INSECT PESTS EVER READY TO CRASH ON OUR SHORES

Washington, April 21.—Millions of dollars now are being spent annually to control plant diseases and insect pests in this country, and prevent the entry of others from foreign lands.

The federal horticultural board of the department of agriculture, which has this work in hand, estimates that from $5 to $9 per cent of the real insect pest problems are due to foreign importations. Prominent among the insects are the gypsy and brown-tail moth, which entered from Europe; the Japanese beetle, from Japan; the cotton boll weevil from Mexico; the European corn borer, from Europe, and the San Jose scale, from China.

Quarantines within the United States itself are maintained, prohibiting, for instance, the movement of cotton from isolated points in Texas, where infection has been found; corn and broom corn, sorghums and sudan grass from infested areas in Vermont, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Michigan, on account of the European corn borer; and in certain counties in New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, because of the Japanese beetle, which affects farm products between June 15 and October 15.

STORK IS PARTIAL TO FARM COUNTRY

Many More Children Born in Agricultural Districts Than in the Cities and Villages.

New York.—The birth rate in the farming areas of the United States is 52 per cent greater than in the cities and 24 per cent greater than in the villages, according to a report published today by the institute of social and religious research of this city, which gives under the title, "A Census Analysis of American Villages," the result of the first tabulation ever made of the United States census data for villages. By villages is meant communities having from 250 to 2,500 inhabitants.

The figures in the report show that at the last census period the average number of children to each 100 married women between fifteen and forty-five years of age in villages was 157, as compared with 128 in the cities, while in the distinctly farming areas the average number was 195.

The population in the villages is shown by the report to be very different in its composition and characteristics from the population in the strictly farming areas. The analysis shows, for example, that in the country's farm population there are 109 men to every 100 women, while in the villages there are only ninety-five men to each 100 women. Basing his criticism on these and other differences, Dr. C. Luther Fry, the author of the report, questions the validity of the census procedure, which makes no distinction between the data for villages and data for the rest of the rural population.

The report states that the census data for 1.75 per cent of the 10,225 villages in the United States having populations between 250 and 2,500 were tabulated and analyzed in the study, and that this sample was carefully selected to include representative villages in the middle west, south, and the far west.

APPLE EXPORTS AIDED BY CANAL

Direct Shipment From the West Coast Unloaded in Good Condition.

Washington.—European consumption of American apples has been measurably encouraged during the last year through the development of direct shipments from Pacific coast ports through the Panama Canal, Ed. Smith, foreign representative of the United States Department of Agriculture who is making a survey of European fruit markets, reports.

The consensus in Rotterdam and Hamburg, as well as in the large port markets of Great Britain, he says, is that Panama ships land their cargoes of American apples in good condition, and that all of the larger markets look forward to these shipments.

Buyers at the port auctions in Great Britain, Holland, Germany and Denmark are reported to prize this fruit because it reships well to interior points and can be held in stock. This attitude is evidenced by brokers as well as by wholesale buyers. In fact, some of the cargoes from the refrigerator ships are left safely on the quays for a period of several weeks.

There has been considerable comment as to whether heavy Panama cargoes discharged and sold on top of the regular arrivals from New York have tended to depress prices in foreign markets, but Mr. Smith has found that coincident with the arrival of these cargoes the market has usually shown increased strength rather than weakness, due to the good condition of such arrivals.

There is need, however, he declares, for greater co-operation among shipowners in co-ordinating sailings. He says that a feeling of confidence should be instilled in buyers that these ships will arrive at fairly uniform periods with cargoes of superior quality and condition.

It is said that with the advent of the Panama route with large refrigerator ships carrying cargoes of well over 100,000 boxes direct from Vancouver, Seattle, Portland and San Francisco under variable schedules, it has been difficult for exporters to gauge supplies.

PHONOFILM SHOWN OF COOLIDGE TALK

Publishers in New York See and Hear Coolidge at Capital by New Device.

New York, April 21.—More than 500 publishers from all parts of the country saw and heard President Coolidge deliver an address to them tonight, although the president was in Washington.

This remarkable feat was made possible by the use of the phonofilm, an invention of Dr. Lee De Forest. The phonofilm reproduces both the appearance and the voice. Dr. De Forest personally superintended the taking of the record.

