Post Dated Checks Source of Annoyance

Such Checks Are Same as Notes and Holders Take Them at Their Own Risk.

From Wednesday's Daily—
The office of the county attorney has in the past few weeks received a number of complaints as to parties giving post dated checks and which the holders later sought to collect but which were of course not accepted by the banks on which they were drawn.

County Attorney W. G. Kleck states for the benefit of the public, the law on matters of this kind that may be of value to the parties that may accept these checks.

"A post dated check," Mr. Kleck stated to the representative of the Journal, "is merely a promise to pay, being regarded in the nature of a note and under it, no criminal prosecution can be sustained, the holder of such check having as his or her recourse the bringing of a civil action."

The acceptance of a check of this nature, is something Mr. Kleck states, that should be guarded against by persons unless they are willing to accept it on its face as a promise to pay and in failure to do which they would have to commence action as in the case of a note.

Also in cases of checks that are returned as worthless Mr. Kleck states that the acceptance of any amount large or small as part payment on the checks by the holder, reduces the check to the nature of a note and takes away the criminal liability for the issuance of the check.

On checks under $25 the law regards as a misdemeanor and as such the parties making the checks cannot be extradited from another state to Nebraska, but over this amount the parties can be brought back on the no fund checks.

The watchfulness of the parties who accept checks is urged by the county attorney to prevent losses that occur often when fraudulent checks are sprung.

Mule Case is Heard in the County Court

Judge Duxbury Learns a Lot About the Lowly Mule in Case of Heil vs. Meisinger.

From Wednesday's Daily—
The whole history of a mule, his good and bad points and the amount of work that this lowly member of the horse family can perform or the many mean tricks that he can pull off, was given yesterday in the county court before Judge A. H. Duxbury and the hearing was heard by a packed court room.

The case was one in which Ed Heil and W. H. Meisinger, both well known and prominent young farmers of Eight Mile Grove precinct were the litigants, and the case arising out of an action filed in the county court by Mr. Heil to recover the amount of $110 represented by a check that had been given by Mr. Meisinger to Mr. Heil and upon which payment had been stopped by the giver of the check before it was presented for payment.

The check was given for the payment of a team of mules and there-by hangs the tale.
The answer and cross petition set up by Mr. Meisinger was that the mules were not as represented, that they were balky and would not work, that the check had been given on the representation that the mules were first class for working and which the defense contended that therefore Mr. Meisinger should not have to pay for them. The defense claims that the mules had been guaranteed by the previous owner and that therefore the defendant was not liable for the price of their purchase and that the plaintiff should have to pay the amount of $51 for their care since the time they were in the hands of the defendant.

The plaintiff, Mr. Heil contended in his case that the mules had been worked on his farm and that they were workable and the only trouble that they had with them was that they ran away occasionally. The plaintiff and his witnesses contended that the mules had not been misrepresented in the sale and that the plaintiff had offered to hitch them up and demonstrate them for the defendant at the time of the sale but which he had not desired.

The plaintiff had as witnesses in the case Walter Heil, Louis Schiess, J. R. Mayfield, Lloyd Heil, and J. A. Ingram, while the defense summoned to represent the side of the case C. H. Nave, C. E. Dykes, Almie Meisinger, Lyle Neben and W. C. Hennings.

After the trial of the case and the presentation of the two sides to the court by the attorneys, the decision was made by Judge Duxbury in favor of the plaintiff, Mr. Meisinger and who was awarded the claim for $51 for the care of the mules since they have been in litigation.
Notice of appeal was given and bond for the undertaking of the appeal was filed in the court by the plaintiff in the action.

LOUISVILLE WINS

The feeling of intense interest that has prevailed between Louisville and Cedar Creek baseball teams in the race in the Cass County League has been intensified by the fact that both teams have now split even in the last two games played. Cedar Creek defeating Louisville on July 11th at the Creokers home grounds and Louisville winning the game Sunday by the score of 5 to 1.

The Louisville team has "Speed" Ritz of Omaha on the mound for them and he was given good support throughout the game by his mates and this was a large contributing factor to the winning of the game by the boys from the quarry town.

