They succeeded in landing one 2 1/2 inches long. Two of the gentlemen claimed they caught the fish, while the other one said that unless he could catch a bigger one than that he would not catch any. This was evidently true, for he did not catch the fish or he would have claimed to have done so.

GOES INTO MOURNING

From Monday's Daily— This morning the passersby on North Fifth street were not a little surprised to see the Rosey Barber shop bear on its door the black trappings of mourning and the general aspect of the deserted village, which Oliver Goldsmith has made famous in verse.

The absence of the proprietor was at first ascribed to an early morning trip to the golf course, but as time passed on and Clay and Charley failed to appear, the neighbors began to wonder as to the why and wherefore of the sudden disappearance of the tonsorial artists, and there could be no trace of either of the parties found.

The gas heater in the shop had been turned on evidently and soon all of the water pipes in the neighboring buildings begin to give forth warm and heated water that caused alarm for fear that the heated tank would explode. Finally, entrance to the room was secured by Hillard Grassman who crawled through the transom and extinguished the gas heater and saved the building from the blowing up of the tank.

Shortly before the noon hour, Mr. Rosencrans returned from Omaha where he had motored early in the morning, thinking that the barber would be on hand as usual to open up and before his departure had turned on the gas heater. The proprietor was filled with alarm when he learned of the fact that the shop was closed but was greatly relieved when he found that the gas heater had been put out before doing serious damage.

RAILROADS MAY CLAIM GAS TAX EXEMPTION

Lincoln, Neb., May 4.—Secretary McLaughlin of the department of agriculture has been informed by a letter from an official of the Northwestern Railroad Co. that the company may file claim for exemption from the state tax on the ground that it uses gasoline to pump water used in trains that ply between states; in short that the gasoline is used for hauling interstate commerce.

The secretary said he is inclined to adhere to his opinion that the legislature, in passing the gasoline tax law, plainly imposed a tax upon the sale, distribution and use of gasoline imported into the state or manufactured in the state for these purposes; that it is not a tax applying upon vehicles used upon roads, but must be collected upon gasoline used in all engines, whether movable or immovable.

On Completion of Studies at Northwestern University Will Teach At Kewanee, Ill., School.

From Wednesday's Daily—

Another of the graduates of Plattsmouth high school is to enter the teaching profession and devote his future talents to the task of training the youth of the nation. This young man who is to follow the teaching profession is Mason Wescott, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Wescott of this city, who is finishing his senior year at Northwestern university at Chicago.

Mr. Wescott has received a number of offers from several of the leading high schools of the middle west but has definitely decided on the acceptance of the offer made by the Kewanee, Illinois, high school, where he will start the coming term as instructor in the science department of that large and modern school.

The position is one that is very flattering to the young man as the school is quite large and is located in a flourishing manufacturing city of 20,000 people, close to Chicago and is considered by many one of the best cities of its size in the middle-west.

Mr. Wescott has been very successful in his work at Northwestern as he has been secretary of the Phi Theta Kappa fraternity, an educational fraternity which includes in its membership many of the instructors of the university and has been a most pleasant and profitable association for the young man.

Mr. Wescott was graduated from Plattsmouth High school in the class of 1921 and since graduating has been attending Northwestern university. His success and the splendid position that he has secured as his first teaching experience is a learned of with the greatest pleasure by the many friends here and with the marked ability of the young man there is no doubt that he has a successful future in store for him in his chosen line of work.
