Education in Politics The Committee for the League of Women Voters has planned to meet each Friday afternoon in one of the rooms of the Murdock high school to study questions that are before the people; learn more about candidates seeking office, so that they will be informed for voting November 4th.

Visitors are welcome. Many topics of interest will be discussed at these weekly meetings. Two changes are made in the committee. Mrs. W. O. Scheve is in charge of the Evangelical ladies. Mrs. Henry Gakemeier is in charge of the Lutheran ladies. Mrs. Guy Lake has been added to the committee and has charge of Wash-bash and the southeastern corner of the precinct. Plans are being made for a speaker to address these several organizations in a mass meeting in the near future.

Enroll in Junior Red Cross Banded together in service, ready to do anything at any time for others, 23,598 school children in Nebraska, 967 schools, were enrolled in the Junior Red Cross during the past school year. That the value of this children's organization is being appreciated by teachers all over the state is shown by the fact that the membership is constantly increasing. One of the latest additions is the Murdock Consolidated schools.

These children have a record of activity back of them of which the state of Nebraska may be justly proud. Practically every county in the state has an active Junior Red Cross organization. At the beginning of each year their first effort is directed toward packing Christmas boxes for little children overseas who but for the thoughtfulness of Juniors would not have any Christmas at all. Nearly 700 boxes have been sent from this state since September. Letters of thanks from their little foreign mothers and sisters are received.

International school correspondence is a popular project of Juniors in this state. Good will and understanding is thus being promoted between children of many lands. Teachers have a growing appreciation of the educational and social values of the Junior Red Cross movement. It is fast becoming world-wide, nearly 5,000,000 school children being enrolled.

School Bonds Carry At the recent election for the voting of an additional $10,000 in bonds for the completion and equipping of the Murdock consolidated school, the bonds carried by a vote of 163 for them to 45 against them. This sum will pay for the completion of the entire building and its equipment and gives Murdock one of the best and most up-to-date school systems of any town of this size in the state.

Rev. Peters and Wife in Accident Rev. and Mrs. J. W. Peters, who have been visiting at Sidney for some time, where they were guests at the home of their son, Rev. Peters, of that place, who was chairman of the minister, were returning home during last week when they collided with another car near Lexington, with the result that both of the cars were almost demolished and Mr. and Mrs. Peters were badly injured and were taken to a hospital in Lexington, where they are being treated. Just how severely they are injured is not accurately known here as yet.

Change in Murdock Firm During the past week Gordon Block, who has been conducting the Murdock meat market, disposed of his holdings to Frank Bourke, formerly of Sioux City, who has taken charge of the business, and evinces a knowledge and disposition to give the best of service in this line to the people of Murdock and vicinity.

Vote for A. H. Duxbury for county judge. He is worthy of your support.

ENJOY HALLOWE'EN PARTY From Saturday's Daily—A very delightful Halloween party was given last evening at the Presbyterian church, the Misses Catherine McClusky and Laura Skalak being the hostesses to the members of their Sunday school class of which Miss Hartley is the teacher.

The invitations to the pleasant event did not disclose the identity of the hostesses and there was much guessing as to who the entertainers were to be as the young people arrived at the church. The members of the class were met by two ghostly garbed figures and after the first greetings the robes were removed and for the first time the guests were aware of the two hostesses who were tendering them the party.

By the use of screens a section of the church parlor was made very attractive with the use of the autumn leaves and black and orange costumes used in the decorative plan. Games of all kinds and the telling of fortunes was enjoyed by the young people and a class session was also held at which the election of officers was made, the following being chosen: President, Irma Mayfield; Vice president, Catherine McClusky; Secretary and treasurer, Ethel Quinton.

The members of the class were then invited to see a cozy room, the hostesses had arranged for their use in the future. All were delighted that they could hold their class sessions in a room all by themselves. The class will be known in the future as the "True Blues" as this name has been adopted by the class.

At a suitable hour appropriate refreshments were served with Halloween favors that added to the enjoyment of the occasion, and in serving the hostesses were assisted by Miss Sylvia Skalak and Mrs. McClusky. At an early hour the girls departed for their homes, feeling they had a very happy time.

INCOME TAX LISTS A PARTIAL SECRET

Open to Inspection in One Division, But Denied in Another—News-papers Not to Print Them.

Washington, Oct. 24.—After a night and day of conferences, during which they withstood an avalanche of inquiries, protests and pleadings for definite advice, Washington officials tonight found themselves almost where they started on the puzzle of whether or not newspapers might safely publish facts pertaining to income tax payments of the American people.

The only statement of a definite character forthcoming during the day was a warning by Acting Attorney General James M. Beck that any newspaper publishing the facts obtained from official lists opened to public inspection yesterday "must do so on its own responsibility."

There was open disagreement everywhere among officials of the department reaching the treasury. Persistent inquiries, seeking some specific construction of the two sections of law involved, usually met with a grin and the reply: "There are two sections; what can we do about it?"

Meanwhile confusion permeated the offices of the several collectors of internal revenue, who had different ideas as to the meaning of the law stipulating that the returns must be made available to public inspection.

In some offices, according to reports reaching the treasury, anybody might take a look at the official records, examine as many as they desired and take note of what figures they wished; in others, the privilege was restrained and the collector himself was passing on the reasonableness of the request to see the tax records.

Deluged by requests for some expression, Mr. Mellon, early today told inquirers that it was not the treasury's job to enforce the prohibitory section of the law; that its duty ended with the collection of the taxes tested under the statute's provisions.

C. D. Cummins and Attorney Clyde Drew of Omaha, were here today for a few hours looking after some matters of business.

Mrs. Emma Nims of Kansas City, is here enjoying a visit at the home of her brother, Julius A. Pitz, and family for a few days.

Eugene Sochor was a passenger this morning for Omaha where he will spend a short time.
