Misses Belle Mayer and Bessie Ober were spending last Sunday in Alvo, they both having been former teachers of the Alvo school.

Mrs. Roy Ackley, who has been so ill at her home in Alvo, continues rather poorly and while she has every care, is showing very little improvement.

Floyd Dickerson, the merchant, was a visitor at the corn picking contest at Ashland last Thursday and was accompanied by John Woods, the market man.

Lyle Miller has been hauling corn to the Simon Rehmeier elevator as he picks it, thus avoiding the trouble of shelling and finding crib room for the grain.

Misses Blanche Meyer and Bessie Ober were guests at the home of Mrs. C. H. Kirkpatrick for over the week end, where they enjoyed the visit very much.

Art Skinner shelled corn for W. L. Cople on last Thursday and kept things rolling along nicely and with no more bad weather to hold up the work, did an excellent job.

At the Knights of Pythias meeting last Tuesday, there was a large number of the members present and work was done in the second branch of their secret work, with three candidates to receive the work and enjoy it. The lodge in Alvo is in excellent condition.

Roy Ackley, who is working in Omaha at this time, where he is barbering, was a visitor at home over Sunday, and was arranging to have the wife go to Omaha, where she could have the elevator and a hospital, hoping she might thereby have her health improved.

Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Coatman entertained for the day and at dinner Miss Bessie Ober and Mr. John Skinner. Miss Ober was a former teacher in the schools here and was very popular and often visits here. She is an excellent teacher and is succeeding well in her chosen profession.

W. L. Cople, living west of town, was shelling a car of new corn last Thursday, which he delivered to the Simon Rehmeier elevator and was very busy shipping, making nearly a half dozen cars thus far to go, but a few of them were partly old corn, though the majority of the amount was of this year's raising.

Roy Coatman has been busier than the electric lights at the Alvo school have been on the blink for some time and this raises the ire of the members of the team, as they cannot practice after supper on account of the darkness, but are doing the best they can at other times, and will expect to play with the Palmyra team on Friday of this week, November 20th.

Last Friday, November 6th was the passing of the 16th anniversary of the birth of Sterling Coatman and while he did not ostentatiously celebrate the occasion a number of his friends called on him in the evening extending congratulations for a life filled with good works and good health to enjoy the fight for success and prosperity.

Miss Elizabeth Conley, one of the teachers in the Alvo schools, received word of the very severe illness of a brother, a young man, who was taken with appendicitis in acute form and underwent an operation at a Lincoln hospital. Had a Patriotic Program. Last Wednesday afternoon at the Alvo schools there was presented a very patriotic program under the direction of the Rev. Chenoweth, pastor of the Methodist church, and in which he made a very worthwhile address which was well received by all present, following which there were talks by the Legion men present, of whom there were a large number, telling where Armistice day found them and what doing when the fighting ceased in 1918. In the first place they were rather reticent and did not care to talk until some one had told of his experience, when the whole scene came back with vividness and they all remembered those exciting days. Six of the Boy Scouts, under the direction of Rev. Chenoweth, gave the Flag Salute in a beautiful manner.

The Boys Enjoy Smoker. The service boys, of whom there are fifteen in and about Alvo, all enjoyed joyed a smoker at the home of C. D. Ganz Armistice day, with the exception of two who could not arrange to be present. Mrs. Ganz and Mrs. Arthur Dinges entertained the boys and provided cats, better than what they were getting seven years ago when the call came to lay down the implements of war and return to the pursuits of peace. Besides the reminiscences which made up a portion of the evening's entertainment, and with the best of smokes, they played cards just like they did in the service, and that was not all—they got down on the floor and rolled the bones to their heart's content, which brought back vivid recollections of the army and pay day even more realistic than portrayed by Gus Renz in his "Pay Day" Ak-Sar-Bien float.

All told where they were at the closing of the great struggle. Those present to enjoy the occasion were Soren Peterson, Arthur Dinges, R. L. Parmenter, George Eldenmiller, Sam Jordan, James Applegate, Frank A. Davis, Leo Stewart, Walter Collins, C. D. Ganz, John R. Skinner, Henry Peterson and Will E. Heier.

Are Making the Corn Fly. Harvey Manners, of Plattsmouth, a brother of James M. Manners, has been here for some time past assisting his brother in getting the corn harvested and these two boys are surely jumping in getting the corn out of the field and into the crib. On last Thursday they filled two large cribs and moved the elevator to another one, they being about half done at this time. It is said that some times they have eight and ten ears of corn in the air at a time. This is when they are throwing it in with a scoop. However, they are making good use of the time in getting the corn out of the field.

Enjoy Wiener Roast. A gathering of school girls, accompanied by three teachers, Miss Gustafson, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Russel, and also Miss Marguerite Muir, assembled at the north and a quarter west of Alvo, for a wiener roast, Friday evening, November 13. Twenty-four were present and after the cats and fun of the evening, all departed, reporting a delightful time.

Score of 20 to 0 Rolled Up by Omaha Team in Fake Plays and Smashing End Runs for Victory.

From Saturday's Daily.—After the Creighton Prep high school had been held scoreless for the opening quarter of the battle staged here yesterday afternoon, the invaders from up the river were able to put over a 20 to 0 victory on the Plattsmouth team, fakes and a bad display of misjudgment on the part of the locals contributing to the victory.

