WRECK ON FT. CROOK ROAD

From Monday's Daily—
Travelers along the K. T. highway south of Fort Crook last evening reported the fact that a touring car was being in the deep ditch a half mile south of the Missouri Pacific and Burlington crossings. The car, which bore an Omaha number, had apparently been coming from the north and skidded from the roadway to turn turtle in the deep ditch along side the road. At first it was thought that possibly some of the occupants of the car had been pinned beneath the car but investigations proved that whoever had been in the car had left the scene of the accident. Later in the evening a auto repair outfit from Omaha came out and removed the wrecked car from the ditch and took it on into Omaha.

DO YOU REALIZE:

That wind velocity has as great an effect on househeating as does temperature.
That, roughly speaking, one mile of additional wind velocity per hour has the same effect as one degree lower temperature.
That the heat loss from houses incurred through wind can be easily prevented by a slight improvement in the house construction.

That weather strips on windows and doors will prevent these losses due to the necessary cracks around these openings.

That construction at the eaves and in attic spaces can be easy and cheaply improved to prevent wind losses.

That not only do these improvements in building lower fuel bills, but they may often make possible the use of a smaller heating plant.
That smaller fuel bills and smaller heating plants will pay for the slight additional costs of construction.

That the house from which the snow on the roof is first melted is not the warmest house, but is instead one from which a large amount of heat is escaping.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Copy for this Department furnished by County Agent

Chinch Bugs
An outbreak of chinch bugs was reported on one farm in Cass county, but it is believed that they have them well in hand on that farm, but it will take co-operation to keep them from spreading.

Protect the Cows From Flies

In a large measure flies are responsible for low milk yields during the summer and thin cattle in the fall. Cows should be protected from them as much as possible, advises the agricultural college, Lincoln. One of the best methods of doing this is to keep the cow stabled during the heat of the day in cool darkened barns. Windows can be darkened by painting gunny sacks over them. It is also a good plan to hang gunny sacks over the door in such a manner that the flies will be brushed from the cows as they enter the barn. In case it is desirable to spray the cows, a good spray can be made from the following ingredients: 100 parts of fish-oil, 50 parts of oil of tar, and one part of crude carbolic acid.

Repair the Threshing Rigs

Two bulletins, available at the county extension agent's office or at the agricultural college, Lincoln, offer to the farmer some helpful suggestions and directions for the overhauling, adjusting and operation of the grain separator. Farmers' bulletin 1026 gives directions for the overhauling and adjusting of all important parts of the separator. Farmers' bulletin 941 offers suggestions that keep all the little things running smoothly as well as the more important adjustments for good threshing. The big outfit with the experienced separator man, who grew from a water jack in the game, have given way to the smaller rig co-operatively owned by farmers, many of whom are inexperienced. This is the repair time on most used rigs. The bulletins might help.

Growing Hogs Need Hay

Hay for hogs is no longer laughed at by the practical hog man, especially when that hay is the good growing kind known as hog pasture. Average estimates from successful hog pasture worth as much as $25 per acre per season as hog feed. Pasture is not only valuable for the nutrients it contains but also because the hogs must take exercise before and during and after every meal. While they are doing that they are not in the old filthy, contaminated hog lots and dirty wallows. There is as much difference to the hog between the two places mentioned as there is between the slums of the city and the open air of the western plains. Alfalfa is the best Nebraska hog pasture. If not pastured too heavily, it will go through the average year unharmed. Sweet clover is making many friends among the hog raisers. Sudan grass is an annual plant that can hardly be over-estimated while it lasts, generally from June to fall frosts. Rape makes good hog pasture and is handy to use in the small field where corn is to be hogged down.

BELLEVUE INDEPENDENTS ARE BEATEN SUNDAY

Veterans Drop Contest Here Yesterday By Score of 14 to 6—Locals Beat Ball.

From Monday's Daily—
The final that has often heated in the Plattsmouth team which the Bellevue warriors came here to dispute with them their superiority in the national pastime, took place yesterday afternoon at the local ball park and transferred the ball back to the camp of Andy Graves and the crew of veterans, Plattsmouth winning the game by the score of 14 to 6.

While the game was slow on account of the muddy grounds, the locals had their batting clothes on and made the efforts of Herman, Andy Graves and Wolfon look had in the light of the hits garnered by the kings of sweat that formed the Plattsmouth lineup. Newman, local batter, amassed three hits and two runs. Swanson, the local pitcher, was unsteady at times but the hits that the visitors secured were scattered and while allowing one walk that resulted in a score, he was effective in the pinches and received strong support from his teammates.