The Cedar Creek team suffered from their inability to bunch hits as the drives of Raymond Lohnes, hard hitting outfielder of the Creokers came at times when the bases were unoccupied and proved to be without result. Lohnes secured a triple, a double and a single in his four trips to bat.

Art Klauschie did the hurrying for the Creokers but was unable to hold the quarriesmen and with the ragged fielding resulted in the win for the Louisville team.

The tally of Cedar Creek was secured as the result of Ritz walking a man with the bases full and presenting the run to the Creokers.

RECEIVES AN HONOR

From Wednesday's Daily—
Mrs. A. Rosencrans, president of the local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary, has just received a request from Miss Ethel Thompson, of York, state president, that she accept the position of chairman of pages at the Auxiliary state convention which meets at Chadron on August 23 to 25th.

Mrs. Rosencrans served in the capacity of page at the convention at Columbus last year and also at the national convention in Omaha and her services were of such a high order of efficiency that the state president has been insistent that she accept the work of directing the pages in the coming state convention.

In this honor to their president is much appreciated by the local unit, it being a real recognition of the earnest and effective work that Mrs. Rosencrans has been giving the Auxiliary both locally and in the state.

NEW FAMILIES HERE

From Wednesday's Daily—
In the last few days there has been an increase of several new families to the community, the larger part of these being families of men that are employed on the construction work of the new Missouri Pacific bridge north of this city, while several of the new officials of the Burlington Refrigerator Express company have also come here to make their homes, and be a part of the community life.

The new arrivals in the city has increased the demand for modern homes and these are now practically all in use and only the homes that are not strictly in keeping with the modern day living are on the market for rental purposes. The house demand has been very brisk, real estate dealers report and they have enjoyed one of the most active periods for several months.

Broadcasters Move to Stop Air Tangle

National Association Asked Not to Switch Wavelengths Pending Legislation.

New York, July 16.—The National Association of Broadcasters acted today to end the confusion caused when several local stations raised their wave lengths and made hash of other stations' programs.

Paul B. Klugh, executive chairman of the association, said the more than two hundred members of the association were asked to pledge themselves not to change their wave lengths pending passage of adequate legislation.

The mixup in the broadcasting industry was caused by an opinion of the attorney general that the department of commerce has no power to regulate wave lengths, station power and hours of operation. Four local stations took advantage of the lack of authority and jumped their wave lengths, interfering, according to reports, with other stations.

"From a legal viewpoint," said Mr. Klugh, "stations which appropriate a wave length assigned to another are raising a very serious question of property rights. It will not be surprising to see many lawsuits started to protect stations' rights if this continues. There is little doubt in my mind but that such cases could be won easily, and the offending station would no doubt be enjoined from broadcasting."

L. A. Nixon, secretary of the National Radio Trade association, said he thinks the situation will cure itself.

"No broadcaster," he said, "wants to go on a wave length which will cause interference with other stations. The station which raises its length suffers as much from such a condition as the stations with which it interferes, and complaints from the audiences will, I believe, force such stations to return to their assigned wave lengths."

Burlington Has Crack Train in Denver Limited

Train De Luxe Provided for the Travel From the East for the Summer Season.

Impressive ceremonies attended the exhibition in Chicago last week of the Burlington's new train The Denver Limited. The entire train, consisting of all new equipment from mountain type locomotive to observation car was on display in the Chicago Union Station from 10:00 a. m. until 5:00 p. m., the public exhibition having been featured by the first appearance of handsome new casino-lounge cars which are said to be the finest units of railway equipment ever built.

Especially because the new casino cars herald a new era in modern railway transport facilities much was made of the official dedication of the train, both in Chicago and in Denver where similar ceremonies were held with the mayors of the respective cities participating. For the first time on record the radio swung across the continent the details of the dedication of a new train. By means of special wires a microphone was set up in the glass-enclosed sun parlor of the local unit, an engine, puffed into the station and departed, while photographers took pictures and the interested crowd trooped through the great train on an admiring inspection tour, the mayor of Chicago, the vice president of the Burlington route and other notables who were invited as guests of honor told the story of this beautiful train.

