daughter of the late Henry Schulhof and wife. The death of Mrs. Lewis followed an illness of some duration and during which time she has suffered a great deal from heart trouble which was the contributing factor to her death.

The deceased lady, Lettie Schulhof Lewis, was born in Richmond, Indiana, sixty-five years ago and was the daughter of Henry and Margaret Schulhof. The family came west to Nebraska in 1873 and located in Plattsmouth where some thirty-five years ago she was united in marriage to Sanford C. Lewis and for a few years the family resided in this locality later moving to Denver where they have since made their home. The husband passed away some fourteen years ago and to mourn the death of Mrs. Lewis there remain one son, Sanford C. Lewis, Jr., and one daughter, Mrs. Margaret Lacy. There are also three sisters and two brothers to mourn her death, Mrs. A. B. Smith, E. H. Schulhof and Miss Caroline Schulhof of Plattsmouth, John Schulhof of Los Angeles and Mrs. Fred Hebert of Omaha.

There has been no definite announcement of the funeral made as yet but it will undoubtedly be held in Denver where the husband is buried.

One of the sisters, Mrs. A. B. Smith departed for Denver Wednesday and was at the bedside of the sister when death came.

Mrs. George R. Sayles and son, George, Jr., departed this morning for Omaha, where they will spend the week end visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Major I. Hall and family.

CITY SCHOOLS OBSERVE THE MAY DAY FETE

SEVERAL HUNDREDS OF RELATIVES OF SCHOOL FOLKS GATHER AT CAMPUS

PROGRAM IS ONE OF INTEREST

Ruth Shannon, One of the Charming Senior Girls, is Elected as Queen of May

From Saturday's Daily—Colorful with the bright costumes and alive with the pulsing and quickening life of youth, the annual May Day fete of the Plattsmouth city schools was held yesterday on the campus of the Central building and witnessed by a crowd of several hundred persons.

The program arranged by Miss Frances Fields, supervisor of music in the city schools and who was assisted in carrying it out by the other teachers, was very entertaining and showy. The progress that music had developed in the local school and its aid in the expression and grace of the little folks in the various dances that they offered for the entertainment of the audience.

The high school orchestra opened the program of the afternoon by the sounding of the grand march at 2:30 and as the first notes of the march were played two little trumpeters, clad in green that announced the approach of the Queen of the May appeared and were followed by the winning little dancers also clad in green and who were led by Jean Tidball. The little girls performed the Springtime dance very gracefully and a solo dancing number by Helen Jane West and Melba Gerhmet, which was very charming and a toe dance by little Miss Giehnert also added to the exquisite charm of the scene.

Miss Louise Parriott, maid of honor, then appeared, and was followed by the young ladies of the Senior class, garbed in attractive costumes of various bright spring colors, and making a real rainbow effect as they advanced to the throne on which their queen was soon to be crowned.

As the notes of the march music reached its height, the queen, Miss Ruth Shannon, chosen by the High School for this honor, appeared at the campus, her train and flowing veil being borne by the page and thirty attendants and the crown of Springtime resting on the silken cushion being borne before her.

The costume of the queen was all in white and the Queen of 1924 certainly presented a most charming picture as she sat on the throne of the settings of the fete.

The throne was made against a lattice work of white and on which the fragrant purple lilacs were used in decoration while beneath a canopy of pink the queen was seated. As Queen Ruth stepped onto the throne the crown of Springtime was placed upon her brow by Miss Parriott, the maid of honor.

As soon as the coronation ceremonies were carried out, Henry Leacock, president of the Senior class, extended to the several hundred persons present a welcome to the annual festival and in his well chosen remarks Mr. Leacock told a little of what the High schools of the state are doing and their growth in the last twenty-five years that was a real revelation to the members of the audience.

The younger children of the city schools, embracing children from the Central, Ward and Columbian buildings then entertained the audience with a number of winsome drills and dances that certainly reflected the greatest of credit on the youngsters and fairies, butterflies and elfs vied with each other in the presentation of the dances and drills.