Bellevue opened the fireworks in the first of the second inning when Wolfon, the first man up, nicked "Swanny" for a two runner to left garden that was caught by McClary. A Jackson hit safe over first base and was followed by J. Jackson who was safe at first when "Swanny" hesitated in the throw to the bag. Wolfon scoring, Donovan hit, scoring A Jackson but was tipped at second base on a throw from Herb Klauschie to Newman, who covered second.

The Plattsmouth team in their half of the second unloaded on Mr. Herman and caused his withdrawal from the game by drawing six hits and a walk that resulted in a score of six tallies before the last out was made. McClary was struck out after jabbing a hard one to left that was decreed a foul ball. Martin was passed to first by Herman, which started the fireworks as Newman followed with a liner straight to the pitcher that could not be stopped. Johnson singled to left field and William Harvey Mason tied the score with a single to left field that registered Martin and Newman. Swanson drove one to center that registered Johnson and Mason, but "Swanny" was later nipped at the plate. O'Donnell hit safe to center and was followed by Herold who was hit by a pitched ball and both registered when Herb Klauschie doubled to deep center.

Bellevue added another in the third inning on a walk given to Al Graves and a hit by Bressman that scored Al.

In the Plattsmouth half of the third Martin was struck by one of the slants of Andy Graves, who succeeded Sherman on the box, and when Johnson Newman and McClary for a two-bagger to right garden. Art scored.

The visitors in the opening of the eighth started with Bressman, who was out on a fly to Swanson, but Wolfon took kindly to one of the slants of "Swanny" for a single out in the left field where the deep mud interfered with fast fielding. A hit by Wells Corcoran, veteran second sacker, scored Wolfon.

Aroused by the scores of their opponents the Plattsmouth warriors opened up on the visitors in the sixth and caused the grand old man to retire in favor of Wolfon. Swanson opened the inning with a safe single to right field that was followed by William Patrick O'Donnell's offering in the same direction. Herold was retired on a grounder to Graves, when Herb Klauschie again doubled, this time to left field, and scoring more runs for his team as Swanson and O'Donnell both registered. Joe McClary was hit by Graves and given his base and then came the explosion as Martin and Newman each hit for a two runner. Martin and McClary scoring while Herold died at third on succeeding outs.

In the last inning "Swanny" was hit hard but only one run was garnered as the fielding of McClary and Johnson in the eighth garden cut down the chances of Bellevue growing dangerous.

FIRE DESTROYS GARAGE AT AN EARLY HOUR

George M. Hill Suffers Loss of Frame Garage and Also New Flint Car in the Fire.

From Wednesday's Daily—
This morning at 1:30 the frame garage at the residence of George M. Hill on Pearl street, was destroyed by fire and with it the fine $1,425 Singer touring car was completely wiped out by the flames.
The fire was first noticed by neighbors who were aroused by the smoke that poured from the garage and filled the neighborhood of the Hill home with the pine smoke. Calls to Mr. and Mrs. Hill awakened them and at first they thought the house to be on fire but later as Mr. Hill came to the window to look out at the garage blaze shot through the roof and in a few seconds the structure was a roiling mass of flames.
The prompt work of the telephone exchange and the response of the fire department saved a much heavier loss at the intense heat that the shower of sparks threatened the nearby buildings. The garage of E. H. Schullhof near that of Mr. Hill, was partially charred but the fire department was able to check the spread of the flames to the outbuildings and the Hill home.

The cost of the car and the garage will be in the neighborhood of $2,125, Mr. Hill stated, and the loss is only partially covered by insurance.
The cause of the fire is unknown and seemed to originate in the upper portion of the garage and it is thought may have been caused by wiring as there was nothing in the garage that could have caused a fire.

YOUNG MEN'S CLASS MEETS

From Wednesday's Daily—
The Young Men's Bible Class of the First Methodist church held a very pleasing sing last evening at their rooms, preparatory to the class taking over the evening music at the service Sunday at the church. Following the sing the members enjoyed a very pleasant treat in several whistling and saxophone solos given by Miss Alice Louise Wescott, who is home for the vacation period. The accompaniment for the solo numbers was played by Miss Helen Wescott at the piano. The occasion was one that was enjoyed by the members of all of the members of the party and proved a pleasing diversion of the evening.

ENJOY FINE TIME

A pleasant social gathering took place at the Herman Kuhns home on Saturday evening, June 27th, the event being a shower given in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Campbell. There was a good number present but owing to the threatening weather only about half the number invited were present. All report a good time of social visiting and merriment which refreshments were served. The bride received many useful and beautiful presents.
