The Fellow who has Plenty of Sand isn't Afraid of Slipping

No young man would look forward to inheriting a farm, if his father had made a failure at the business.

But maybe it wasn't altogether the father's fault—suppose, for instance that he raised dairy cows and his neighbors bought margarine instead of butter.

Let's help our farmers to market their products by creating a demand for them — by using their products.

The car will make a most useful and convenient.

Murray School Receives Banner. Last fall and winter the seven Christian churches of Cass county entered into a contest for seven consecutive weeks, taking the average attendance for the past year and also the average offering for the same period as a basis, made a drive for a gain and the school of Murray was the winner in both contests for attendance and offerings. The roads were very bad for a number of weeks and in fact it went into months before it was gotten around to make the presentation of the banner to the Murray Sunday school. Last Sunday evening it was arranged to have a county meeting and the presentation of the banners. The meeting was presided over by the Rev. Walter Raymond Robb, pastor of the church at Plattsmouth. The discourse was delivered by the pastor of the Weeping Water church, the Rev. Bradley. It was intended that there should have been a number of social numbers but many had to be eliminated as the time was consumed with other things. The church building was crowded to the limit, not only seating capacity, but standing room was at a par.

Cyrus Livingston, a member of the Weeping Water church and bible school and a very enthusiastic worker in both, had been selected to make the presentation address, while the Rev. E. Goings, pastor of the Murray church, responded with some cheering words and expressing the thanks felt by all of the Murray church and bible school. There were delegations from all churches in the county with a single exception, those of the leading countries are now more heavily taxed than at any time in all history. Never was there such an inhuman burden borne by the people of the world. It is causing more misery and more demoralization than we are willing to admit; second, notwithstanding this burden, the military establishments of the different nations are the heaviest and most expensive ever before known except

BIBLE SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday, April 5, 1925. By M. S. Briggs

The First Revival Meeting. Golden Text: "Repent ye and be baptized every one of you in the name of Jesus Christ unto the remission of your sins and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit."

Billy Sunday is a great preacher; he stirs the multitudes, makes men think, makes them act. He has conducted many revival meetings and has done much good, for he has been the means of the salvation of many people. He has been the means of doing much good in the world. Many have wondered at his power and success, but no more than many could do were they as consecrated as is this minister. The great revival and awakening caused by Rev. Sunday's preaching was in no way so great as was his first revival at pentecost. Peter preached with such amazing power. This was in fulfillment of the promise of Jesus Christ when he had commanded the disciples to remain in Jerusalem until they should be given power from the God of heaven and earth. When Peter came up to preach, he had many very close listeners. He told the people that they had crucified the Son of God and that he had come in fulfillment of a prophecy. He, though only a rugged fisherman, was able to tell those who came to him that they had murdered the Messiah. Peter lays the crime to all the people, for the same multitudes who had one day sang, Hosanna, in but a short time cried: "Crucify Him, Crucify Him." He did not hold any of them guiltless; they were consulting to the death of the Savior whom in reality the Roman soldiers show through at the behest of the Jewish people and at the suggestion of the Jewish church officers. When brought face to face with their crime, for they were crucifiers, they cried: "What shall we do to be saved from our sins?" They seemed to understand that sorrow for what they had done and that they could not undo it, was not enough to entitle them to forgiveness and salvation. Peter answered: "Repent every one of you; turn from your sinful and wicked ways; be baptized for the remission of sins and ye shall receive the gift of the Holy Spirit. This means that their lives are regulated by what they do and that they have that Spirit indwelling in them which transforms them from sinners and other wicked acts to good citizens who are determined to use the remainder of their lives to bear the message of the Master to a lost world and to make the world better for their having lived in it, and that what they could do to further the work of the Christ. Peter said this message is to you and to your children, to your neighbors, to those afar off, to such as God may call and his calling shall be through the message which you shall take. Peter said, "Save yourselves from this wicked generation, from this wicked age."

