

Greenwood Department!

Prepared in the Interest of the People of Greenwood and Surrounding Vicinity

Joseph Kyle was loading hay for shipment at the tracks of the Burlington last Thursday.

J. R. Reper and wife of Lincoln, were visiting and looking after some business matters in Greenwood last Thursday.

Rex Young was making some inner repairs at the elevator in the way of repairing the bins to exclude the rats from the grain.

Judge W. E. Hand was a visitor in Plattsmouth last Thursday where he was called to look after some business matters for a few hours.

Col. Phil L. Hall departed for Fort Crook, where he is spending some two weeks in special training in the army, he being a reserve officer.

Dr. Norris Talbot was a visitor in Plattsmouth last Friday, making the trip on the elevator, being called there to look after some business matters.

G. W. Holt, the genial agent of the Burlington at Greenwood, was called to Lincoln to look after some business matters last Thursday afternoon.

E. D. Vvans and Thomas Chaplin of Pine River, Mo., arrived at Greenwood and are working with the weather with allow on the new barn on the Connelly place.

Charles McGulre of Plattsmouth, was a visitor in Greenwood, coming as an employee of the Burlington and was with a companion painting the signals for the company.

The lumber company was unloading a car load of lumber last Thursday to replace the invoices which the buildings which have been under construction in this neighborhood have depleted.

The new barber, Mr. D. G. McDonald, who comes from Wakefield and has purchased the barber shop of Mr. W. J. East, has arrived and opened the shop for business and moved his family to Greenwood.

There has been much progress made on the new home of Martin Doud, which is being constructed by Gust Sorman, the contractor, but the weather of the past week has greatly interfered with the work.

The South Ashland Woman's club met last Wednesday with their member, Mrs. J. C. Lemon, where they enjoyed the afternoon with a very worth while program and were handsomely entertained by their hostess.

Floyd Campbell, who has been visiting for a short time in Greenwood, returned to Lincoln since and has accepted a position with the Clinton Van and Storage company where he is employed at this time.

Mrs. A. R. Birdsall attended a carnival which was held last Wednesday at Valparaiso, where the school is in charge of Superintendent John Wetherhogg, and also visited with her daughter, Mrs. Weatherhogg, as well while there.

L. M. Mowery and wife were visiting and looking after some business matters in Ashland on last Wednesday afternoon, making the trip in their new Buick sedan which they found very comfortable as a cold weather means of transportation.

Miss Catherine Coleman, post-mistress of Greenwood, Mrs. E. A. Landon and Mrs. Granville Marshall all were all visiting at the capitol city last Thursday where they were the guests of friends and were also looking after some shopping as well.

Lumber is being hauled and the work begun in the construction of the barn on the Connelly place, south of Greenwood, in order that when the place is ready for occupancy there will be a place for the stock which of necessity must be kept on the farm.

Judge W. E. Hand was a visitor in Plattsmouth last Monday, where he was called to look after some matters of business and was also a visitor at the home of Mrs. S. E. McElwain and son, B. A. McElwain, while there. He also met Myron McElwain of Kansas City, who was a visitor at the home of his brother and mother.

Surprise for Her Mother.
Last Thursday, Mrs. J. C. Lemon was indeed surprised when a large number of her friends dropped in on her and made the evening one of much pleasure, when they came to celebrate her birthday. The surprise for such it was arranged by her daughter, Mrs. Harry Schrader. The neighbors surely made the welcome ring and made the evening one which Mrs. Lemon will long remember. The matter of entertainment had been looked after and every appointment for the splendid evening arranged by the daughter and the friends and at an appropriate hour a delightful luncheon was served which made the evening the more enjoyable.

Shipped First Car of Corn.
The first car of new corn was shipped from the Peters Grain company last week and was a fifteen hundred bushel car which was purchased from W. A. Backemeyer and delivered to the elevator on last Thursday, being yellow corn and in fine condition for new corn, and as it was only October, was getting the crop to market in very good time. George Kamm was assisting in the shelling and hauling corn last week when All Backemeyer shelled and delivered his corn.

Has Moved to Greenwood.
Ben Connelly, who has been making his home in Lincoln for some time past, last week moved to Greenwood and will make his home here in the Charles Martin place for the present pending the completion of the house which he is having built on the farm south of Greenwood. It is hoped that the new home will be completed shortly.

Is Enthused with Grand Island.
Fred Ethingo was a delegate to the state convention of the L. O. F. which was held at Grand Island last week and stayed in that hospitable town for the most of the week and was much enthused with the city, for indeed it is a city, as he tells of there being a ten story building there and many five and six and seven story buildings and many miles of paved streets, in fact a real live up-to-date western city. He was surprised to find such a real American city there. Fred had a fine time and also found that there were many Oddfellows in the state of Nebraska, all alive and in good working order. Fred says that the stock pavilion where live stock is sold is larger than all of Greenwood.

Entertains the Owl Club.
Last Wednesday evening at their home Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Smith entertained the owl club, and at that time the entire membership of the club with the exception of Col. Phil Hall, were present, he being out of the city at the training camp. The twenty guests who were in attendance surely had a very fine time and enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. Smith fully.

General Summerrall viewed the accusations made against him by Mitchell as personal attacks on his efficiency and his record as a soldier. When he called at the war department following his withdrawal from the Mitchell court, he spent several minutes discussing the affair with army officers and old friends.

