Thirty-one Clubs Licensed Held Fifty-nine Boxing and Wrestling Bouts, Netting State $5,341.

The division of athletics (state boxing commission) collected and turned into the state treasury during the last eleven months the sum of $8,621.45, according to the report filed with State Auditor G. W. Marsh, of an audit made by State Accountant C. A. Sommer. This amount was made up of the following:

31 club licenses $1,075.00
397 individual licenses 2,294.75
Bout taxes 5,341.70

Total $8,621.45
Every club desiring to hold exhibition bouts must secure an annual license from the boxing commission. There were twelve clubs in cities exceeding 10,000 inhabitants paying a license fee of $50 each, and nineteen clubs in smaller towns paid $25 each.

The report contains a list of the licensed clubs. There were nineteen American Legions, three Elks, two Athletic associations and one each—Eagles, Nebraska National Guard, Knights of Columbus, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Macabees, and the Cuddey Packing company. Under the law a tax of 5 per cent of the gross receipts of every bout has to be paid to the state. During this eleven month period there were held a total of fifty-nine boxing or wrestling bouts and the 5 per cent state tax paid totaled $5,341.70. The individual amounts vary greatly. The highest tax received from any bout was $486.55, the smallest amount $2.70.

All those wishing to participate or officiate at any bout must take out an individual license, and the states revenue from this source was $2,294.75, made up as follows:

225 contestants, @ $5.00 $1,125.00
36 managers @ $10.00 360.00
22 physicians @ $10.00 220.00
22 referees @ $10.00 220.00
21 timekeepers @ $5.00 105.00
33 seconds @ $5.00 165.00
39 amateurs @ 25 cents 9.75

397 individual licenses $2,294.75
The total revenue collected by the division of athletics since the beginning of the biennium, July 1, 1923, amounts to $18,271.74. To pay the expenses of the commission there was appropriated the sum of $12,000 for the biennium. The expenditure to date covering about twenty months totals $8,935.95.

HAS REAL RELIC

While the work of repairing the wagon and auto bridge over the Platte was being carried on a few weeks ago, there was washed up out of the sand and waste material gathered around one of the ice breaks, a relic of one of the old time residents of the Nebraska plains. This was the horn and a portion of the skull of a buffalo that has probably lain imbedded in the sands of the Platte for many, many years, to be recovered in the sudden rise in the river and the unusually heavy ice movement that had caused the sand near the piers to be very much stirred up. The horn was recovered by Mr. Pollock and is now retained as a remembrance of the early days when the buffalo was king in the great western domain. In the early days the vicinity of the Platte was occupied by the Indian tribes as well as the buffalo as one of the choice watering places of the middle west, and here some of the large Indian hunting parties took place.

DEATH OF FORMER PLATTSMOUTH BOY OCCURS SATURDAY

Willard Gouchenour of Missouri Valley, Iowa, Killed When Struck by Falling Tree.

From Wednesday's Daily—
The news of the death of Willard Gouchenour, twenty-three years old, former Plattsmouth boy, has been received here by relatives and friends of the unfortunate man.

The young man was killed while he was engaged in cutting down a large walnut tree near his home Saturday noon. The tree caught Willard and pinned him beneath its weight, slowly crushing out his life and he was dead when the rescuers were able to release him from beneath the tree.

The deceased young man was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gouchenour and was born in Plattsmouth in 1902 and lived here with his parents until seven years ago when they moved to the vicinity of Missouri Valley to engage in farming. The deceased man was known to a large number of friends of his school days and who regret most sincerely to learn of his death. He was a member of the First Methodist church at Missouri Valley. He leaves to mourn his death the parents, three sisters and eight brothers, all of Missouri Valley, an aged grandmother, four uncles and aunts of this city.

The funeral services were held Tuesday at Missouri Valley and were largely attended by the many friends who were saddened by the death of their loved one. Mrs. Sarah Gouchenour of this city, grandmother of the boy, as well as John, Harry and Claude Gouchenour of this city, uncles of the young man were in attendance at the funeral.

WOMAN'S CLUB MEETING

The Woman's club held their business meeting at 7:30 last Friday evening at the Presbyterian church, with Mrs. P. J. Flynn presiding.

Following the reading of the minutes and treasurer's report, the delegates to the district convention to be held in Plattsmouth March 31 to April 2, inclusive, were elected, as follows: Mrs. P. J. Flynn, Mrs. L. L. Turpin and Miss Mae Murphy, with Mrs. A. J. Beeson and Mrs. Luke Wild as alternates.

