They Should Know How to Farm Dick Davis has farmed all his life and well knows just how the act is done and when to sow and when to reap and the proper time to plant both oats and potatoes, but evidently while on the farm he must have allowed someone else to look after the garden for this spring he put out a garden while winter nestled in the lap of spring and it was nipped off three times and he is now waiting for it to recover from the last freeze although he has resolved to give up hereafter until the frost is out of the ground before he shall attempt gardening. Anyway, you may know he has the best of advice in the person of Mont Robb, who has observed how other people farm.

When asked to what he ascribes the tremendous popularity of Karnak, L. M. Carrol, Special Karnak representative, answered: "Merit alone is responsible for the tremendous success of Karnak. And the prompt action of its ingredients is remarkable. You can tell after the first few doses that you are being benefited in a natural, substantial way."

FARMERS BACK VOLSTEAD ACT, OFFICIAL SAYS

Taber, in Interview, Also Declares Advocate Development of Better Marketing Methods.

Kearney, Neb., Development of better marketing methods and the support of the eighteenth amendment by farmers was advocated here today by L. J. Taber, master of the National Grange, in an interview between the two men. Mr. Taber was en route to St. Paul to address the international convention of Kiwanis clubs, and to San Francisco, where he will address the National Electric Light association.

"Agriculture is slowly coming back," said Mr. Taber. "A rising purchase power for the farmer will, in the not far distant future, be reflected in the industrial life of the nation."

"The farmers' problems will be solved largely by the farmers themselves working through their own organizations."

"The farmers most important problem is the developing of better marketing methods."

"Agriculture is interested in strict enforcement of law. Everything that the farmer produces is capable of substitution, adulteration and imitation. Consequently, agriculture waits with alarm the violation of the eighteenth amendment."
