You can't uplift people by sitting down on them.

By this time the garden is all weeds and a yard wide.

Lots of people think the world owes them five or six livings.

Most people who have nothing to do make the mistake of doing it.

Next to a secret the hardest thing to keep is a beautiful complexion.

A pessimist is a man who wants things different even after they are.

Fever blisters have stopped more girls from kissing than arguments.

Winning an argument by calling a man narrow-minded doesn't count.

In Paris they have declared war against American jazz bands, but we'll bet they like them just as we do.

One of the pleasant surprises of life is to enter a barber shop and find your wife in your favorite chair.

Near Brussels, a small town had 28 golden weddings on the same day. Staying married is a quaint old custom.

In Detroit a man married a widow with seven children. This puts the round-the-world aviator daredevils in second place.

Perhaps the worst feeling in the world is to get all heated up in a political speech and know you must stick to the truth.

In Los Angeles they will make a sanely test of auto speeders and if the results differ from what you expect we will let you know.

LaFollette headquarters for presidential campaign have been opened in Madison, Wisconsin. Where the headquarters are to be located is not stated.

It must make Yale and Harvard fearfully provoked to have Columbia beat them in the matter of conferring an honorary degree on the English poet laureate.

The other day in Washington a hearse was run into and damaged by an auto driven by a woman. It is getting so that our streets are not even safe for the dead.

Columbia university has made Andrew Mullen a doctor of laws. But Mellon is a doctor without any practice. He tried to prescribe a sure-cure tonic for American tax payers, but they threw him out of the clinic.

In the United States we have 44,000 automobile agencies, 50,000 public garages, 68,000 service stations and repair shops and 66,000 motor car supply stores. No wonder the unprotected citizen can't get by without buying an auto.

A woman banker says that the women of America are due the credit for the seven billion dollars that have been saved up and put into the banks. Of course, but didn't they spend some of the money that wasn't saved?

It was hard to get a republican to accept for the simple reason that the party leaders realize, deep down in their hearts, that the G. O. P. is going to have the daylight licked out of it at the November election. No man wants to lead a forlorn hope.

A famous detective says the way to undo a robber or stick-up man is to engage him in conversation and keep him talking—and soon he will become confused and depart. We never could talk very well when being robbed, but the detective is probably right. We shall hire a lawyer for future use in such emergencies.

Uncle Sam says it'd take 321 billion dollars to buy the United States and all its resources. Dr. Walter Ingalls, prominent statistician says the figure is too high—should be only 273 billions. But what are a few whillion among statisticians? More so to a public, few of whom ever saw as much as $10,000 together at one time.

LINES TO REMEMBER

The Christian religion is a matter of the heart, as well as the head. Men must be doers as well as hearers and believers of Jesus Christ.—Gypsy Smith.

What about an anti-Don't week, just for fun, some time?

Consider the high cost of war, a bonus is as cheap as dirt.

The standpatter is safe so long as he people will stand pater.

Every girl likes to wash dishes until she gets to be five or six years old.

Trouble-makers can do enough damage without the help of beer and wine.

With this year almost half gone many of us are feeling further gone than that.

Oven in aris shoes are being made of snake skins much to the disgust of the snake.

The fellow that has been hating to carry out the ashes has started hating to cut the weeds.

If you would be healthy and wealthy and wise never laugh at a woman with tears in her eyes.

The difference between a success and a failure is that one gives reasons while the other gives excuses.

A housing shortage is causing almost as much trouble in England as the rent shortage is in America.

With more than a thousand women at the Republican convention no conversation shortage is reported.

Immorality rather than immortality, seems to be the object of a very large number of people in these times.

Church denominations should cut no figure in the Democratic National convention, or in fact, any other convention.

A lot of public men become disgusted and get out of politics. Others stay in and still manage to get a lot out of it.

It has just about gotten so in this country that as soon as a woman gets an Occidental husband she wants an Oriental rug.

A Massachusetts court rules that a pedestrian is not obliged to jump out of the way of an automobile. Maybe—but it takes a lot of faith and stubbornness not to.

"Success is the thing," said Major Meritt, resigning his command of the world flyers in favor of Lieut. Smith. True—and sportsmanship is a pretty good thing too.

London and New York will soon be connected by telephone, but we don't believe the service will be much good if London keeps the same girl at central that is employed now.