The publishers were assembled at the Friars club at the annual dinner given by M. Koeligsberg, president of King Features Syndicate, Universal Service and International News Service.

The president was shown on a screen at one end of the banquet hall, standing and speaking from the south portico of the White House. Every action and voice inflection was reproduced exactly.

The speech was broadcast from stations WJY in New York and WRC in Washington.

This is the first time that a speech from the phonofilm has ever been broadcast.

THREE-YEAR-OLD COW MAKES BUTTER RECORD

A new butter record for cows in the 3-year-old class in Colorado has just been made by a member of the Modern Woodmen Sanatorium dairy herd at Colorado Springs. This cow, Jewess Aggie Pontiac Ook, completed a 365-day test under the supervision of the Colorado College of Agriculture with a mark of 26,625.6 pounds of milk and 854.08 pounds of butterfat, which, according to the advanced registry department of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, is equal to 1,067.6 pounds of butter. The state record in this class was previously held by a member of the same herd.

TUBERCULIN AREA WORK TO BEGIN

Reorganization of Tuberculosis Eradication Under New Law Enacted by Recent Legislature.

H. J. McLaughlin, secretary of the department of agriculture, issued orders effective April 20, declaring certain counties in Nebraska areas for the eradication of tuberculosis from cattle. These counties are: Burt, Butler, Cass, Dakota, Dawson, Dodge, Douglas, Gage, Polk, Sarpy, Saunders and Thayer.

This action by the secretary is under provisions of a law passed by the recent legislature, which gives powers and outlines the arrangement to be followed by the secretary in operating more effectively to eradicate tuberculosis from livestock. With the exception of Dawson and Cass counties, all of these are declared areas because more than 60 per cent of the herds of breeding cattle had been tuberculin tested under supervision of the state and federal bureaus of animal industry prior to the enactment of the present law.

Lincoln, Neb., April 21.—Former Governor Charles W. Bryan is leaving Nebraska for Florida, as did his brother before him.

This doesn't mean, however, the former governor insisted tonight, on spending my winters in Florida, as I did this winter.

Asked whether it was true, as rumored, that he intended to go into the real estate business in Florida with his brother, W. J. Bryan, under the firm name of "Bryan Brothers, Realtors," the former governor said he was a vice presidential candidate equivocated by saying that it is "of ten customary for people who go to Florida for the winter to go into business there."

This is quite a common occurrence in Florida, he explained. "Many people who go there for the pleasure of mild weather in the winter time, take their businesses Governor James A. Cox of Ohio, democratic presidential candidate in 1920, is an example. Governor Cox bought a newspaper in Florida and is building a fine new building in which to house it. The building reminds me of Nebraska's new capitol."

"Things Yet to Do" "But remember that I'm retaining my legal residence here," the former governor added. "I still have a few things to do in Nebraska."

The decision to spend his winters in Florida and his summers on the chautauqua platform is the same decision made by William J. Bryan several years ago, and for seven or eight years after he left the state with his household effects, the commoner retained his nominal political residence here, returning every two years to vote. Finally, however, the lure of Florida became too much for him, the last of the old ties were broken, and he moved his legal residence also to Florida.

The star that lured the Commoner to Florida, it was said, was the health of Mrs. Bryan. The star which is luring his brother away now, the political gabbers were whispering tonight, is the wealth of Mr. Bryan. Mr. W. J. Bryan, ex-Commoner, now reported a realtor millionaire.

OLD TIME SPELLING BEE Spellers from four states—Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa and Nebraska—will meet in an old-fashioned spelling bee at the new Technical high school building at Omaha on May 8 to determine the champion speller of these states.

The tests will be both written and oral and it is expected that at least one and probably two champions from each county will enter the meet. The contest is open to all public school children from the eighth grade down and will be conducted by R. W. Eaton of Omaha.

Under the stipulation of the contest, a list of 1,000 words, selected by Mr. Eaton, will be mailed to each contestant. He or she will have sufficient time to become acquainted with their construction. Then the contestants will enter the two tests—the oral and the written tests. After the selected list of words has been exhausted, Mr. Eaton will pick difficult words at random in an attempt to pick out the interstate champion.

