SPREE RESULTS IN FINE

From Wednesday's Daily—
This morning J. B. Reed, who has been engaged in working at Louisville was here to answer to a charge of being intoxicated preferred by County Attorney W. G. Kieck the defendant having been brought in yesterday by Sheriff E. P. Stewart to face the consequences of his prolonged spree that covered practically the last two weeks.
Mr. Reed acknowledged that he was guilty of the offense as charged and that he had been more or less under the influence of liquor for the past two weeks. He stated that he had bought the liquor in Omaha and denied that he had secured any across the Platte river in Sarpy county when questioned by the county attorney.

After the statements of the defendant Judge Duxbury assessed a fine of $25 and costs on the defendant he was committed to the custody of Sheriff Stewart until the amount was settled for.

Woman's Club
Real Boosters
for Home City

Meeting Last Evening Gave Some Real Boosting Ideas on the Value of the City.

From Tuesday's Daily—
The Plattsmouth Woman's Club last evening held a "Boost Plattsmouth" session and those who attended the meeting found that the ladies were real boosters for the city and its interest and in the large number of papers given by the ladies there were some very fine ideas given and some very vital facts as to the city and its charm as a place of home dwellers and its advantage from a business standpoint.

The business session of the club was presided over by Mrs. Allen J. Beeson and after the first minutes demanding the attention of the club had been handled there was a moment or two of music. Mrs. E. H. Wescott having arranged three very delightful selections, "Wariz Caprice" a piano number by Miss Laurine Aull and two vocal selections, "Winter Lullaby" and "Celeste," by Miss Helen Sharp, the accompaniment being played by Miss Ruth Janda in a very finished manner.

The Plattsmouth Ad club had been invited to the meeting and a very pleasing number of the membership were in attendance and enjoyed to the utmost the boosting spirit that the ladies were offering and which made the members of the club proud that the residents of this city.

Mrs. William Baird presided over the Boosting session and called upon the following ladies to respond, a number competing in the essay contest while others were merely of hand offerings for the benefit of the advantages of the city: Mesdames M. A. Streight, Robert Troop, L. W. Erneberger, Ralph Anderson, John F. Gorder, A. J. Beeson, W. R. Holmes, J. E. Wiley, E. H. Wescott, Robert Hayes, Glen Vallery, Miss Mae Murphy and Marie Kaufmann.

To judge the papers offered in the contest J. W. Povner, principal of the high school, Mrs. A. S. Christ and Rev. Frank Emory Pfoutz were selected as judges and after some little deliberation made necessary by the fact of the many high class offerings, they decided that the essay of Mrs. John F. Gorder should have the first prize and she was accordingly presented with a very handsome copy of "The Rim of the Prairie," the new novel of Bess Streeter Aldrich, the Elmwood authoress.

The reception committee of the club that welcomed the visitors of the Ad club were Mrs. W. L. Heinrich and Mrs. Glen Vallery.

The expression of the Ad club was expressed by Mr. C. C. Wescott, their president, who stated that he, as well as the other members, had no idea of just how many advantages Plattsmouth had until the ladies had so ably presented them.

The essay of Mrs. Gorder that won the first prize of the evening was as follows:
"In studying the question 'Why Boost Plattsmouth?' I have found eight reasons why I would boost Plattsmouth:

"First—Its location, situated as it is among these hills, with their beautiful natural timber and foliage, with the main part of town low and level, having the river close by on one side and with our broad, fertile fields on the other side, make an ideal setting for any town. Being on the main line of the Burlington and Missouri Pacific railroads, on one of the national highways and with good traveled roads approaching our city, makes it a very convenient place in which to live.

"Second—I like the church life of Plattsmouth. We have many kinds and classes, having everything from the 'Holy Rollers' to the high Episcopal, the Catholics and Germans. So that any one coming to our town can easily find a church to suit him.

"Third—I like the schools of Plattsmouth. During the past few years we have made great advancement in our school system. We have built and equipped a fine modern training building, have added manual training, music, domestic science, physical culture, and with a fine corps of teachers we are now recognized as having one of the best schools for a town of our size in the state of Nebraska.