It is suggested that we buy the "death ray" for a million dollars and then destroy the formula. But what assurance would we have that the inventor hadn't told his wife all about it?

A Maryland woman gave her spouse two fair chances to make good as a respectable and well-disciplined married man. She married him twice. But he's no good. She has been obliged to sue for divorce again.

Vegetarians have a novel argument in this: The crops of seven-tenths of the tilled land of American farmers are fed to animals. Meat-eating is an expensive habit. The argument on the other side is that meat is concentrated vegetables. Everyone, however, should eat less meat in summer. It's cold weather food. In warm weather nature intends us to eat vegetables, particularly leafy ones. That's why they grow them in summer instead of winter.

THE G. O. P. TICKET

The Republican national convention did the expected thing by nominating Calvin Coolidge for President and placing "Cussing Charley" Dawes on the tail of the ticket. It looks like a case of the tall wag dog, for General Dawes is an abler man by far than the man who heads the ticket, and possessed of much more attractive personality.

The G. O. P. platform is a hodge-podge of hysteria and protestations, profusely mingled with explanations that do not explain. Worse still, some of its planks are down-right cowardly.

If the Democratic party makes no mistake at the New York convention a great victory will be won at the November election.

This is our winning year. With a man like McAdoo or Governor Smith as the nominee we ought to pile up a majority even greater than that by which our party was defeated four years ago.

JUNE BRIDES

Events move rapidly in this life. No sooner has the May graduate passed into the wings than the June bride takes the center of the stage and claims the attention of the audience. And with her comes the fragrance of orange blossoms and bride's roses together with the interesting artifices and exultation of the little god of love. We could get along without graduates, in a pinch, but we couldn't get along at all without brides, either of the June variety or the January models. The little god of love, of whom the poets speak so confidently, has in later years proved a rather unreliable or inconstant creature. He leads thousands of honest and hopeful young couples to believe in his sincerity and endurance, only to see them breaking away from the home he assigned them to and hurry to the court house a little later. Every broken home is a tragedy, and Cupid by means of his coaxious and adroit diplomacy, is responsible for many mismatched marriages. Nevertheless, the brides we have always with us, the evil the day may be when brides shall be no more. In the meantime, we salute them, we give them our blessings, we bid them not to be too sophisticated for sentiment nor too generous for prudence. May all their lives be as June days, and all their lives as happy as their honeymoon. And this is not light summer friction, either.

SHERIFF'S SALE

State of Nebraska, County of Cass, ss.

By virtue of an Order of Sale issued by James Robertson, Clerk of the District Court, within and for Cass county, Nebraska, and to me directed, I will, on the 19th day of July, A. D. 1924, at 10 o'clock a. m. of said day, at the south front door of the court house, in Plattsmouth, Nebraska, in said county, sell at public auction to the highest bidder for cash the following described real estate, to-wit:

Three numbered one (1), two (2), lots (3) and four (4) except railroad right-of-way of the C. B. & Q. Railroad company, and except that part of Lot numbered two (2) lying south of the said railroad right-of-way; also that part of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter (SW 1/4 NW 1/4) described as follows: Commencing at the northwest corner of the southwest quarter of the northwest quarter (SW 1/4 NW 1/4) thence running east 666 feet, thence south 411 feet, thence north 411 feet, thence east 666 feet, to the north line of the C. B. & Q. R. Co. right-of-way to a point 289 feet south of the place of beginning, thence north 289 feet to the said place of from said parcel that portion thereof conveyed to the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad Company by Jh. Peter Keil and wife by deed dated October 7th, 1897, and recorded October 15th, 1897, in Book 32, at page 246 of the Deed Records of Cass County, Nebraska; also that part of the northeast quarter of the southeast quarter (NE 1/4 SE 1/4) lying north of the right-of-way of the C. B. & Q. R. Co., all of the above described lands being in Section thirty-six (36), Township thirteen (13), North, Range twelve (12); also that part of Government lot numbered six (6) in Section thirty-one (31), Township thirteen (13), North, Range thirteen (13) east of the Sixth P. M., lying north of the right-of-way of the C. B. & Q. R. Co., containing in all 172 acres, more or less, according to Government survey.

