

Nehawka Department!

Prepared in the interests of the People of Nehawka and Surrounding Vicinity Especially for the Journal Readers.

J. L. Smith and Henry Sturm were delivering corn to the Farmer's Elevator on last Monday.

During the week W. A. August shelled and delivered 2,500 bushels of corn at the Nehawka elevator.

Albert Wolfe was looking after some business matters in Murray on last Sunday evening, driving over in his car.

Edward Murray was shelling and delivering his corn to the elevator in Murray during the early portion of this week.

A. G. Cisney of near Murray was a business visitor in Nehawka on last Monday morning and was looking after some business.

Mrs. J. R. Hill, living north of Nehawka, has been having a very severe time with one of her feet, caused by an ingrowing toe nail.

Miss Gladys Wolfe and Mrs. L. M. McVey were visiting and looking after some shopping in Nehawka City on last Monday afternoon.

Vilas P. Sheldon was a visitor in the county seat on last Friday and was looking after some business matters during the afternoon.

Silas Munn purchased a new Ford touring car, getting it from Raymond Berger, and who by the way is a sure rustler for business in his line.

Lloyd Lewis of near Murray was a visitor in Nehawka on last Monday, driving down in his car to look after some business matters in Nehawka.

A. B. Dowler of Weeping Water was a visitor in Nehawka on last Monday, driving over to look after some business matters for a short time.

Oscar Hobaek, who had a very fine crop of potatoes, was delivering a wagon load of the tubers to the Shell-Dentiment store on last Monday morning.

The materials for the new bridge in the western edge of Nehawka have arrived and will be hauled to the site as soon as possible, and will then be ready for use.

On last Monday W. O. Troop, Robert Troop and Earl Troop were unloading a car load of hay which they had shipped to Murray and which will be used in feeding their cattle.

William Martin and father of Omaha, were down on last Sunday and were visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Chapman, they also gathered some walnuts for the winter use.

Miss Grace Lindner of near Murray and Mrs. Majorie Frans of Union contributed to the success of the synod at Murray during the past week by their furnishing music for the occasion.

Miss Clara Ahrends has been with her brother Fred Ahrends of near Myard and doing the cooking for him during the time when he was getting his wheat in. She returned home the last of last week.

Sure, there is some joy at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Merritt Pollard and on account of the arrival of the son, who came to make his home with them on last Saturday. The mother and the young man are doing nicely and everybody is happy.

Frank M. Lemon and wife were visiting at North Bend on last Sunday where they drove in their car, and where they were visiting at the home of a sister of Mrs. Lemon, Mrs. M. E. Chandler. They enjoyed a very nice visit and returned home last Sunday evening.

The Lundberg garage, which has accepted the agency for the Crosley range, has during the past week disposed of two of these excellent machines to William Chappell and Earl Chappell respectively, who are very well pleased with the excellent work which they do.

A. F. Sturm, who several weeks since, sustained an injury to one of his feet, was able for the first time on last Sunday to walk without his crutches, but found it pretty tough. He is improving and will, he hopes, be able to dispense with the walking sticks in a short time.

James S. Rough, otherwise known as Stewart Rough and wife, were tired of staying at home and on last Sunday went to Plattsmouth, then to Fort Crook and thence west to Springfield and south to Louisville, where they recrossed into Cass county and came home from there and had a fine ride and a good time.

Clyde Switzer was a visitor in Weeping Water on last Monday morning, but not for the very pleasure of the trip for he had an aching molar which had been giving him some trouble for some time, which he, with the aid of the dentist, parted company with. He is feeling better but the molar is still very sore.

Fred L. Hill has been constructing a grainery and feeder combined at the home of W. O. Troop, which Mr. Troop will use for the feeding of his cattle, and thus eliminate a good deal of work incident to the feeding of stock. Mr. Troop sure selected the right man when he secured Mr. Hill to construct the new feeder.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Pitman and Mr. and Mrs. M. C. Pitman of Avoca were visiting for the afternoon last Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. S. H. Chapman, coming to see Mrs. Chapman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas S. Pitman, who has just returned from a number of weeks at the hospital at Omaha, where she underwent an operation and is now recovering from the recent illness.

On last Saturday night some one who did not fear the law of respect for the rights of others went to the home of Mr. E. G. Watkins where they stole all the apples from one tree, amounting to about four bushels and got away with them. Mr. Watkins who could ill afford to lose them took the matter very complacently, and said, "I suppose they needed them worse than I."

John Vantine, who was last week attending the Synod of the Presbyterian church at Murray, was suddenly taken ill, and had to be removed to a hospital at Omaha where he underwent an operation for some sinus trouble and it was reported he was suffering with some pus on his lungs. His many friends are hoping that he will be able soon to return to his home and be free from the trouble.

John G. Wunderlich and wife departed last week for a visit with friends and drove in their car to Superior, where they visited for a time at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Spohn, of that place, but formerly of Cass county. Mr. and Mrs. Wunderlich found the former Cass county people feeling fine and enjoying their new home, and were much rejoiced to have Mr. and Mrs. Wunderlich visit them.