"Fourth—I like the merchants of Plattsmouth. I have always found them kind and courteous. I have allowed me to run just as high bills as I cared to, much to my pleasure and my husband's discomfort.

"Fifth—I like the men of Plattsmouth. I think I can see a smile on the face of some of my sister's when I say I like the men, but in this I feel that I can be a little bit choosy as I realize that I have gotten more for my money, in weight at least, than any of my other sisters.

"Sixth—I like the women of Plattsmouth. I have found them loyal, brave and courageous and practically devoid of that 'catty' characteristic which is so often attributed to our sex.

"Seventh—I like the club life of Plattsmouth. We have many kinds of clubs and organizations and anyone coming here can easily find one to his or her liking. Personally I like our own Woman's Club, and think we have reason to be really proud of it. We have passed our infancy period, have escaped the 'sleeping sickness' and are now ready to do something really worth while for our town and community.

"But last and best I like Plattsmouth because it is my home. It is here among these conditions and surroundings that I have raised my family, and these same conditions and surroundings will form the background of my character. It is not all as I would like it. There are some

Blanch Braun is Bride of the Winter Season

Former Plattsmouth Girl Fights in School Day Romance at South Omaha High School.

From Tuesday's Daily—
The revelation of a school day romance at the South Omaha high school has come to light when the announcement of the marriage of (Coo-Coo) Cunningham and Miss Blanch Braun, both students at the institution was made yesterday.

The marriage of these young people occurred at Glenwood, Iowa, on November 2nd, and had been kept a close secret from the friends and relatives of the young people until the groom had completed his season at center for the South High football team.

The bride is well known in Plattsmouth where she was a student at the local schools during the time that her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Braun were residents here and the bride was very popular and prominent among the younger social sets of the city. Mrs. Cunningham is a graduate of the South Omaha high school and the romance between the young couple started when the young lady came there to carry on her educational work.

The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Cunningham, 5602 So. 28th street, and is one of the most prominent and popular young men in the south side.

SUFFERS A LAY-OFF

From Monday's Daily—
Reports from the Ford assembling plant in Omaha, where a number of Plattsmouth men are now engaged in working, state that the force there has been curtailed to quite an extent in the past week. One entire shift has been laid off by the company, which cuts down the number employed to a large extent, between 100 and 150 men being affected by the layoff. As far as can be learned there were but few from this city who were caught in the curtailing of the forces at the Ford plant.

- The W. B. A. of the Macabees is one of the five and active fraternalities of the city and the surrounding community and had under the wise and careful guidance of the officers had a fine and steady growth that makes it one of the live wire organizations of the city.

DECORATING STREETS

From Tuesday's Daily—
"Santa Claus" alias John V. Hatt, was out yesterday distributing and doing the main business streets the small Christmas trees that are to be used in the decorating for the holiday season, but the ball was so good as the tree in front of the Journal did not have a thing on it this morning when the early work-ers arrived.

The arrangement of the trees along the street makes a pretty appearance and if special lighting effects could be arranged toward the Christmas season it would add a great deal to the appearance of the business section and the general holiday festivities. However, the little green trees stretched in the long line up the street certainly look nice and add very much to the general holiday atmosphere that is prevailing from now until the New Year. The trees are as near uniform as possible and arranged in the flag pole holders, the look very attractive and a few of the tree owners allow their foresters to lean more or less out of the plumb line that they should occupy to match up with their neighbors.

JUDGE SCHMIDT HOLDS COURT

From Tuesday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon Judge Herman R. Schmidt of Murdock had his first experience with a live and sensational trial in his usually peaceful court in the pleasant little city of Murdock when the case wherein Luredo Chile was charged with assault and battery on Jacob Sterner was brought forth for trial.

The case originated at Elmwood where the assault is claimed to have occurred in the fore part of November and was originally set for trial there but was changed to the more neutral ground of Murdock for hearing and trial and Judge Schmidt as the presiding justice of the peace was called upon to hear the matter.

