SO HE GATHERETH RICHES

As the partridge sitteth on eggs, and hatcheth them not; so he that getteth riches, and not by right, shall leave them in the midst of his days and at his end shall be a fool. —Jeremiah 17:11.

A large vote is predicted all over the country.

The people who support John H. Morehead can rest assured that he will do his duty.

Women may not have as much sense as men, but they quit wearing stiff collars years ago.

A few more days and then comes the tug of the ballots. Be sure you are right and then vote ahead.

Man has so thoroughly conquered the air that he can do anything up there if he has luck and nothing happens.

The Ku Klux Klan are sure to vote against any candidate that has condemned them. Wouldn't you do the same?

John N. Norton, democratic candidate for governor, at the court house next Tuesday night. Come and hear him.

One of the strangest things in this world, is how rapidly winter underwear goes to pieces when put away for the summer.

It must have taken a girl a long time to get out of the habit of getting into her knickers without silencing them over her head.

If you can't stop and think, just stop, and perhaps that will avoid an accident. It might be well, too, for the one that stops to give a signal.

The G. O. P., says Frank Walsh, has 10 sources of campaign funds. And undoubtedly two more can spring up for every one that is cut off.

This is the time of the year that more time and words are wasted by corner politicians telling folks how the other party is going to win the election.

Another reason why the wife of a man is so pleased when he brings unexpected company home to dinner is because Texas is smaller than Rhode Island.

To provide means for paying its officeholders, France has discharged 20,000 of them. That's a good example, one we could well afford to follow in this state.

A Milwaukee woman wants a divorce because her husband falls asleep at the movies. We had no idea that Will Hayes' reform campaign had progressed that far.

Next Tuesday, the next governor of the state, John N. Norton, will be here to address the voters. He is as fine an orator as there is in Nebraska and he should be greeted by a large audience.

When all the autos are run by alcohol, as Ford says they will be, there will be a big majority among those autolists who are bound to beat the Volstead act and who can't resist taking a drink from the fuel tank.

There is something in this law of compensation that Emerson expounded. The voteless people of Washington are out of it in politics in this campaign year, but with a pennant-winning team and a world series they are decidedly in it in baseball.

John H. Morehead has served the people in various positions. He has made good in everyone of them. And as governor for four years he made one of the very best. In Washington as our congressman, he has proved a man among men and as one true to his constituents.

Charlie Bryan points out that Senator La Follette has not been certified to the voters in enough states to win the presidency even if he carried all those states in which he has electors. In other words, you may be sure that enough traps and pits have been placed about the long green to keep anyone from dropping his ball on it from somewhere out in the rough.

school board, properly swayed by the popular demand, has rescinded its action, and Holden and his hose are to be unmolested in the future.

TOO CAUTIOUS

President Coolidge has learned that there is such a thing as being too silent and too cautious. Republican leaders have become convinced that he has gone too far in his policy of silence and caution and that the continuance of his policy has endangered the success of the republican party both in the presidential and in the congressional elections.

Pressure is to be exerted on him to reduce the tariff on sugar, to explain his attitude upon the Ku Klux Klan and to develop more fully his plans for agricultural relief.

These are questions about which the public is undoubtedly concerned. The presidential candidate for reelection would dismiss them all with a silent wave of the hand. But this would not settle these questions and it does not explain the president's personal stand upon them. This is not the way for a presidential candidate to meet issues in which the public is gravely concerned.

It has never been done before by a presidential candidate and we doubt if it can be done now. At any rate this policy of caution and silence has brought the republican leaders to a state of alarm and concern. The people generally do not propose to have the campaign come to an end without knowing how the president stands on matters in which they are deeply interested. More than likely the president will be forced to some sort of a public declaration before the campaign is over.

BEWARE THE TIDE

The status quo at Washington can not continue indefinitely, or even very long. Conceivably the present administration may win the November election though that is hardly possible. But with the voice of protest is silenced by that verdict? It is fatuous to think so. What of 1928, if we have four more years of cabinet corruption and incompetency or of the tariff abominations? Will not La Follette or a successor again appear and with legions of followers to the present movement's brigades? How many of us searching our souls today will say that we shall not be in the ranks of political revolt four years from now after another quadrennium of corruption and privilege?

There is a tide in the affairs of nations which, taken at its flood, leads on, as Mr. Davis solemnly assures us, "to destinies of which we little dream."

Beware that tide! Women don't play ball because the players are too far apart to talk.

If music is the language of love the saxophone player hates everybody.

At Elmsford, N. Y., the principal of the high school dealt with an unruly boy as unruly boys have been dealt with for all the years since boys began to be boys. He gave the unruly one a sound thrashing and the mother, as is the way of mothers, was filled with resentment and wrath. She appealed to the constituted authorities for redress, for consolation, and for condign punishment for the vigorous principal. The school board divided three to two against the principal, but the majority, wishing to make sure of its ground, called a town meeting so that all the people might express their approval of the board's judgment. Nearly every man, woman and child in Elmsford attended the meeting and opinion was almost unanimously against the board and in favor of the pedagogue.

Now it would not be so remarkable if the expression of opinion had been merely the voice of the elders, there are many among us who hold with earnest John Skelton that: "There is nothyng that more displeaseth God Than from their children to spare the rod."

To be sure, the rod is out of fashion just now, though there are ever so many old fashioned people. But it was scarcely to be expected that the pupils themselves would rally with vehement enthusiasm in favor of the rod wielder. Rally they did, and they brought placards and banners proclaiming their loyalty and affection for their principal and in concise phrasing upholding corporal punishment as desirable and beneficial. The principal's name is Holden and his implement of correction was a section of rubber hose. Some of the placards read: "We want Holden!", "Hose and Holden!", "We are 100 per cent for Holden!" There was not one among them to lift a voice in censure of their principal or his methods. Even the one whose mamma had stirred all the trouble kept discreetly silent. Probably he was sorry there had been any fuss made about it.

Such a demonstration of affection for old fashioned, rough-handed methods in educational discipline has seldom been paralleled. When school children demand that the rod (or hose) be not abolished there seems to be little ground for further discussion. And there will be no further discussion in Elmsford. The

Yes, times have been dull. The American people spent only 37,000 million dollars during September. As usual, the per cent of this grand total was in the form of bank checks that passed through the clearing houses.

RESULTS THAT REMAIN

Are Appreciated by Plattsmouth People—Read This Statement.

Thousands who suffer from backache and kidney complaint have tried one remedy after another, finding only temporary benefit. This is discouraging, but there is one kidney medicine that has earned a reputation for lasting results and there is plenty of proof of its merit right here in Plattsmouth.

Here is the testimony of one who uses Doan's Pills years ago, and now makes his testimony even stronger. E. M. Buttery, Tenth and Walnut streets, Plattsmouth, says: "A pain caught me through my hips so I could hardly raise a shovel of coal. At times there was a lameness across my loins. I had reason to believe these troubles were caused from a disordered condition of my kidneys. Hearing Doan's Pills spoken of, I got some. They gave me quick relief, which warrants me in speaking of the remedy in the most favorable terms."

Mr. Buttery gave the above statement June 11, 1906; and on May 12, 1920, he added: "My cure is a permanent one and I think Doan's Pills are fine. I am glad to recommend them to others." Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Pills—the same that Mr. Buttery had. Foster-Milburn Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.
