

STATE OFFICIAL OF NEW MEXICO SHOT IN LONELY CANYON

Chief Tax Commissioner is Found Wounded by Bullet, Makes Vague Statement.

Santa Fe, N. M., April 7.—Byron O. Beall, recently appointed chief tax commissioner by Governor Hannett, was found in a canyon five miles from Santa Fe today, suffering from a bullet wound.

Beall was brought to a hospital here. The wound was described by physicians as serious, but Beall is expected to recover unless complications develop.

Beall left here this afternoon, he said, for a drive up the Santa Fe canyon. When Ranger Pinson found the wounded man, he was sitting by the roadside near his automobile.

Pinson notified forestry officials by telephone and a physician responded and removed Beall to a Santa Fe hospital. A glass window of Beall's car had been shattered by the bullet.

Beall, a prominent democrat, formerly served as secretary to the state tax commission, as speaker of the legislative house, and as secretary of the state democratic central committee.

Saint contended Beall could not qualify under a recess appointment, lacking senate confirmation, but yesterday an agreement was made whereby Saint relinquished his claim and Governor Hannett would withdraw charges of incompetency.

BIBLE SCHOOL LESSON

The Cripple Restored

"I am Jehovah that health thee."—Exodus 15:26.

There were many cripples in the east in the days in which this lesson is laid. With no other way of making a living except begging, they sought the more advantageous points for their craft.

There were many people passed in and out and while the donations were probably small the number made up for their size. This temple was the third Solomon had built, the first one from material which David, his father, had collected, but which David himself was not permitted to build on account of his having shed so much blood in the wars which ravaged Israel for many years.

Then Peter when he had the cripple's attention, said, "Silver and gold have I none, but what I have I give unto you. In the name of Jesus Christ of Nazareth, walk."

Peter said unto the cripple, Look on us, to give money is one thing; one might give money and think nothing about it. To toss a coin to one and go on is a light thing.

Never in his life had this man walked; he was a cripple from birth, when Peter commanded him to walk. He also extended him a strong right hand with a warm, cordial, friendly, encouraging clasp, assisting him to arise and as he did so the man's faith grew with leaps and bounds, for he immediately leaped and bounded running and praising God.

How different from tossing a coin or a piece of money was this personal touch, this inspiration, this faith building act of this disciple of the Lord. This was service, the kind that the Master taught for he touched the bier on which the son of the widow of Nain was being carried and he arose. He took hold of the hand of the mother, Peter's wife and she arose from the dead and ministered unto them.

This business of service is retroactive as is illustrated by this story: George Dean, who was unused to hard rowing, was out on the lake near six miles from shore when John Fowler, a hardy fisherman like this rugged Peter, came along and seeing Dean, though a stranger, was about given out, offered to tow Dean's boat behind his own.

Every person should recognize God as the Giver of all temporal and spiritual blessings. God has entered into partnership with man. God furnishes the sunshine, the rain, the winds, the fertile soil, gives man life, strength and the use of all nature and shares with the man the blessings. Man sometimes is thankful, sometimes not. The very least any of us can do is to express our thankfulness.

Christianity means a new aspect of life. The facts in life are different to us the people are different, the change makes all men our brothers and we see in everything something to be thankful for.

NEW TRANSLATION OF BIBLE EVERY YEAR SINCE 1900

Awakened Interest of People in the Testaments Has Sponsored New Translations.

There have been over twenty-five new translations and revisions of the Bible since 1900, according to the Rev. Dr. John Fort Newton in the April International Book Review. The awakening interest in the Testaments is fostered by the desire of people for a guide in this age of confusion.

"A new translation of the Bible has more than once meant a renewal, if not a revolution, in the life of the people," Dr. Newton says. "And the extraordinary fact of our time is the new interest in the Bible, a desire to hear and understand its truth, if so it may once more heal the hurt and heartache of humanity, and give guidance to a bewildered age, groping its way with no common faith and no spiritual program."

Since 1900, not less than twenty-five new translations or revisions of the New Testament have appeared three-fifths of them in America. Taken together, they make a rich gift to our generation, as much to the plain man who wants to know what the Master did and said in words he can understand, as to the scholar who will revel in new felicities of phrase and niceties of thought. In four, there is an effort to escape from the unnatural form in which the gospel has hitherto been printed.

TREASURER BALKS PAYING INCREASES IN STATE SALARIES

Holds Money Not Appropriated, Tax Levy Insufficient to Meet Grants.

Lincoln, Neb., April 6.—Governor McMillen's administration received another solar plexus jolt this morning when State Treasurer Charles A. Robinson walked into the state finance department and said he would refuse to honor warrants drawn on the state treasury for the increased salaries of code secretaries as authorized by the governor.

The treasurer's theory is that no money has been appropriated to meet this increase. He holds that the tax levy made a year ago was calculated only to raise the money called for by the appropriations made at that time by the legislature of two years ago.

Warrants will also be registered to cover the more than 7 hundred thousand dollars worth of claims contained in the general debt bill passed at this session, Robinson said. "The session of the legislature two years ago became so involved in partisan jockeying that they refused to recognize that these debts existed," he told the World-Herald today.

POTASH IMPORT COST FOR AMERICAN FARMER LOWER

Washington, April 7.—E. K. Howe, president of the Potash Importing corporation of America, today asserted that the import cost of potash for American farmers has been lowered rather than increased as a result of the combine of German and French potash interests, reported recently in Washington and Berlin dispatches. Howe based his statement upon cabled dispatches from Berlin and