In the opening quarter the Plattsmouth team displayed a much better brand of football than that of the visitors as they were able repeatedly to inflict a loss on almost every play the Creighton attempted.

At the close of the first quarter there was substitutions made on the Creighton lineup including the sending of Fuxi and McGarr, the stars of the team into the game and who later were to contribute to the downfall of the locals.

In the opening of the second quarter Fuxi skirted the left end, the favorite point of attack for Creighton, and gained fifteen yards. Creighton then punted out and Fuxi returned the ball ten yards. Buttery gained five yards on a run a run around right end but the ball was lost when Creighton intercepted a pass. On a well played fake the Creighton team secured a gain of twenty yards around right end and carried the ball into the Plattsmouth territory where the Plattsmouth line did good work in holding the visitors and compelling them to try for a field goal that failed to be good. Gorder for Plattsmouth punted out to his own forty yard line and the ball was returned by Fuxi to the ten yard line. Fuxi then served to gain ground for the visitors and brought the ball to the ten yard line of the locals. Creighton was held for two downs when Fuxi, by a clever fake play, was able to skirt Plattsmouth's right for the touch-down, scoring on a first down.

The half was closed with the ball in Creighton territory from the kickoff.

The second touchdown of Creighton came in the third quarter when the visitors by end runs and line plunges broke through the Plattsmouth line to the two yard line where both teams did some hard playing to hold, Plattsmouth stopping the further advance of the visitors and who in turn, on losing the ball, held the Plattsmouth offensive. With the last down a play to the right the ball, it was kicked back to Gorder who was back of the goal line to kick, the ball going high and wide, and Gorder being by this time near the grandstand. As the Creighton players advanced to tackle the Plattsmouth captain back of his line he broke the ball, it was touched down by Hart, who touched the ball down for the second score, a kick gave them the added point and left the score 14 to 0.

In the last quarter both of the teams used many punts and the locals held the advantage for the remainder of their punts, Gorder bringing the ball within a few inches of the Creighton goal line and from where they punted out to their thirty-five yard line. With the ball in their own territory Creighton scored their third and last touchdown, when McGarr broke away from the Plattsmouth tackles and tore down the field from the Creighton thirty yard line for the final touchdown.

The Creighton team drew many penalties for off side, but were able to get away with many very unnecessary yardage from the Plattsmouth largely featured in the final quarter of the game.

The next game at home by Plattsmouth will be on Wednesday, November 25th, when Nebraska City is to be here for the finish of the season.

Medical Expert Called to Stand by the Plaintiff

College View Physician Basing Answer on Hypothesis Declares the Treatment of Boy Improper.

After recalling Edward and Andrew Stohlman, brother and father of Leroy Stohlman to the stand for a brief direct examination, Attorney W. B. Comstock seeking to prove Doctors B. D. Davis and Herbert Davis of Omaha, guilty of malpractice in a damage suit for $20,000 brought by Leroy Stohlman, called Dr. B. E. Nicola of College View to answer a hypothetical question.

The attorney basing his hypothesis on facts incident to the treatment of a disensed femur for the plaintiff, as related on the witness stand by his father, brother and the plaintiff himself, drew from the expert the statement that the practice of the defendant was incorrect and improper.

Leroy Stohlman retained the defendants to treat a disease of the bone in the femur of his right leg, in November, 1922, and he was under their treatment until the following March. He claims that they allowed the infection to spread by failing to drain the poison until it went into his foot, which finally burst of its own accord because of the accumulated pus.

Dr. Nicola declared that the draining of the pus should have been done much earlier in the treatment of the case.

He stated that the fact that the boy's right leg is now an inch shorter than the other indicates that the bone had been separated and broken permanently stiffened and that if drainage had been proper the permanency of the disability would have been avoided.—State Journal.

FORMER ELMWOOD MAN PASSES AWAY IN THE WEST

Word came to relatives of John Hollenbeck, who has been living in California that he had passed away at that place on Sunday. He is a former Elmwood man, a brother of Mrs. A. W. Nelhart and a cousin of L. A. Tyson. He is known by many of the older residents of Elmwood.

His death occurred at 10:30 Sunday morning at his home in San Diego, California.

John Wesley Hollenbeck was born in Dekalb county, Illinois, February 1st, 1858. He came to Lincoln, Nebraska, with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hollenbeck in 1859. He moved with his parents in 1863 to the old homestead two miles north of Elmwood, where he grew to manhood, and became a successful farmer.

In 1880 he was united in marriage to Emma Jane Shafford. From his union there were six children born, Arril, who died in infancy, Leslie and Mrs. Ruby Lindholm, now of San Diego, California; Max, at Ocean Side, California; John, Jr., who died in Washington at the age of 21 years, and Francis Sheeder, of Portland, Oregon.

In 1904 he and his family moved to Colorado. From there they went to Seattle, Washington, and later to California. While he was a young man, Mr. Hollenbeck united with the Reorganized Church of Latter Day Saints and kept his faith until the end. He has left to mourn his loss besides his wife, four children, nine grandchildren, one brother, C. M. Hollenbeck, of Omaha; one sister, Clara Nelhart of Elmwood and a sister, Cora Maddox, of Kansas City, as well as a number of other relatives.
