Find Old Relics At Weeping Water
Among the relics which were found when the Gorder Implement building was razed, was a blade which used in the palmy days of the Gibbon House, for attaching a key to room 12. It was found by Dick McNurlin and has been among the stuff there for a long time at the Gibbon House, and its old time livery stable, have long since gone the way of the world. That was one of the principal hosteleries of the former Weeping Water. This house served its place well during its time, but is gone with the former Weeping Water and a new city is now occupying its place, and with the efforts which are being put forward at this time, promise to be a much bigger and better city in the very near future. The paving, which has just been done, has put this excellent town forward in the line of progressive cities a number of years, and it seems it is the determination of the progressive citizens to make this a real live city of which the whole world shall know. Go to it Weeping Water, we are for you.

Another Peace Medal Is Dug Out Of Grave
Red Cloud, Neb., July 15.—Another peace medal was dug out of a grave in the Pike Pawnee village near here July 4, according to A. T. Hill, who is assisting with excavations being carried on in the village by the Nebraska state historical society.

The most recent find is a heavy silver medal about three inches in diameter. On one side is a picture of King George of England with the printing, "Georgius, III, Dei Gratia." The reverse side bears the English coat of arms. Mr. Hill believes it is one of the medals issued about 1760 by the English monarch.

The state historical society is planning to send an expedition to the Pike Pawnee village in August to survey the route of Lieutenant Pike through Kansas and across Nebraska.

Home Again
Wednesday morning, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Teegarden arrived in Weeping Water, after a visit of two months in California.

They enjoyed a pleasant journey each way and report that they had a splendid time with their son, William, who is in a bank at Long Beach, and Mr. Teegarden's brother, I. N., and family, at the same place.

The old town now seems more "familiar" when you can see Jim come down the street with his cheerful "hello."—Weeping Water Republican.

Dr. J. S. Livingston departed yesterday afternoon for Denver and other points in Colorado, where he will join Mrs. Livingston, who has been there for several weeks and will return with Mrs. Livingston.

DRIVE FOR NEW LEGION BUILDING ON

ENTHUSIASTIC MEETING OF SUB-COMMITTEES LAST NIGHT—ALL CO-OPERATE.

SET GOAL AT 10,000 DOLLARS

Subscription Cards Now in Hands of Solicitors with Definite Assignment to be Seen.

From Friday's Daily—Friday holds no superstitious ill omen in the opinion of American Legion members who are today actively starting the drive for funds with which to enable construction of the new community auditorium on the Vine street lots just east of the Collins Oil company station.

A peppy, enthusiastic meeting of the more than twenty chairmen of soliciting committees was held last night and the first assignment of cards placed in the hands of the committees. By Tuesday a check-up of all the cards out will be made and the first definite results of the drive released for publication.

The plan that has been evolved for raising the money is an ideal one from many standpoints—principal of which is that it permits of installment payments spread out over a period of nearly a year and will enable them to be met without feeling any noticeable set-back in the bank account of the donor.

The cards being signed up now require no down payment. August 15th is the settlement date, when the pledges may either be paid off in full or 10 per cent of the amount paid and a promissory note signed for the balance, payable in ten equal monthly installments by the 15th day of each month following date of the note. For instance, if a man subscribes $100 to this fund, his first payment, due August 15, need be but $10, and the note will be drawn for the remaining $90, payable $9 each month for ten months. Notes will be made payable at the bank selected by the contributor and the banks will be empowered by the Legion to endorse payments on them, crediting the money to the Legion Memorial Building fund.

All money collected will be held intact, the incidental expense of the campaign, the cost of the lots, work done by the architect, etc., being paid wholly out of Legion funds, and not one penny of the contributions will be expended until enough is in sight to secure a loan for the balance of the cost of the building. Then the contract will be let and construction work pushed rapidly to completion. In the possible event of failure to raise the required money, which no one connected with the drive anticipates, all money will be returned.

The Legion is fathering no selfish or ulterior motive in promoting the campaign for this building. It has long considered Plattsmouth in dire need of such a building, and with this end in view, expended freely its own money for the purchase of the site. Now it is asking the community for a sufficient sum to insure the securing of a mortgage loan on the completed building for the remainder of its cost, pledging its revenues in the years to come to the wiping out of this indebtedness. Considering the advantage the community will derive through having such a building, it will really be called upon to share only a small proportionate part of the cost.

As has been related in the Journal before, this building will be of the same general type as that shown in the architect's drawing. The size will be 66x120, and the walls will be of hollow tile construction, with the front stuccoed.