THE TWO-THIRDS RULE

None of the Democratic would-be President makers appears to be really eager to abandon the historic two-thirds rule as applied to the nomination of candidates for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency by Democratic national conventions. It is said that every leading candidate has had representatives in the Congressional library studying the records that throw light on the effects and potentialities of the two-thirds rule, but apparently the deeper the question is gone into the more doubtful do the managers of pre-convention campaigns become as to the wisdom of suspending the rule.

The supporters of McAdoo claim he is as good as nominated, yet they will not propose the adoption of a rule enabling a bare majority of the delegates to nominate ticket. The friends of Governor Smith profess equal confidence in the success of their candidate, but they are far from sure he would profit by the abrogation of the two-thirds rule. The numerous dark horses, hoping that the leading candidates will neutralize and beat one another, perhaps think that it would be just as easy for them to obtain a two-third vote as a mere majority.

It is true that only three times in the history of the Democratic conventions has a candidate for the Presidency possessing a majority of the votes required enlisted the additional votes required under the two-thirds rule. But, unfortunately from the point of view of certain uneasy candidates, the last of those occasions is disturbingly fresh in many memories and suggests painful possibilities.

In the Democratic convention in Baltimore in 1912 Champ Clark had a majority on many weary ballots. The nomination seemed to be within his grasp. But Mr. Bryan, then a Nebraska delegate, started a movement in favor of Woodrow Wilson, the second choice of the instructed delegation of his state and the rest is too well known to need retelling.

The fact is that in the Democratic camp all is still highly uncertain. That accounts for the almost daily entry of new candidates into the interesting.

The capital of Albania is about to fall. Well, things can stay on edge only so long and no longer.

Home Health Meeting

The fourth meeting of the "Home Care of Sick" series, which is being put on in the east half of the county, was held at Nehawka, Friday, June 13. All clubs, taking the work, were represented and a very profitable time spent. Miss Martin, Extension Specialist in Home Health and Hygiene was in charge.

Control the Potato Bug

One pound of Paris Green to 100 gallons of water; arsenate of lead, 4 to 6 pounds to 50 gallons of water, or one pound of Paris Green to 16 pounds of cheap flour thoroughly mixed and sifted on the vines while the bugs are small, are all good remedies.

Worms in Chickens

A number are having trouble with wormy chickens. A good remedy is to shut your chickens up and starve them for 36 hours, then feed the following ration. Dissolve a level tablespoon of kye in 3 quarts of water and pour this over a gallon of wheat and feed to them. This is enough for 11 hens or 22 chicks. Repeat in ten days.

YES, IT IS HOT

Yes, it's hot—hot as the very dickens. But why grumble? Just wipe off the sweat and go ahead.

The weather may not be to your liking, but there's nothing you can do about it. Fussing and fuming about the weather never raised or lowered the mercury one single degree.

It's better to console yourself with the homely philosophy of James Whitcomb Riley, "When the Lord sets out the weather and sends rain, then rain's my choice." This applies with equal truth to intense heat.

It's hot, yes, but crops are growing like the proverbial green bay tree.

It's hot, yes, but watermelons are turning red inside, and in a few weeks they'll be ripe and sweet.

It's hot, yes, but corn is growing while you sweat at night, tomatoes are taking on the color of a Maiden's cheek, and the blush is deepening on the peach.

It's hot, yes, but the hot flies are turning a golden yellow, and the ribbon cane is reaching its bright green leaves upward.

The first rule for Protective Lubrication clean oil in the crankcase

EVERY motorist knows that oil must be kept up to the proper level in the crankcase. But comparatively few worry about the cleanliness of the oil. As a matter of fact, the cleanness of oil and its body determine its lubricating and protective value.

Only clean oil can afford protective lubrication

Every stroke of the motor slightly contaminates oil. Road dust, carbon, un-consumed gasoline and moisture gradually collect in the crankcase oil. After five hundred miles operation the oil is diluted thin and contains hard powder which grinds and wears bearings and machined surfaces.

The only way to secure protective lubrication is to keep the motor supplied with clean oil of the proper body by employing and flushing out the crankcase every five hundred miles and refilling with fresh Polarine.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY OF NEBRASKA

Polarine

USE CORRECT GRADE

Consult the Polarine Chart before you buy oil. Get the grade recommended and you will save the cost of oil many times over in the lower cost of necessary repairs and in bigger mileage and power from your gasoline. Buy motor oil where you see this sign—five grades, light, medium, heavy, special heavy and extra heavy—a grade that provides protective lubrication for every make of car.
