BIBLE SCHOOL LESSON

Be Fair in Your Prayer

Golden Text: "Thy Kingdom Come Thy will be done.—Matthew 6:10.

Some preachers when they are endeavoring to raise money, appeal to the grosser impulses of man, rather than to the things which they should do. We have seen them asking for a ten dollar contribution and when one had subscribed to the amount, urged others to join that class, in order that they might receive just as much worldly glory as the other man and not have to step down to the five dollar class. This does not look right as they are obtaining money under worldly pressure which should be given with a full sense of the understanding that the cause for which they are giving the money is just, right and needed in the case. Such was the case when the rich men were casting their gifts into the treasury and then the poor widow came and cast her mite and all she had. "Verily, she has cast in more than them all," said the Master. For she in her poverty had done all she could and not for the matter of being seen by the world. This being done for the glory of man, said the made they will get and that alone for there will be no reward come from the Father for they have not given in the proper spirit. There are also many who love to make long prayers that they may be seen of men. Well do we remember when someone was visiting and his many words he multiplied in returning thanks, going over the catalogue of needs to the human race as well as the fact of praying for the Father, the Kaffir, the Zulu, and in fact all they could think of until their voice was raspy and who were waiting were getting hungrier every minute.

It is a fact that in the matter of prayer one must like in a court of law, pray with clean hands. A court with clean hands, that is when we pray we must be willing to give what we ask. When we want a clean slate we must be willing to count off our offenses.

As the Father knows well what we are needing, the spirit of prayer is the most essential thing that we need on earth as it is in heaven. Give us this day our daily bread, and forgive us our debts as we forgive our debtors. Lead us not in the way of temptation, but deliver us from the evil one. For thine is the kingdom, the power and the glory forever. Amen."

He then sums up the matter in this manner: Come into court with clean hands, for unless you forgive, you cannot be forgiven. Unless we are first with our fellow man, we need not expect justice from them only in the sense that we will be recompensed for our evil works.

When we say "Our Father," we must understand to be such we are his child, and must so live as to be a child of God. The Lord's prayer means a square deal for everyone, and when we say "Lead us not into temptation," we are not to go flirting around with those things which we know are tempting, like the man who was hunting work and praying for the Lord all the time that he would not find it. "Deliver us from all evil" does not mean that after we have said these words, we are at liberty to go nosing around making goo goo eyes at the devil and any of his family.

We must be square in our prayers, and we cannot pray, "Forgive us our transgressions," and then hold a grudge against our fellow man, for this proposition is aligned only on the proposition, that we are to be forgiven just as we forgive those who have transgressed against us, the most just and equitable proposition in the Universe.

In this spirit of true prayer, when we ask a prayer in a right way, and the Eternal Father will supply the way. God and America, expects every man to do his duty, and do his best. "Give us this day our daily bread" does not mean that we are to lay back with our mouths open like a robin before its eyes are open, and wait for them to be filled, but to get out and rustle for since the fall of man, we are expected to earn our bread by the sweat of our brow, and sometimes we must sweat all over. God will furnish the way, and supply the other requirements, but we must work. Also this daily bread is that which comes down from Heaven, even the Son of God Himself which came to rescue us from our sins, that is our very selves. The spirit of prayer must be right, and we must be square in our prayers and the Father is ever ready to do his part. "For God so loved the world, (the human race,) that he gave his only begotten son, that whosoever believeth on Him might perish, but have everlasting life."

Achievement Day The Women's club of the county who have been taking the "Food and Nutrition" and "Home Care of the Sick" work the past year, are planning a community achievement day. This is to be Friday, October 17th, at Weeping Water at the Congregational church.

At 10:00 a. m., the local project leaders will meet for the regular business meeting and final check-up. Then at noon all club members, their families and anyone interested in the work are cordially invited to dinner and to spend the afternoon. Also bring plate, cup, fork and spoon.

The best comes last. One thirty is the time set for the achievement day program. Each club will have some part in this program, either a short play, a stunt, a musical comedy, a recitation or something interesting to show something of the work they have been doing. There will also be some good community singing, a report or two and readings. Plan your work so that you can meet with these clubs Friday, Oct. 17th, from 11:30 on, and we feel safe in promising not only a day of entertainment and fun but it will be educational as well.
