

DODGE BROTHERS DE LUXE SEDAN

People select motor cars by different standards.

Some desire luxury and ostentation. Others, utility and economy alone. Dodge Brothers DE LUXE SEDAN strikes a fine and distinguished balance—both in appearance and price—between these two extremes.

It provides unusual comfort and roominess; a refinement of line and design in which the owner takes deep pride; and everywhere in the world the name it bears is associated with the highest standards of integrity and workmanship.

With reasonable care, the DE LUXE SEDAN serves its owners for years, frequently delivers mileage running well into six figures, and on the resale market brings prices that strikingly reflect the solid value Dodge Brothers have built into it. Dollar for dollar's worth of genuine automobile.

From Tuesday's Daily—
The rural teachers of Cass county will have the opportunity during the week of August 30th to September 4th of attending one of the most interesting agricultural courses that has been prepared for the students of this important branch of modern school work.

The instructions will be in the hands of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Cooper of Maryville, Missouri, who have made a study of several years of the vitalized agricultural problems and in their work in a large number of the counties of Missouri and Nebraska they have created a great deal of interest.

The special courses of study will be held at the high school building in Plattsmouth and the instructors will be busy all of the week in giving in intense form a tabloid course in the modern agricultural training.

Mr. and Mrs. Cooper have been teaching this course in Saunders, Butler and York county where their work with the rural teachers has proven a very great success.

In the week of intense study here Mr. and Mrs. Cooper will be assisted by F. A. Rothert, manual training teacher of the local high school. The problems of the home, farm and school and the greater working union of these important factors will be handled by the instructors in their courses of study.

Plattsmouth Boy Wins High Honors at the C. M. T. C.

Carl R. Keil of This City Selected as the Winner of the Kemper Military Scholarship.

From Wednesday's Daily—
One of the Plattsmouth young men who are attending the citizens military training camp at Fort Des Moines, Iowa, Carl R. Keil, has been selected for one of the highest honors of the camp, that of receiving the Kemper Military academy scholarship.

This reward is one of the choicest honors that can come to the young men at the training camps and was secured by Mr. Keil in competition with the others of the third year men at the camp and which is proof of the ability and earnest effort of the Plattsmouth young man in being able to carry off the honor.

The Kemper academy is one of the best known military and educational institutions in the west and is located at Booneville, Missouri, and from its scholarship has graduated a large number of the military leaders of the nation. The scholarship that they offer has a cash value of $750 as it provides a year's free training at this crack military academy and is a real honor to receive.

Carl R. Keil is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Keil of this city and a graduate of the Plattsmouth high school of the class of 1926 and for the past three years has been attending at the Plattsmouth military training camps at Fort Des Moines and has held place as one of the non-commissioned officers at the camp and by his military bearing and faithful observance of the tasks assigned to him has won the confidence and respect of the officers in charge of the camp and now has the pleasure of receiving one of the choicest honors of the training camp as a reward of his services.

CLEAN-KEPT PIGS MEAN GOOD PROFIT

So far as hog business is concerned, Nebraska is in the area of trouble prevention rather than trouble cure. Vaccination to protect hogs from cholera is now a common practice. The prevention of filth-borne diseases and parasites is being adopted by more and more farmers every year.

Bull nose, worms, and enteritis affect young pigs only and are introduced to the pigs through the filth of the old hog lot where hogs have been raised for year. Farrowing the pigs and raising them on clean ground where hogs have not been before is a safe and simple way of keeping the pigs and the pests apart. This system, in brief, provides for a clean mother, a clean house, and a clean yard for the pigs from the minute they are born until they are just past the susceptible age.

It is a system, which will be followed by those farmers who make the most money from fall pigs this year.

Made Hens Lay in Fall.

One outstanding fact brought out by the records of the 1925 record flock is that the fourth year co-operators have learned to keep their hens on the job during August and September, the common season for moult for the hens. During August and September of 1925 these flock owners got 43 per cent more eggs than they did in the same months of 1922. In other words, they learned to feed their hens so they would moult late in the fall and moult quickly. The records show that the hens laid more eggs in October and November also in 1925 than in 1922. These fourth year co-operators increased their average egg production per hen from 118 to 147 eggs in the four years. Improvements in the hens kept in the housing, the equipment, and in feeding tell the story. Interest in the chickens because they were known to be profitable is another reason for the better care and management.

What to Do With Damaged Corn.

Some fields of corn in Nebraska that have been seriously damaged by dry weather will not develop ears; in others, only a few ears will be formed. The question with many people is what to do with this crop in order to get the most value from it. Without doubt the corn should be cut and either shocked in the field or placed in the silo. In this way the greater part of the food nutrients can be preserved until such time as one desires to feed the product. Inasmuch as Nebraska has had considerable rain recently, most fields can be left standing for some time to come as the food value of the plant will be greatly benefitted by continued development even though an ear does not form. In regions where no rain has fallen and where the corn is damaged beyond repair, it probably should be cut and shocked in rather large piles or preferably put in a silo. This corn does have considerable food value and is worth preserving providing it has obtained sufficient height to be cut satisfactorily with a binder.

There is no danger of this fodder or the fact that many plants do chokeoff ensilage poisoning stock. Because of the fact that many plants do develop there is rather a common opinion that corn does likewise. Where one has sufficient cattle to graze the stalks as they stand, this practice can be followed with comparative safety.