The final offering of the festival was that of the Maypole dance and in which a number of the grade children participated. The May pole was strands of the May pole were woven the orchestra struck up the Star Spangled Banner as the flag borne by Edward Patterson and escorted by two of the Boy Scouts was advanced to the center of the campus, where the salute was given, and the audience stood while the national anthem was being played.

The Boy Scouts rendered very valuable assistance at the festival in several ways and kept the crowds from overflowing onto the campus as they did last year. The seats that are owned by the High school were arranged in bleacher form and also afforded additional comfort that was lacking at the initial May Day fete held last year.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE HAS REGULAR MEETING

DISCUSS MATTERS OF PRESSING INTEREST IN ITS SHORT SESSION AT LIBRARY

CEMETERY SIDEWALK REPORT

One of Important Improvements for Year--Swimming Pool is Also Discussed

From Saturday's Daily—The Chamber of Commerce meeting last evening at the public library auditorium was one that proceeded with rapidity when the gavel of President Davis fell at 7:30 and started the ball to rolling.

The communication from the baseball team relative to assistance in getting equipment and the team started for the 1924 season was discussed and referred to the industries for its action.

The swimming pool committee reported that they had at a previous meeting decided to ask for the assistance of a landscape engineer from the state university, but owing to sickness in his family he had so far been unable to be present and give the committee his opinion of the site and the work that would be necessary in perfecting the pool. The committee also reported that they had met with a committee from the city council, the American Legion and the Woman's club, all of which had promised co-operation in the project. The city council had been asked to take a definite position on three propositions that would give the committee a definite idea of what it would have to do when it was received from the council. On this depended the matter of financing the proposition as the committee had picked as the most favorable site the present tourist park that would do away with the necessity of purchasing land and as the pool itself would cost $5,000 would make the land much lighter for the committee in raising the subscriptions. If the city was willing to allow the use of the park then the pool could probably be put in very shortly when the subscription committee was busy. On motion the city council was requested to give the communication their most prompt action in order that the committee of the Chamber of Commerce might know what to do.

Treasurer R. W. Knorr of the Chamber of Commerce reported there was $457.50 in the strong box at this time.

The committee on the sidewalk to the Oak Hill cemetery had a very complete and comprehensive report also in the Alaska missions taking up this part of the world campaign as theirs while other of the churches have taken up the labors of the mission work in other localities. There were a number of guests present including Mrs. E. V. Shayler and daughter, Mrs. Marion Heath and her little daughter, Mary Lou Heath. At a suitable hour dainty and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess.

OBITUARY OF GEORGE A. TOWLE OF LINCOLN

Life Sketch of a Former Well Known Resident of Cass County and a Respected Neighbor.

From Saturday's Daily—The funeral of George A. Towle, who died on April 18, was held at Walden, Nebraska, Thursday. He was laid to rest in the cemetery that many years before he had helped to lay out.

Mr. Towle was born in New Bedford, Connecticut, April 14, 1851 and was seventy-three years of age at the time of his death. On April 13, 1873, he was married to Miss Mary Cavy, of Worcester, Mass. To this union were born twelve children, they being Walter B., South Bend, Nebraska; Edward A., Ashland, Nebraska; George E., Waverly, Nebraska; Fred W., Walden, Nebraska; Henry V., Douglas, Nebraska; Mrs. J. J. Hill, Denver, Colorado; Mrs. J. E. McHugh, Murdock, Nebraska, and Rhena A., who is at home. Also Benjamin B., Emery and J. Leroy, who have preceded their father.

Mr. Towle was a pioneer of Cass county, Nebraska, his father, Andrew Towle, having located near where the town of Wabash now stands sixty years ago. George A. Towle grew up in Cass county and was a large farmer and landowner, and also engaged in the grain, lumber and mercantile business. When the panic came the slump in land values, together with the death of an invalid son, caused him much worry and he became despondent and depressed.

In recent months he was not his usual self and his friends noticed and frequently commented upon the fact that he was failing mentally. His death was undoubtedly due to worry.

Mr. Towle was one of the best known men in Cass county. He retired from the farm several years ago and moved to Lincoln, where he resided with his family at 338 North Twenty-ninth street. He was a man dependable in every relation, and it was frequently said of his that his word was as good as his bond. He was not affiliated with any church, but was always a liberal contributor to all denominations. In the early days he donated materials and gave generously of his time and labor with others to build the little Catholic church in Elmwood, Nebraska.