Mrs. Clarence Armstrong, who has been feeling quite poorly for some time past, was so much troubled with her condition that she went to the University hospital at Omaha where she is being treated by the physicians and surgeons there, but with not the best of success as they are in doubt as to just what the cause of her illness is and just what it is. She is remaining and it is hoped that some remedy may be of such effect as to restore this good woman to her former good health.

C. D. St. John Still Sick. Charles D. St. John, the Nehawka Miller, who was sick last week and was compelled to remain at home on account of the illness, was able to be up Friday of last week, but was soon compelled to return to his bed again on Sunday but is hoping soon to be well again.

Corn Husking Contest.

We wish to hold a corn husking contest in Cass county the last week in October or the first or November. The winner of this contest will be entered in the state contest which will be held about November 11. The national contest will also be held in Nebraska. We know Cass county has some good huskers, so those who wish to enter please write or phone the Farm Bureau office by Oct. 25, as we must know how many contestants we will have. The contest will probably be held near Plattsmouth, where the corn is good. Suitable prizes will be awarded the winner and runner-up in this contest.

Women's Home Economic Meeting

The meeting will be held in Weeping Water with Miss Douglas on Oct. 19, and in Elmwood Oct. 20. There is still time for a few more clubs to join, so choose your delegates and send them to this meeting.

Club Members Final Report.

If Cass county is to win any free trips to Lincoln or Chicago, club members must file their final reports immediately. We wish to take this opportunity to thank everyone for their co-operation in this work.

Fall Planting Not Recommended.

In Nebraska, ornamental shrubs and trees as well as fruit plants had better be transplanted next spring rather than this fall. If it were certain that the plants would get plenty of moisture all winter and that the winter would be mild, much would be gained by planting at this time of the year. The plants would produce considerable root growth before the spring plantings. However, too often the cold dry winds and the lack of snow tax the resisting powers of even the well established plants. Such winters always cause heavy losses among the fall planted trees and shrubs. Such ornaments as peonies, phlox, larkspur, columbine, lilies, tulips, narcissi, hyacinth and jonquils, however, should be planted in the fall.

TAKING VIEWS HERE

From Wednesday's Daily—Sup't C. J. Connett, Dr. S. E. Condra, Val Kuska, Colonization Agent of the C. B. & Q. will visit Plattsmouth, according to a telephone message received by the chamber of commerce, this coming Thursday, to take still and movie photographs of points of interest along the river.

It is planned and hoped that eventually Plattsmouth and vicinity thru the co-operation of the Burlington in this city will have one of the most attractive folders yet issued in the state, with which to advertise to the whole country the greatest advantages of this section of the country. This feature of advertising must come to get results and it is felt certain by the chamber of commerce that when the opportune time comes to put this into action, it will receive the hearty support of the farmers, and merchants of this section of the state, and stimulate our realty business, bringing more families into this "chosen land"—Cass county and Plattsmouth in particular.

MARRIED AT NEBRASKA CITY

The many friends over Cass county will be interested in learning of the marriage at Nebraska City last week of Miss Erma Shera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Shera, residing south of this city and Mr. Norval Hawthorne, of Nebraska City. The wedding was very quiet and the young people unattended.

Following the wedding Mr. and Mrs. Hawthorne motored to Rock Bluffs where a reception was tendered them at the home of the bride's parents and attended by a very large number of the friends. One of the features of the event was a wedding dinner fit for a king that was enjoyed to the fullest extent by all of the members of the party.

The bride was born and reared to womanhood in the locality where her parents now reside and is one of the most popular ladies of that locality. The groom is an employe of the Wilson packing company at Nebraska City and the young people will make their future home in that city.

COOLIDGE RECORD ISSUE IN WASHINGTON ELECTION

Seattle, Oct. 12.—Sidetracking the issues of prohibition and American adherence to the world court, which were raised before the Washington primary of congressional candidates have waged their final campaign battles over their records in office or on the achievements of the republican party under President Coolidge. One United States senator and five representatives in congress will be chosen in the general election. State anti-slavery league contest. The primary was a dry victory. Proponents of the world court adherence point to the large primary vote for Senator Wesley L. Jones, renominated by the republicans after five terms in the house and three in the senate, is opposed by candidates of three other parties.

Nebraskans Joining in Homeseekers Colonies in West

Tide of Emigration Still to the West the Figures of Burlington Railroad Shows.

The path of empire still running west, homeseekers' colonies in Wyoming and the Pacific northwest will claim approximately 5,000 citizens from Nebraska, and a probable aggregate of 40,000 persons from the middle western states during 1926. Illinois will head the list, with an estimated exodus of 10,000 persons in search of western farming homes. In addition to the number of emigrants for the year, which represents an estimate made by J. B. Lamson, head of the department of agricultural development for the Burlington railroad, numerous excursions will be made by farmers traveling in parties and seeking the lure of the west, ponder the counsel of Horace Greeley and eventually, perhaps, to join the exodus.

Inquiries from the middle west coming to the offices of Burlington colonization agents between 1922 and 1925 have totaled 60,000.