Following adjournment of the business session, Mrs. Robert Reed rendered two pleasing piano numbers. In the absence of Mrs. Chase, program leader, Mrs. Flynn introduced Prof. Joseph G. Masters as the speaker for the evening. In his excellent address on Americanization he gave a totally different view than that usually taken. Instead of only Americanizing the foreigner, he said we must Americanize ourselves, make of ourselves better citizens and that it would be through education that this could be done. Not education of the mind and body alone, but of finer, inner and spiritual nature as well. Spiritual education does not consist merely of form or dogma, but must be lived and breathed in true religion in the home. One very pointed remark in his address was that he envied that citizen who knows his own history and who knows his own problems ten years, or twenty years or forty years from now, if he were still alive, as new peoples and new problems must ever confront us in the coming years. Also, if we are to have true democracy (as we claim to wish to have) we must get away from that small feeling of superiority of those who may have a little more of worldly goods or a little higher position than the other fellow. Following the close of the address, "America" was sung by those present.

Those who did not attend the meeting in the evening at the church, or the talk given at the High school auditorium in the afternoon on Nehard's new epic, "The Song of the Indian Wars," missed two wonderful and enlightening addresses. It seems pitiful that when efforts are made to bring good subjects and splendid speakers before the public without a cent of cost to them, they do not take advantage of their opportunity and only a small number greet the speaker as on last Friday evening.

BURLINGTON VICE PRESIDENT BACK FROM VACATION

E. P. Bracken Visits Lincoln After Trip to South America; Looks For Better Conditions.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Vice President E. P. Bracken of the Burlington railroad, spent most of the day in Lincoln looking over company property on a regular inspection trip that will include the Colorado, Wyoming and northwestern Nebraska lines of the road. During the day he inspected the plans and location for the new stock yards plant, other work being done at the Lincoln terminal and took a trip to the Havelock shops. Mr. Bracken was accompanied by Mrs. Bracken and General Manager Flynn of Omaha.

Mr. Bracken has recently returned from a trip to South America via the Panama canal. He went for a recreation and sightseeing trip and was much gratified at the evidence seen in the south of industrial expansion and business growth. There is a real business revival in the southern states, and he hopes that it will soon reach the north.

"We are hoping for a part of the expansion and business growth to reach Burlington territory. We are eager for a good crop and a growth of business during the coming year, but I wonder if we haven't set our sights too high when I look back over Nebraska business years and realize that the volume we are doing now would have been considered mighty good in some other years. We are hoping, however, for a greater business and continued growth.

"The Burlington is spending some money in improvements that will make it possible to handle a greater business at a less average cost. So much money can be spent in that way that it is hard to get money for anything that will not show immediate returns in revenue or reduction of transportation cost."

Mr. Bracken said the Burlington escaped serious damage in the Illinois storm. Losses to the railroad because of that tornado might reach something like $8,000 a small item compared to the damage done in the territory through which the storm passed. Heavy steel coal cars were lifted from the tracks and carried three hundred feet through the air.

The normal amount of business is moving over the railroads in this part of the west at the present time, but a great deal larger volume could be profitably handled. It is the larger volume that railroad executives are anticipating.

WIN THE OVERALLS

From Tuesday's Daily—
The east show window of the Philip Thieroff clothing store has for several days past had on display a large pair of overalls that to the casual observer seemed more to resemble a tent rather than overalls. The public were invited to make guesses on this mammoth pair of overalls and as the result of the very large number of guesses received, E. C. Harris and Leslie Neil were found to have both made the correct guess of the size, 72x72 being the dimensions of the garment. As the result of their good guessing the two gentlemen will each receive a pair of overalls from the store.

EFFECT ON GUARD OF DENIAL NOTED

Officials Probe Probable Result of Curtailment of Their Funds By Coolidge.

Washington, March 24.—War department officials are making a careful investigation to determine the effect upon national guard efficiency and training that might result from denial to the guard of the deficiency appropriation of $1,332,000 for armory drill payments between now and June 30.

President Coolidge has directed that, pending study of the question, no allotments shall be made nor expenditures authorized under that appropriation, which was in excess of budget recommendations to congress. The war department's examination of the situation seems likely to touch upon legal aspects of the question as well as to develop the degree to which efficiency of the state troops might suffer if the full schedule of armory drills should not be carried out. It is considered possible that claims against the department for national guard payment might be made on the theory that guardsmen, upon enlistment, entered into a contract with the government which imposed obligations upon both parties, including payment for services rendered under the law.

SHOWS EFFECT OF ILLNESS

From Tuesday's Daily—
Warren Tulene, who has for a period of several weeks been quite sick at his home in the west part of the city, was down town today for the first time, being called as a witness in the case of the State of Nebraska vs. C. G. Fricke and still bears the marks of his serious illness.

Mr. Tulene was taken sick a very few days after his return from a visit in California with relatives and has been confined to his bed for the greater part of the time with attacks of stomach trouble and is still very weak. It is hoped that he has now passed through the worst of his case and will soon be able to be on the highway to recovery.
