TEACHER FILES STRANGE ACTION

Nebraska Girl Claims Doctor Persuaded Her She Was Drug Addict.

Harriett Adams, 23, of Beaver Crossing, Neb., through Omaha attorneys, Wednesday filed suit at St. Louis court, for $50,000 damages against Dr. Jesse B. Nafziger.

She charges that Dr. Nafziger, prominent specialist of St. Louis, through wrong diagnosis and the power of suggestion, persuaded her that she was a drug addict.

She claims she was "driven" out of the public schools of South Sioux City, where she was supervisor of music, because the wrong diagnosis caused her to be advertised as a user of morphine.

Tell Remarkable Story.

Miss Adams, pretty and attractive, is a graduate of two conservatories of music and the University of Nebraska. She was in Omaha Tuesday, making arrangements with Attorney John O. Yeiser, Sr. and John O. Yeiser, Jr.

Attached to her complaint in the case, the girl has an eighty-four-page typewritten statement, in which she tells of the most remarkable stories ever brought out in a court of law. She alleges that it was only through long treatment at Iowa and Nebraska hospitals that she established the alleged fact that she had never been a drug addict.

According to her story, she had been under treatment of physicians at Lincoln, Neb., and elsewhere for about two years for various complaints and that a Lincoln physician gave her medicine which she took when "overworked and nervous."

Admitted Being Addict.

After she came to St. Louis City as music supervisor she said that a physician there intimated that he thought she was a drug addict. Dr. Nafziger, she claims, asked her if she wasn't a drug addict, claiming, she charges, that she had the look of one.

She says he then brought her around to the belief that the medicine that she had been taking contained morphine and that she had the drug habit. She admits that she told the superintendent of schools at South Sioux City and various teachers and nurses that she was a drug addict, but always under the false belief implanted by Dr. Nafziger in her mind.

LIQUOR RAIDS MADE OVER THE CITY FRIDAY

Not Much Booze Secured But Several Parties Fall Into the Hands Of the Law.

From Friday's Daily.—Yesterday was field day for the county and city authorities in their war on the Rum Demon and while there was not a very large amount of liquor seized in a number of raids made over the city, some five persons were snagged who will be charged with violation of the prohibition law.

The list of those who were gathered in for the infraction of the law included Harry Poissall and son, Paul, aged 17; Earl Newton, 16; Glen Mason, 19, and Orville Newton.

The arrest of Paul Poissall and the taking of four pint bottles of "white mule" at the Poissall home was made yesterday morning by Sheriff Stewart, Chief of Police Johnson, Constable Brittain and County Attorney W. G. Kieck. The raid followed the sale of liquor by the 17 year old lad several nights ago after the discovery of the liquor the arrest of the father of the young man was made, as he was not at home at the time of the raid.

The officers made their second visitation this afternoon and descended on the premises of Earl Newton in the south part of the city where they had also secured a sale of beer on Earl Newton, who disposed of three bottles on Thursday night. It is alleged, the raiding party found only six bottles of beer with the evidence of the sale, this will form a case against the parties, which include the 16 year old boy, making the sale and the owner of the beer, Orville Newton, an uncle of the lad.

As a result of selling a quart of alleged whisky, Glen Mason, another youth, was gathered in yesterday and while not having possession of any of the goods at the time the bottle that was sold by him will be sufficient evidence of the sale.

The hearing of Glen Mason was held yesterday afternoon before Judge Duxbury and he was given a sixty-day jail sentence for his first offense in the violation of the prohibition law. It was stated at the office of County Attorney Kieck that complaints would be filed against Earl Newton and Paul Poissall to have them sent to the state reformatory as they are both under 18 years of age. This is the first offense of Newton but the second of Poissall, who on account of his age was recently given the benefit of the suspension of a part of his sentence with the understanding that he would drop the booze business and go to relatives outside of the state.

Charges of possession will be made against Orville Newton while in the case of Harry Poissall the penalty will be very heavy as he is to be charged with his third violation of the prohibition law which means a sentence in the penitentiary.

HARRY POISSALL MAKES PLEA OF "NOT GUILTY"

Will Have Preliminary Hearing This Afternoon in County Court—To Resist Charge of Possession.

From Saturday's Daily.—This morning Harry Poissall was brought before County Judge Duxbury for hearing complaint charging the defendant with possession of intoxicating liquor, the complaint filed by County Attorney W. G. Kieck, charging the third offense of this nature.

The complaint named offenses charged in 1921 and 1924 in which Mr. Poissall had been found guilty and received fines and sentences. His plea of not guilty Mr. Poissall stated to the court that when arrested on April 21, 1921, charged with the offense of possession of liquor he had been promised by the then county attorney that if he would plead guilty to the charge that his fine and sentence would be remitted, accordingly he had changed his plea to guilty and was given a jail sentence despite the promise of immunity and the defendant of the charge of having previously been guilty.

As to the present charge of possession of liquor the defendant entered a denial and asked that counsel be allowed him and requested that the court summon Attorney C. E. Martin, who, while not desiring the case was finally prevailed upon to appear in the case.

The hearing was set for 2 o'clock this afternoon.

BE CAREFUL IN SHIPPING STOCK

Cars Should Be Comfortable and Well Bedded With Clean Straw or Sand. "The shipper who handles his livestock in such a manner that they will dress out a high per cent, as well as an attractive carcass and free from bruises, is a marked man on a livestock market," declares A. M. Paterson, a livestock authority, in an article on the shipping of stock, which appeared in the May 6 issue of the Weekly Kansas City Star. "The packer will buy his livestock more readily and at better prices, thereby netting him more dollars," says Mr. Paterson. "Cars should be ordered before the day of shipment to give the railroad time to obtain the size and kind of cars desired and have them ready. It is a good policy to put the order in writing. If for some reason the shipper cannot use the cars the day ordered, the railroad company should be notified. "Inspection and preparation of cars is important. Cars should be looked over thoroughly for holes in the floor, loose and broken slats, nails and other objects in the floor and sides. "Livestock should be at the shipping point in time to rest before loading. Sometimes it is a good plan to water before loading. If moved some distance. It also is a good plan to give a light feed of hay. Livestock loaded hungry and thirsty will not ship well. "Do not load too heavy. If crowded, animals that are down may smother. Also, if the cars are loaded too heavy there is more danger of animals having legs broken and bodies bruised. "Special care should be taken in loading hogs in hot weather. Put plenty of wet sand on the floor of the car. It sometimes is a good plan to hang sacks of cracked ice to the roof of the car, allowing the melted ice water to drop down on the hogs."