The interior decorative scheme of the new casino cars is that of a royal old Pompeia palace—red, black, gold and green—cool in its effect and delightful to look upon. Every piece of furniture throughout the new car was especially designed and is as comfortable and attractive as it is new and novel in style.
The new train will ply forth and back between Chicago and Denver and is the Burlington's answer to the demand for more and better accommodations for summer travelers who spend their summer vacation in the Rocky Mountains.

Special Clearance Sale Opens Successfully

Extraordinary Bargains Draws in a Large Number From Iowa and Eastern Nebraska.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Enthusiasm was keyed to a high pitch as the doors of nine of Plattsmouth leading merchants launched, what is proving to be an unprecedented event, in the annals of Bargain offerings.

An event of this kind, and a sale of such magnitude, with so conspicuous and outstanding bargains, should cause every man and woman, living in this district to come here, and buy their entire necessities for months to come.

Value of Sale Shown.
The only regrettable feature is that every merchant in the city did not enter the sale, as the real value was shown clearly today in a conversation we overheard at Fetters Shoe store. A lady, evidently living between Plattsmouth and Nebraska City had just purchased footwear, and remarked that she had traded a good deal in that store in years gone by, but had not been in Plattsmouth for a long time.

She was informed that Plattsmouth people were glad to have her back again.
She said, "I always did like to buy my shoes here and never traded in a store we liked better than Mr. Bestor's hardware, and it was hard to get in the habit of buying our groceries anywhere else, because we liked the quality we got in Plattsmouth, but I just couldn't find the dry goods I wanted, and my husband seemed to be unable to get the kind of clothing he wanted here, so we had to go to another town for those things, and we just gradually got in the habit of going to Nebraska City, and finally began buying everything there."

It's a Wonderful Opportunity to Save
Our prediction is that ever family in this country will visit Plattsmouth, during these ten days, as they will without an equal for honest-to-goodness bargains.

HAS A REAL PROBLEM

From Wednesday's Daily—
The case of George Lafferty, 14 year old Kansas City boy who has been here for the past two weeks is furnishing a real problem for the city police department as well as the county attorney and county judge as to what to do with the boy.

The lad arrived here on the bum with two strangers from whom he had secured an auto ride as far as this city and has since for the greater part of the time been a ward of the police and city. A job was secured for him near the city on a small farm but the boy was not satisfied and became involved in trouble that led to his being brought to the attention of the county authorities.

The age of the boy and the fact that he has not had the proper opportunities to become a useful citizen has been considered by the authorities and they are trying to reach some solution that will result in the boy having better opportunities and to secure an education. The only course that the law can offer is that he be sent to the state industrial school, but this is not desired if any other way can be devised and relatives in the east have been writing the boy an endeavor to see if they cannot take the boy and give him a chance in life. His parents have no desire to have him and if the other relatives or some citizen that desires to do a real work for society in trying to put the boy on the right track does not appear on the scene the boy will probably be placed in the industrial school where of course he can learn a trade and receive an education but also come in touch with elements that are not always the best.

Much Wanted Man Now in the Co. Jail Here

From Wednesday's Daily—
Sheriff E. P. Stewart was at Nebraska City yesterday afternoon where he secured Frank Andrews who was apprehended early Tuesday morning near the Cass-Otoe county line where he was found asleep in his car which was parked in the center of the road, by Henry Ruhman, a farmer who resides near that place. The car was without lights and Mr. Ruhman collided with the Andrews car.

The man is wanted in this county and also at Osceola, Nebraska, where he is wanted for the robbery of a house stealing a watch, clothing, a camera and $25 in cash. The camera was found in his car when he was arrested.

Andrews was questioned as to the Osceola robbery and stated that he had traded the watch in an Omaha bootlegging joint for liquor. It is thought that he used the money taken from the Osceola house for the purpose of purchasing the car in which he was found, it being an old and badly used machine.

This morning Andrews was brought up for hearing before Judge A. H. Duxbury in the county court and stated that he had come to Omaha from Osceola where he had been working for some time and that while he was in Omaha he had drunk some, at first denying that he had been intoxicated, stating that he had driven the car without lights until near the Otoe county line when he decided to stop and wait for daylight. After considering the matter Andrews later entered a plea of guilty to the charge of intoxication and was given a sentence of fifteen days in the county jail.