Migration is ever westward. Western colonies are attracting several different classes of citizens. First come tenant farmers of the middle west, eager to achieve coveted independence and security for old age. Their number is augmented by land-poor farmers, who sell their holdings and with the proceeds buy smaller western irrigated farms which produce an amount equivalent to their former large holdings, enabling them to reserve a portion of their capital for operating expenses and many of the colonized regions crops are produced on contract, for a stated market price.

Industrial workers tired of city life compose a large percentage of colonists. Clerical workers are attracted to outdoor life. School teachers and stenographers enjoy the surroundings and the possibility of financial independence, or of marrying prosperous ranchmen in the "womanless west."

"The tide of population moves slowly," said Mr. Lamson who has had many years experience in colonization work. "We find that colonization always progresses by the step system. Our experience has shown that families, in one or two generations, pass, for example, from Ohio to Illinois, then to Nebraska, from Nebraska to Wyoming, and so on.

The Burlington railroad, long identified with the agricultural interests of the middle west and colonization projects in the west, through its agricultural development department and colonization agents, performs much friendly service for the emigrants," Mr. Lamson explained.

"We arrange excursion parties and plan their tours so that prospective settlers are enabled easily to investigate the regions in which they are interested, and to meet and be entertained by resident colonists while on tour.

Motor tours through central and northern Illinois were made in May under the direction of B. Stevenson, eastern representative of the Big Horn Basin Colonization association, who has permanent headquarters at Omaha, Neb., to advertise the Big Horn Basin project in Wyoming, to prospective settlers. Much interest was shown and tours, begun in September, are now being conducted. During August a party of 125 persons, which met at Minneapolis, made a tour of Montana.

It is reminded of the enormous spread of the United States when we stop to realize that though in the last quarter century millions of acres of western land have been settled, that millions yet remain. Why, in one region alone, that of the Big Horn Basin, in Northern Wyoming, a great topographical bowl bordered by mountains 7,000 to 14,000 feet high, there are 7,000,000 acres. Of these, 1,000,000 are tillable with irrigation, and 250,000 are now irrigated and developed.

The basin is proving one of the most attractive areas to settlers, and there is now in effect a guaranteed minimum price for the principal crops. Farmers who grow beets are certain of $8 a ton for them, the highest price which has been paid by sugar manufacturers. Seed peas and beans are grown on a contract basis, and for a fixed price. Irrigation is well established, and colonists may settle there assured that they have been protected, as far as possible, from future difficulties.

"Settlers homesteaded 640 acres of dry land, and from 40 to 80 acres of irrigated land. Irrigated land costs about $100 a acre, which represents the cost of installing the irrigation system. Terms of payment are such as to place a home within the reach of anyone possessed of a small amount of capital, five per cent at purchase, no further payment for five years, then a series of payments extending over fifteen years. No interest is charged. The settler must live on the land three years, seven months a year. Settlers' excursions are made at low rates, one fare and two dollars for a round trip ticket.

CITES G. O. P. FAILURE

Oseola, Neb., Oct. 12.—Former Governor Charles W. Bryan addressed an enthusiastic meeting here today. He cited the failure of the republican national government to "function in the interests of the common people since the advent of the Harding administration."

Mr. Bryan asserted several times that he will withdraw as a candidate if it is shown he misquoted figures in which he compared his own administration with that of former Governor McKelvie and Governor McMullen.

He charge that both McKelvie and McMullen levied millions of dollars more in taxes than his own administration.

When entertaining, use Denison goods. Bates Book and Gift Shop carries the entire Denison line and is the only place in this territory where you can buy genuine Denison materials.

Trying to Arrange to House State Lawmakers

Capitol Commission to Determine After Confering with Officers of Masonic Temple Association

The capitol commission will meet October 23 to determine whether to try at all hazards to have representative hall ready in the rough for members of the lower house of the legislature when that body is called to convene January 4, 1927. W. E. Hardy of Lincoln, member of the commission, conferred with Secretary Cochran Monday and this date for the meeting was fixed in view of the fact that Walter W. Head of Omaha cannot attend a meeting at an earlier date. The other members are Governor McKelvie and Judge W. H. Thompson.

Mr. Hardy in the meantime will confer with the proper officers of the Masonic temple association in regard to renting the large lodge room and the small lodge room in the Scottish Rite temple at Fifteenth and L streets, one block north of the capitol grounds. He will be prepared to report to the capitol commission. It is understood that if the rooms can be obtained the state will be required to pay only sufficient rent to redecorate the lodge rooms at the close of the legislative session. The smaller room is suitable for the use of the senate, composed of thirty-three members. The larger lodge room would be large enough to house the 100 members of the house.

Commissioner Hardy said the hall in the new capitol would have to be equipped with a temporary roof if it is used next winter. Its use would prevent workmen from continuing their labor on the house for more than three months and thus delay completion of the hall for that length of time. Mr. Hardy said it will be difficult to open a passage to the unfinished representative hall without blocking work on a considerable part of the whole building. The second court room in the new capitol which was proposed as a hall for the senate next winter has been delayed by changes in the framework calling for new steel which has not yet been received.
