Couple Seeking Marriage License Here Compelled to Journey to Glenwood For Wedding.

From Saturday's Daily—
Having learned of the excellent and lasting qualities of the marriage ceremony that is handled by Judge A. H. Duxbury, there was a young man at the court house yesterday seeking nuptial bliss and for a time it seemed that the court was to have the honor of tying the second nuptial knot in a week, but alas, the Nebraska "barbed wire" marriage license law stood in the way.

The young man had traveled many kilometers to reach this city from the westernmost reaches of Cass county and brought with him a purse of silver with which to purchase the precious paper that would give the permission to say "I do," expecting without a doubt that the ceremony could be performed forthwith. He stated that on Sunday he expected to be speeding toward Kansas City and desired that his blushing bride accompany him on the journey and therefore asked Judge Duxbury to pronounce the words of happiness. The court explained to the young man that the legislators of Nebraska, who are now planning the enactment of a law prohibiting the return of those married in other states, under the ban of having their marriages declared null and void, had in 1923 enacted a law that the seekers after a marriage license must have their names and their application posted upon the walls of the temple of justice for a period of ten days and if at the conclusion of that time no one had appeared to speak against it that the license would be granted and the wedding ceremony performed. Great was the wrath of the aforesaid young man, but the court, bound by the laws enacted by the all-wise at Lincoln, was unable to give him any relief.

The last seen of the young man and his bride-to-be they were journeying eastward to where the city of Glenwood nestles among its picturesque hills, and where love and marriage are not so severely guarded as they are in this great agricultural commonwealth.

The old saying was that "Love laughs at locksmiths," but in this day and age the youth and maiden in the border counties of Nebraska can give the merry ha ha's to the wisecrackers of the legislature who would shackle the activities of Dan Cupid, by journeying to one of the nearby states.

FUNERAL OF MRS. O'ROURK

From Thursday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon the body of Mrs. Margaret O'Rourke of Omaha, arrived here on the 2:12 Burlington train and was met at the station here by a number of the old friends and neighbors, who accompanied the cortege to the Catholic cemetery west of the city, where it was laid to rest. At the grave Father M. A. Shine gave the last prayers of the church as this estimable lady was laid to the last long sleep.

The services at Omaha were held at 10:30 yesterday morning at the St. John's Catholic church of which the deceased had been a communicant, and the requiem mass was celebrated by Father Anderson, rector of the church. There were a very large number in attendance at the church and a great many of the Omaha friends and neighbors came on to Plattsmouth with the family for the last services.

Among the out of town persons attending the funeral were Mr. and Mrs. H. H. McCabe, Frank McCabe, James Dannehy and wife, Mrs. Matt Spader, William Shields, Miss Margaret Shields, Sam Cullen and wife, Mrs. Patrick McCallen, Miss Mary McCallen, T. L. Murphy and wife, all of Omaha; Father Farris, Aurora; Ed McHugh and Leonard Walling, of Falls City; J. E. McHugh and wife, of Murdock; Maurice McHugh and wife, of Atkinson, Kansas; Miss Mary McHugh and Miss Mary Margaret Walling, of Omaha.

PLEASANT BIRTHDAY PARTY

From Thursday's Daily: Little Miss Germaine Mason observed her twelfth birthday on Tuesday with a very pleasant gathering of the little school friends and playmates at her home on west Main street. The afternoon was spent in games and contests that served to pass the time most pleasantly and the guest of honor was presented with a large number of very beautiful presents that she will long cherish as remembrances of the little friends. At a suitable hour members of the party were regaled with very dainty and delicious refreshments served by Mrs. W. H. Mason assisted by Mrs. R. H. Fitch. The members of the party were: Maxine Clويد, Jean Hayes, Florence Nelson, Ruth and Helen Warza, Elizabeth Brown, Marie Kearns, Dorothy Higz, Zena Woodruff, Leona Hudson, Madge Garnett, Jean and Marjorie Fitch.

ADDRESSES HIGH SCHOOL

From Thursday's Daily—
This morning W. B. Banning, state senator from the Cass-Sarpy-Otoe district, was here for a few hours and at the morning convocation hour at the high school, gave a short talk to the students, telling in a very pleasing way the manner of the organizing of the state legislature, the procedure in the selecting of committees and the reporting of bills before the two bodies of the legislature and which gave the young people an insight into the ways that the state gets its laws.

At 12:30 this afternoon Senator Banning was the guest at luncheon of the Plattsmouth Ad club to discuss with them the measures that will be before the legislature relative to the improving of the highways and matters that are of interest to the commercial interests of the state.

BLA-A

Isn't human nature just too funny? As you can see this fellow isn't old enough to shave but here he is crying his soul out because his mama won't dress him like his big brother. You see he has already decided that just as soon as he has any say in his affairs, he'll be wearing a Kuppenheimer "U" suit. Poor devil he can't help how his mother dresses him.

"LINCOLN" MADE BY THE TYPICAL MOVIE MIRACLE

Billings is Great Artist and Has the Ability Which Makes His Lincoln True To Life.

It was out of Preston, Minn., that the man came who is nearest like Abraham Lincoln in appearance and who was destined to impersonate the immortal Emancipator in the most unusual screen production since the invention of the motion picture camera, "Abraham Lincoln," which opens at the Parmele theater next Wednesday for a four-day run.

Martha War was his mother's name, and she was born and raised in Cincinnati. She married H. O. Billings, a minister, formerly of New York, and a Shakespearean scholar, from whom their son, George A. Billings, doubtless inherited his talent for acting.

American and World war. He served in the Philippines under Lawton and Wheaton and was for two years a member of the famous Dorrington Scouts.

Previous to his coming to the screen, Mr. Billings had several years' experience on the speaking stage, in stock and repertoire companies, but he had never played before the camera until the day he was tried out for the Lincoln character by Al and Ray Rockett at their studio in Hollywood.

He was chosen from a field consisting of all the professional Lincolns in the United States, and his starting physical likeness to Lincoln was not his greatest asset, for he has proved to be that rarest of all actors—a natural player able completely to submerge his personality in his characterization.

The new Lincoln studied his role six months before appearing before the camera, and trained physically after the manner that made Abraham Lincoln so strong and mighty. He split wood at Sunland, Cal., where the Rockett company reproduced the famous log town of Salem, Ind.

No effort was ever made to picture the entire life and events of Abraham Lincoln until Al and Ray Rockett began in April, 1923, after research work covering eighteen months. This picture, the story for which was written by Miss Frances Marion, covers the time from the birth of Lincoln, February 12, 1809, to the events immediately following the assassination.

DEATH OF DAUGHTER
From Friday's Daily—
Miss Ruth Spangler passed away at Beatrice on Wednesday, January 23, 1925, after an illness from tubercular trouble covering a period of one year. She was the only daughter of J. C. Spangler of near Louisville and for a good many years, because of her health, she has lived in the state institution at Beatrice. The funeral occurred last Friday, conducted by Rev. David Simpson, pastor of the M. E. church, and consisted of a short service at the grave. The young lady's mother passed away February 5, 1923, and interment was in River View cemetery in the family lot. Her mother was Miss Katie Heim before her marriage, and the deceased leaves a large number of relatives and friends, besides her father and four brothers. The brothers are Dewey, Elmer, Ted and Ivan Spangler.—Louisville Courier.

A TIMELY WARNING!

All automobile owners who are operating their cars must now display plates for the year 1925. A violation of this order subjects the offender to a fine.