In politics he was a lifelong democrat. He never sought or held public office, but in the days when it was customary to have colonels on the staff of the governor, Mr. Towle was selected for that honor by former Governors Holcomb and Shallenberger.

SELLS FINE FARM

From Friday's Daily—Yesterday Searl S. Davis the real estate man, closed the deal whereby one of the best farms in the central portion of Cass county was sold to John H. Fowler of Lincoln. This was the Thomas W. Akeson farm of 311 acres, situated five miles north of Weeping Water and reputed to be one of the finest and best improved farms in the county and was sold for $60,000. The price received per acre was close to $200 and shows that the prices of farm land are gradually growing more stable and sound. Mr. Davis has had a very brisk demand for farm property in the last week and his sales have exceeded $100,000 and which would indicate that the land market is looking up somewhat.

THE STILL HOSPITALS

To the Editor: Every one who cares about public or private health is interested in the news from Kirksville, Missouri, that the two great colleges of osteopathy, located there, are combining. This is interesting alike to those who believe in drugs, and to those who oppose their use.

The struggle between drug practitioners and those who believe that the body itself makes all the medicines it needs, may be said to be just half a century old, and to have centered around Kirksville, Missouri.

Dr. A. T. S., the first osteopath, came to that town forty-nine years ago this summer, with his therapy, which was then one year old. And so Kirksville will celebrate the Golden Jubilee of osteopathy this summer and osteopaths throughout the world will observe June 22 as the fiftieth anniversary of the announcement of the discovery of their science.

The oldest college of osteopathy was organized in Kirksville just thirty-two years ago, after Dr. Still had proved his science through eighteen long years, at that place and had college assistants of his sons. Many other colleges have been organized, of which seven are still in operation, scattered from Boston to Los Angeles. All of them require a standard high school education for entrance and all of them give four standard college years of instruction, including everything taught in Class A medical colleges, except materia medica, instead of which the principles and practices of osteopathy are taught.

The two colleges at Kirksville will combine on June 22, 1924, under the ownership and management of the immediate family of the founder of osteopathy. This event means a more rapid improvement in preparation and advance in numbers of osteopaths. It is especially significant, coming in this semi-centennial year. Yours very truly,

H. C. LEOPOLD, Oph. D. D. O.

ROBBERS MAKE ATTEMPT TO BLOW UP BANK

FARMERS STATE BANK, EAGLE, WRECKED BY EXPLOSION AT EARLY HOUR.

VAULT STANDS THE EXPLOSION

Robbers Forced to Leave Scene without Accomplishing their Aim--No Trace of Them

From Saturday's Daily—This morning at 2:30 William H. Norris, the marshal of the Village of Eagle, in the western part of the county, was shocked by the sudden explosion that took place in the building occupied by the Farmers State Bank of that city and which conveyed to the watchman the unpleasant fact that there were evidently bank robbers at work.

Mr. Norris hastened toward the bank and fired several shots at the retreating forms of several men, whom he states were leaving the building and they disappeared in the darkness and left no trace of their whereabouts and as far as can be learned there was no sign or noise of an auto around the town and how the men made their getaway seems a mystery unless they walked or ran out of the town and then made their escape by auto.

The robbers had attempted to blow open the vault as was discovered by Mr. Norris and who at once sounded a general alarm and aroused Mr. Merle Lanning, the cashier of the bank, who hurried to the bank to inspect the damage that had been done to the building.

The furniture of the counting room was thrown around by the force of the explosion and a strip of steel some four feet wide and two feet high had been blown off of the door of the vault, but the lock had held and the robbers foiled in their endeavors of gaining access to the vault and securing the money and bonds contained there made haste to get away.

The building suffered a great deal from the force of the explosion and pieces of steel from the ceiling and floor of the room.

The message of the robbery was sent to Lincoln and State Deputy Sheriff Tom Carroll and several of his deputies were on the job in a short time and Sheriff E. P. Stewart was called from this city to the scene of the would be robbery, but by the time the officers had reached the scene of the robbery the per-