It was changed in the complaint filed by County Attorney W. C. Kieck that the defendant Chile had struck Sterner and had thus violated the law and upon this issue the case was battled out.

The court room which was staged in the old school building, was filled to the doors with the interested spectators from Elmwood with a few non-interested parties from Murdock present and it was required the firm hand of Judge Schmidt to quiet the outbreaks that occurred frequently during the course of the trial.

After the taking of the evidence the matter was taken under advisement by Judge Schmidt and the decision will be given later.

Both parties figured in the district court here at the opening of the district court here as Sterner carried Chile in the sum of $100 and for the alienation of the affections of his wife and was given a judgment of $1 and costs by the jury.

SMALL FIRE LAST NIGHT

From Wednesday's Daily—
The fire department was called out last evening at midnight to answer the call from the residence of A. S. Christ on North 13th street near the high school. The department on their arrival there found that the fire was located in the cellar of the home where an old trunk was blazing and sending forth a great deal of smoke that filled the rooms of the home and made it very disagreeable for the family as well as annoying in fighting the fire. The trunk was extinguished and the loss will be slight, only the smoke damage amounting to anything. It is supposed that there was some matches in the trunk and these were ignited by mice as there was not other manner that the trunk could have been fired.

Plattsmouth I Love You

Oh, Plattsmouth! I love you;
Your hills, and your valleys,
No artist can paint them
And make them look true.
Your paved streets and alleys
Are all one could ask for—
Your boulevards lovely;
Your avenues, too!

Your schools on the hill tops
Are prized very highly,
For the well little lassies and
With their staff of instructors
Efficient and fine,
And your churches!
They're truly the heart of you,
Plattsmouth! Through them
You join with the Divine.

And we, who own homes
Nested close to your bosom
Respect you and love you,
And must keep you clean
And are faithful and true to
Lads whom you shelter—
Who will some day bring honor
Upon your fair name.

Oh! There are so many things
That make us love you!
The water we drink that tests
Out so pure—
The park where the weary may
Find peace and beauty—
The muddy old river that flows
At your door—

The merchants whom mostly
I have long been your people
And are faithful and true to
The trust you reposed—
And your hand! If there is one
That plays any better,
It must be in hiding; For Nobody knows.

Oh, yes! We all love you!
But if there are any
Who do not agree
With all that we say—
We don't want to hold you;
Our doors are wide open,
There are bridges a plenty
To take you away.

But should you continue
To dwell here among us;
And boast for our Plattsmouth
"Th' your journey is run—"
You may rest in our Beautiful "Oak Hill" forever.
We can take you there safely,
Since the graving is done.

—Mrs. Willis Holmes.

There is a little old town at
The mouth of the Platte
Where my heart turns ever;
But many do that.
We will all agree, its location
Is right—
And the scenery here a wonder
Lullingly.

Here we find these friends so
Good and so true;
Be it pleasure or tears, they
Know just what to do;
And they join us in either in
Such whole-hearted way
That we firmly resolve, here
Is where we will stay.

Now the devil comes roaming
Along—
And he makes some believe that
Everything's wrong;
And he has some one say, "A Hole of a hole, this"
But take it from me—they are
The folks we don't miss.

For this little old town is right
On the square;
And it tries its level best to
Treat everyone fair;
With me you'll agree that in Numerous ways
It helps to gladden and brighten
Our days.

When we are broke, it gives Us grace—
And helps us out with smiling
Faces!
It knows our real worth and Gives all a try—
I boast for Plattsmouth. You
Surely know why.

—Mrs. Monte A. Streight.

CELEBRATE CONCEPTION DAY

From Tuesday's Daily—
This morning special services were held at the St. John's and Holy Rosary Roman Catholic churches and also at the St. Luke's Episcopal church on the celebration of the feast of the Conception of the Blessed Virgin Mary. Masses were held at all of these churches and communion administered to the members of the various parishes who were present to take part in the services.