Many received the word as it was vigorously proclaimed by Peter. They accepted the terms of salvation and were baptized in the name of the Lord Jesus. There were added to the church at this time 3,000 souls. While there was no running stream except the brook Kidion, there were many pools both inside and outside the walls of Jerusalem. This baptism with a dozen men engaged would require a number of hours and each baptizing one a minute would baptize less than 800 an hour. Jesus had said just before He had ascended up into heaven, "Go ye out to all of the world, preach my gospel to all nations. He that believeth and is baptized shall be saved, but he that disbelieveth shall be condemned." That is the condemnation already resting on them shall not be removed. They preached fellowship. The breaking of bread, the Lord's Supper, which was instituted in the upper room, the evening before the crucifixion. The people fraternized, they had everything in common, they cared for the needy. Many sold their possessions and gave the money to the church and it was used for caring for the poor. This revival which bore fruit for the 3,000 people who became members of the church, became workers to the effect that many more were added to the church on account of the earnestness of those who were members. Thus the church grew and thrived and so it will now when the people are in earnest regarding carrying the message to his neighbor and fellow worker.

HERRIOT AND HIS OPPONENTS HAVE ANOTHER JANGLE

French Deputies Aroused by Remark of Premier to One Member Crippled in War.

Paris, March 31.—Premier Herriot, explained in the chamber of deputies today that the government's religious policy in Alsace was for the purpose of unifying the recovered provinces with France, declaring that Alsace "ought to be made to live under the same laws as those under which all Frenchmen live."

The premier and the opposition had another jangle and M. Herriot was called "liar" by several of the deputies when he accused the war crippled deputy M. Join Lambert of menacing him. There was real trouble over a low-voiced exclamation attributed to the premier—"what's that, epileptic"—which the opposition considered addressed to Join Lambert. Several of the opposition deputies started to leave the chamber in protest, but M. Painleve, the president, quieted things by suspending the session, although he became so excited that he forgot to put on his top hat as a signal, according to custom.

M. Maginot, former war minister, in the name of the opposition demanded a retraction and apology and the censure of the premier. M. Herriot neither admitted nor denied that he had made the offending exclamation but retorted with indignation against the opposition's charges of "shame." The debate on Alsace passed with comparative peace the premier speaking constantly of his desire to be friendly and conciliatory. But when it came to an interpellation on the arrests of students on Saturday and the alleged brutality of the police and the government's political interference in the University of Paris by appointing Georges Scelle, the principal secretary of Ministers Godart, to a professorship, the debate became acrid and personal.

BORAH FOR ACTION IN LIMIT ON ARMS

Chairman of Senate Committee Believes in Going Ahead Regardless of the French Attitude.

Washington, March 31.—Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, declared in a statement today that the move for a new arms limitation conference should go forward notwithstanding "discouraging" reports from France.

Emphasizing the economic benefits that would accrue to the world from further reduction of the burden of armaments, he said he felt sure France would "take an interest in a disarmament conference which would tend to bring about a sounder economic condition of affairs."

The Associated press dispatch from Paris today said that although the French ambassador in Washington had received no special instruction the French government had little interest in present plans for a second conference, because the French navy already had been reduced below the ration fixed by the first Washington conference, and that its acceptance of an invitation to another conference would be dictated by its deference to the United States. Neither the state department nor the white house, meanwhile, had received any official information bearing on France's attitude toward the plan.

Senator Borah, at several conferences recently with President Coolidge and Secretary Kellogg has discussed the conference and pledged his support to the undertaking.

There are two outstanding undisputed facts in connection with the disarmament movement, the chairman said. "First, that the people in all of the leading countries are now more heavily taxed than at any time in all history. Never was there such an inhuman burden borne by the people of the world. It is causing more misery and more demoralization than we are willing to admit; second, notwithstanding this burden, the military establishments of the different nations are the heaviest and most expensive ever before known except