A marked reduction in its costs from the early figures, without enhancing its size and usefulness has been brought about through the excavation of only sufficient basement to provide for the furnaces, toilets and shower baths, the doing away with a pressed brick front, augmented with marble window and door caps (which although pretty to look at, would add nothing to its serviceability), the roughing in only of Legion club rooms over the lobby (leaving their actual finishing to a later date) and other similar curtailments.

On the excavation of a basement alone, a very appreciable amount can be saved. The completed building with hot air heating plants, maple floor, stage, and rest room on the ground floor adjoining the lobby will not exceed $18,000 in cost, and will in all probability go well under this sum.

Aside from the nest egg of $25 contributed by the Catholic Daughters last spring when plans for the building were first discussed, no contribution has been received or solicited, Legion officials holding back until business conditions and the crop outlook could be determined.

Now, with favorable response from the public, the plan will be pushed to actual completion as rapidly as possible and the new community center should be ready for the holding of a justification community Christmas tree there, and in no event would its completion be delayed beyond the time of the Knights Templar and district Legion conventions here next spring.

The outlook is most promising however, from the fact that several have come forward voluntarily with offers of contributions of $100, and in one or two instances more, as soon as the drive was started.

The first few days' solicitation will

FUTURE OF FARM ELECTRIFICATION PROMISING
Permanent good is sure to come of the present co-operative investigations of the use of electricity on the farm, according to L. T. Tabor, master of the National Grange. Mr. Tabor, in a recent interview says:

A generation ago it would have been supposed that electrical development and the use of electrical energy was of little concern to the farmer; that those in cities and towns were more vitally interested in this mighty and mysterious power than those who till the soil.

The last decade has seen a transformation along the lines of the use of electricity in farm houses and farm work. The farm electrical plant has been most valuable. The farmer in many sections will be vitally concerned in the development of high tension lines and proper transmission of electrical current for rural uses.

"It is probable that we are yet in infancy in the use of electricity. This is obviously true as applied to agriculture. Any organization that directs its attention toward a better understanding of the relation of electricity to rural life, will perform an invaluable service."

STEPHEN ORTON OLD TIME RESIDENT OF COUNTY

Sketch of Life of Former Prominent Resident of Weeping Water Who Passed Away.

Stephen W. Orton was born in Hampton, New York, June 2, 1844. He shipped through the shadows into the light of other shores from the family residence in Fullerton, July 4, 1925. At the time of his death he was 81 years, 1 month and 2 days of age.

He enlisted in the 13th New York heavy artillery in 1862. He remained in the service of his country until the war was ended in 1865. He gave the freshest and best of his young life, risking all for a united country.

In 1867 he moved west, reaching Omaha in July of that year. The next year, 1868, he preempted a tract of land in Cass county, Neb. During this year he was united in marriage with Miss Sarah A. Burrows of Bellevue, Neb. They made their home on the farm, but Brother Orton divided his time between farming, working and other lines of public service.

In 1881 he left the farm and removed to his home in Weeping Water, where he established himself in the drug business and continued in that occupation for 36 years. In the year 1894 he was elected to the Nebraska state legislature, where he served his state and county with success and credit to himself and family. In 1918 he removed to Fullerton, Cal., where he had since resided.

To Mr. and Mrs. Orton, three children were born, Alice, Mary L. and C. S. Orton. Alice died at the age of 12 years, Mary L. lives in Omaha and C. S. in Fullerton. Of the family, Mrs. Orton and her two children live to recall to us the noble life of a true husband and father.

Mr. Orton was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church for many years. His life was upright and honorable, a good and true citizen and neighbor.

He was a lover of children and was never happier than when doing kind things for them and with them in their playful moods. His whole life was beautiful and happy. His love for his country was unabated until the last. He attended the Decoration day exercises in Loma Vista cemetery May 30th of this year. He was taken sick that evening and was not able to leave his bed until he passed away July 4th. A soldier taken sick on Decoration day, passed away July 4th. It was fitting that it should be so.

Rev. J. R. Woodcock conducted the funeral services at Fullerton, Cal. Rev. Woodcock is stationed at Placencia, Cal., now and was at Fullerton last year. He will be remembered as a former M. E. pastor here.

The funeral services at Weeping Water on Friday, July 19th, were conducted by members of the Pacific lodge No. 25, L. O. O. F., of which Mr. Orton had been a loyal member for a great many years. He was also a member of the G. A. R., the Masonic fraternity, the K. P. and Royal Arcanum.

During his long residence here he was always interested in the welfare of the community, serving at one time as our city mayor, and was for a long time a member of the school board.

The sincere sympathy of a large number of his friends in this community is extended to the bereaved widow and all other members of the family.—Weeping Water Republican.
