BIBLE SCHOOL LESSON

October 19
By M. S. Briggs

Golden Text: "The Sower Soweth the Word."

The setting of this lesson is a most pleasant one. The sea of Galilee, which is a most beautiful inland lake some seven miles wide by eleven miles in length, with the water coming from the snow clad mountains of Lebanon, were clear and abounded with fish. The hills and mountains surrounding the sea of Galilee made a most beautiful place. In some places the mountains formed high bluffs along the shores, in other places the shore gradually receded from the water and fields of grain grew, beginning almost at the water's edge. There were no roads as we have them now but as most of the traffic was carried on camels and donkeys, the road was rather rough. The paths were had been generous in its distribution of hills and streams and rocks and trees but had made no well defined roads. So the people had to make the best of what they found in Nature and so the roads and trails often went through the wheat field and in many cases tramping out the grain which had just come up. This being the year of popularity of the Master many people flocked to hear and see him. So much so that they crowded upon him and he asked one of the fishermen to row him a little way in the lake, thus leaving the people on the shore and as the land rose from the water a natural amphitheater was made so all could see him as he sat in the boat and also hear him.

The Master must have loved the sea, the shore and the hills for he often reposed there. As he sat in the boat and looked at the people he saw the fields of growing grain, waving on the hillside, and he and they could see the wheat growing some good grain, some on this land very poor wheat, some scorched and dried out, other which had fallen on the roads. The birds had carried the seeds away. Then there were the paths where the feet of men and animals had tramped it out.

When all were attention he said: "Fearful! Behold, The sower went forth to sow and it came to pass as he sowed some seed fell by the wayside and the birds came and devoured it. Other fell on the rocky ground, where it had not much earth; and straightway it sprung up, because it had not much earth, and when the sun came up it was scorched and withered away. Others fell among the thorns and the thorns grew up and choked it and it yielded no fruit. And others fell into the good ground and yielded fruit, growing up and increasing and brought forth thirty-fold and sixty-fold and a hundred-fold. And he said, "Who hath ears to hear, let him hear." When he had so said they observed all the conditions in the fields as they spread out before them and how applicable it illustrated the parable which was then giving them.

Some fell by the wayside and the birds came and devoured it. That is, the seed is the Word of God and where it is sown the devil comes and snatches it away and no effect is made on the person. The grain which was sown on stony ground are they who received the word and with joy received it but had no depth of character and endured but for a little while and when persecution came were not able to withstand the scorn and bore no fruit.

Again that that fell among thorns are they that when they received the word were overjoyed and because of the over enveloping influence of business and deceitfulness of riches bore no fruit. There came the grain that fell on good ground, bringing forth some thirty-fold, some sixty-fold and some a hundred-fold. There they who with honest intentions received the word and with joy immediately began the service of the Master, becoming missionaries and carrying the message of salvation to the world, thus increasing their influence as the others whom they had been the instrument through grace of the great Jehovah in bringing into service. Also added to the returns of the word and thus becoming missionaries for salvation is workable only when it becomes missionary.

He that has ears to hear, let him hear. Still be careful what you hear for you shall be accountable for what you shall hear and allow to take lodgement in your mind and become a portion of yourself. It has been said that we are all a part and portion of all we meet. Then let us be that missionary that will work for the Master and not allow the evil one to overcome us for to the Christian is given the task of carrying the message of the everlasting love to the ends of the world.

THIEVES ARE AT WORK. From Monday's Daily—The Holy Rotary church on West Pearl street has been visited in the last few days by some sneak thief, who has stolen the linen used for altar cloths and also a small marble top table that was used on the altar. The parties who took these articles from the house of worship are certainly in very small business as the value is not large enough to make the stealing very profitable and if the parties are caught they will have to make settlement with the law for their violation.

Washington, Oct. 12.—It is costing taxpayers 1 million dollars a week because shipping board officials permit private interests to control government shipping and shunt cargoes into foreign hulls, William H. Johnson, president of the International Association of Machinists charged in a statement made public today at La Follette-Wheeler campaign headquarters.

"Though they know private interests are wrecking the merchant marine," Johnson said, "the shipping board officials have refused to correct the abuses."