The man will be held here to serve his time and will then be turned over to the Polk county authorities to answer to the offence charged against him there.

It is claimed that Andrews was just recently released from the Sidney jail where he served a sentence of several months.

Farm Buildings Razed by Fire

All Buildings Except of House on Farm Near Elmwood Destroyed—Small Boy Injured.

Elmwood, Neb., July 20.—All the buildings, with the exception of the house, on the farm of Gerald Reber, three and one-half miles southeast of here, were destroyed by fire at 5 p. m. Tuesday. Clarence, small son of Otto Fleischman, suffered severe burns in the blaze.

The fire started when Mr. Fleischman attempted to put gasoline in the tank of his tractor which was still warm. Some of the gasoline spilled on the exhaust pipe and an explosion followed. Mr. Fleischman, Mr. Reber and a number of other men were threshing out on the Reber farm.

The clothing of the Fleischman lad was ignited by the explosion. His father carried him to a nearby watering tank and put out the flames. Mr. Fleischman was burned on his hands from carrying his son.

Many of the farm implements were saved by the men, who put them out of reach of the flames. The following buildings were destroyed: Barn, double corn crib, two hen houses, garage, hog house, and tool house. Five tons of hay and straw and two loads of freshly threshed oats were also consumed. The house was saved only thru the efforts of the men and the Elmwood fire department. A crew of men, who were threshing at a neighbor's, assisted in subduing the flames which were threatening the house. The tractor was badly damaged.

The farm was the property of Miss Edith Chapman who lives in Illinois. Mr. Reber was renting the land.

Big Crowd at King Ak's 1926 Den Offering

Cass and Otoe County night at Ak-Sar-Ben's Den—Large Crowd From Plattsmouth.

From Tuesday's Daily—
Last evening was Cass and Otoe county night at the Ak-Sar-Ben den and the representation from Cass county, especially from Plattsmouth, was one of the best in a number of years, there being four hundred tickets given out here by Guy W. Morgan and Fred Vincent, and at this many were compelled to secure tickets of admission at the den. The road was filled with cars from Nebraska City and intermediate points as well as this city during the early hours of the evening as the caravan motored on to the scene of the evening's fun.

The show this year is a clever and entertaining as the Ak shows have been in the past and with the fun and horse play there is a fine array of musical numbers that the Knights present in a very artistic manner.

At the show this year there was only a small number selected for the initiatory work and several from the city served to form part of the involuntary fun program of the evening. One well known county official was picked out as one of the candidates but was kept in the "bull pen" and not even worked on, missing about half of the show, as actor or spectator.

Judge James T. Begley gave a real talk of deep interest on the matter of the Missouri river bridge in which all parts of eastern Nebraska and western Iowa is interested and which was warmly received by the large audience, the Cass county representation being especially enthusiastic over the proposition.

It was late when the members of the party returned home but all felt that they had a real time in the entertainment afforded them by the Ak-Sar-Ben.

REPORTS GREAT CONVENTION
From Wednesday's Daily—
Attorney D. O. Dwyer, of this city, who has for a number of years been a member of the American Bar Association, has just recently returned from Denver where he attended the meeting of this organization and reports that it was the greatest session of the lawyers that he has attended and he has been at practically all of the meetings in recent years.

The chief feature at the Denver meeting was the deep and earnest effort that the bar made evidence of opposing the trend of centralization in the American government that at this time is tending to rob the people of many of their hard bought liberties in the way of local self government and personal rights. Many of the leaders of the bar, including Chester I. Long of Kansas, retiring president, and James M. Beck, noted New York attorney, and long connected with the attorney general's office at Washington spoke on this subject.

Of the social features of the convention Mr. Dwyer was most enthusiastic over the manner in which the Colorado bar had planned the entertainment of the convention and which included banquets and luncheons as well as many trips out in the most noted resorts of the vicinity of Denver and drives through the beauties of the Rockies that are among the most wonderful sights in the world.