DECISION NEAR IN DAUGHERTY CASE

Washington, April 19.—The supreme court will meet tomorrow to hand down a number of important opinions, including probably a decision in the celebrated case of the senate versus Mal Daugherty.

Daugherty is a brother of former Attorney General Harry M. Daugherty, and as president of a bank in Ohio, he refused the senate committee which investigated the Department of Justice the right to examine the books of his bank and declined to appear as a witness. The committee sought to learn what deposits had been placed in the bank by Harry M. Daugherty.

The lower court ruled that the senate committee had exceeded its authority in making such demands and that Mal Daugherty acted within his rights in ignoring its subpoena.

INDIANA TRIO TO BATTLE FOR RELEASE ON BOND

Indianapolis, Ind., April 21.—Admission to bail of D. C. Stephenson, Earl Kilneck and Earl Centry, the trio held on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death one week ago, of Miss Madge Oberholzer, of Indianapolis, was asked in a petition filed today by their attorney, Eph Inman. Judge James A. Collins said a hearing would be held on the petition on Monday, April 27.

In issuing capias for the arrest of the three after the grand jury indicted them last Saturday, Judge Collins specified they should not be admitted to bail and since their arrest yesterday morning they have been confined in the Marion county jail.

Inman indicated he would call several witnesses to testify at the hearing April 27, among them Mrs. George Oberholzer, mother of the girl. Mrs. Oberholzer suffered a nervous collapse and was unable to testify at the coroner's inquest.

CIGARETTES NOW LEGAL IN NORTH DAKOTA

For the First Time in 12 Years Cigaretts May Be Sold Without Violating the Law.

Fargo, N. D., April 21.—For the first time in twelve years, cigarettes were lawfully sold in North Dakota today. The 1925 session of the North Dakota legislature passed two measures repealing the statute of 1913, prohibiting "the manufacture, sale, disposing of, giving away, and soliciting orders for cigarette papers" under penalty.

Because of the emergency clause, the two laws are effective today. Licenses and stamp taxes, estimated to bring in $500,000 in revenue, are provided for and the use of the injunction in enforcing the regulations and the prohibition against sale to minors.

State Women's Christian Temperance union headquarters, who led successfully the fight against repeal of the anticigarette law in the six legislatures and in one election where a measure permitting their sale was initiated, say that in order to secure half a million in stamp taxes and licenses, North Dakota must spend $3,000,000 more annually than they do now for tobacco.

The argument of nonenforcement was used in passing the measures. The two women legislators voted against the bills, with the result the W. C. T. U. suggests a concentrated effort to elect more women to the legislature in 1927. The Temperance union does not now contemplate referring the laws next year, as it is their belief that public opinion will in time demand repeal.

On the statute books of North Dakota still remains the law forbidding smoking in dining rooms where men and women are both served—be lieved to be the only law of its kind in existence.

G. H. Sewell, superintendent of the Omaha division of the Texaco Oil Co., was here today visiting with Henry Ofc, local manager of the Texaco station. Mr. Sewell is well pleased with the fast increasing volume of business handled here by Mr. Ofc and sons, Henry and Carl, who have one of the leading stations in the city and do a large amount of business.

CUMMINS A BORAH CRITIC

Ames, Ia., April 21.—Senator Albert B. Cummins of Iowa, in an address before the chamber of commerce here today, termed the remarks of Senator Borah of Idaho, in a recent Chicago speech, "glittering generalities," and said that before any man "condemned the government or criticized its tendencies" he should first be convinced "that we have been going wrong in the legislation we have enacted and wrong in the policies we have pursued."

Senator Borah's Chicago speech, it was recalled, dealt with what the Idaho senator looked upon as a growing tendency of the federal government to interfere with state's rights, the creation of too many inquisitorial boards and bureaus regulating the pursuits of individuals and corporations.

Referring to Senator Borah by name, Senator Cummins said he held "his distinguished colleague" in highest respect, but felt that his remarks were destined "to become of vast importance in future political campaigns," and could not be passed by "without examining them with care."

Senator Cummins dealt individually with all of the amendments to the constitution to show, he said, that they were not adopted hurriedly and did not impose hardships upon the states.