"The Mitchell charges came out of a clear sky," he said. "When Colonel Mitchell was on his honeymoon in Hawaii I had him as a guest at my home. I placed a private car and chauffeur at his disposal and even loaned him an airplane. In his vainglorious way he inspected the air defenses of the island and led me to believe he was my friend."

Public men in the east are now generally of the opinion that prohibition can never be enforced in the fullest sense of the term. Then why keep thousands of agents in the employ of the government in such an effort?

Washington, D. C., Oct. 28.—Major General Charles P. Summerrall today called upon the American people to choose between his record and the charges of inefficiency made by Colonel William Mitchell.

"From now on Mitchell and I are enemies," General Summerrall declared. "I thought he was my friend. I came to this court with an absolutely open mind. Colonel Mitchell shook my hand effusively before court opened. Then he turned around and unloaded the vilest charges he could think of in an effort to discredit me before the American people."

"I could have acted as president of the court before Mitchell made his accusations, but from now on I would not serve on any court which would have Mitchell's fate in its hands. I was ready to leave as soon as he finished his statement. I would not want to sit as judge over a man showed that he did."

Dusek All but Wins the Heavy Weight Honors

Takes One Fall from Stecher and Referee Says Was in Position to Have Won Match.

The Arkansas Democrat, published at Little Rock, has a most complete account of the wrestling match there last Monday night between Rudy Dusek and Joe Stecher, who had met once before since Stecher re-won the heavyweight wrestling title several months ago. In the former match, Dusek's bull-dog tenacity in refusing to give up to one of Stecher's famous scissor holds resulted in his being so severely injured as to compel him to forfeit the match.

The Democrat says Stecher retained his title in Monday night's match by a thread, or "several threads woven into a rope."

Continuing, the article says: "In one of the greatest, hardest-fought and most spectacular athletic contests of any kind, the titleholder was forced to go three falls to defeat Dusek, the worthy young challenger, and then the Sisor Luck loser again with the champion and pulled him over on the winning side.

"The big break in Stecher's favor came at the finish and prevented the crowning of a new king. With a fall to the credit of each, and Dusek carrying battle to the champion in whirlwind fashion, Rudy picked up Stecher with a croch hold and slammed him hard against the canvas. Joe staggered to his feet and again Rudy picked him up with a croch hold. They were near the edge of the mat. The champion stretched out his long legs and grabbed the top rope. He clung to it and Dusek yanked. The harder Rudy pulled the harder Stecher held to the rope with his legs. Finally, Stecher lost his grip, and both fell to the mat, Dusek head first. The latter was stunned and Stecher clamped on his body scissors, winning the fall and the match and ending one of the most furiously fought contests in wrestling history.

"It was a bad break for Dusek and came right when he appeared a sure winner. The champion was well used up and showed it. Both he and his brother-manager Tony Stecher, declared it was the hardest match that Stecher had ever engaged in—even harder than the battle in which Joe won the title from Stanislas Zbyszko.

"Dusek did something no other wrestler has done since Stecher won back the championship. That was to win a fall from the titleholder. Rudy also did something in the former match with Stecher, the champion manager has done, when he forced the champion to go one hour and 22 minutes for a single fall.

"Commenting on the tangle in the ropes, about which he had been criticised for not breaking the hold and ordering the men to the center of the ring, Referee Tom Packs, who had permitted work in the ropes all thru the contest told the writer after the match, 'Dusek had the match won and the championship in his hands, but he didn't know it. All he had to do was to let go his hold on the champion. Joe would have toppled head first to the floor, and it would have been a cover for him.'

Rudy Wins a Fall
"The challenger completely outwrestled the champion in the second fall, carrying the fight to him and rushing him all around the ring. Stecher was tossed here, there and everywhere. Only once was Dusek in danger and he came out in fine style. That was when Stecher clamped on a double toe-hold. Rudy fought hard to break the hold and the crowd cheered wildly when he came out.

"After 32 minutes of work, with Stecher on the defense, Rudy was successful in getting the anatomical twist on the champion. Stecher's body was twisted in a hundred different directions and he gave up. The crowd went wild. Hats sailed into the air. Ringsiders jumped inside the ropes and patted the young challenger on the back.

Stecher Lucky in First
"Stecher was favored with a lucky break to win the first fall, too. Dusek out-wrestled him all through the period. He clamped on a punishing croch and the titleholder appeared on the verge of giving up. Suddenly Stecher climbed aboard Rudy's back and the latter found himself in a scissors. The powerful and squeezing legs forced Rudy to give up. Rudy might have broken the hold and he might have failed had he struggled to free himself, but, without a fall against him, he very wisely gave up and avoided injury."

Dusek is a brother of Anton Hason of this city, and his rise to fame in the wrestling world is being watched with the greatest of interest by local friends of the promising grappler.

TAKE KINKS OUT OF RIVER
Falls City, Neb., Oct. 27.—An effort to straighten the ever changing course of the Missouri river south of here and to reclaim nearly 1,200 acres of farm land began today.

Heavy dredge machinery has been set up near Preston where the bank of the river has been eating its way into the west bank, altering its course, for several years. The flood danger of the past two years has caused farmers to abandon nearly 1,200 acres of land.

By digging a ditch along the stream near Preston it is hoped to alter the shifting stream and to eliminate the flood danger. Unless the ground freezes too deep, it is hoped to complete the project this year, making the soil available for farming in the spring.
