"OTHELLO" PRODUCCED WITH JAZZ AND RADIO. London—England has gone America's evening dress "Hamlet" one better by producing "Othello" with the aid of jazz, of whisky and the radio. The Desdemona of 1926, as portrayed by the King's college dramatic society wears the very latest fashion in clothes and the other actors are attired accordingly. The officers wear a sort of French uniform, "Tailor made" cigarettes are used frequently. The herald in Act II for the "studio of Cyprus Broadcasting company. Also the lines were delivered in a chatty tone of voice the producers did not dare modernize the language Shakespeare put in the mouths of his characters.

Florida is advertising again now and very ably—but look out that you don't call it a whirlwind campaign.

Well Loved Woman Answers the Death Call

Mrs. Ernest N. Ahl Departs This Life on Wednesday After Months of Patient Suffering.

The death of Mrs. Ernest N. Ahl occurred on Wednesday, December 29, 1926, thus bringing much sadness into the hearts of her family and host of friends at a time when the world is usually rejoicing and enjoying many happy occasions. But to this patient sufferer, death came as a welcome relief from the pain and weariness of a long illness, during which she was given the most devoted and tender care by her husband and her relatives and friends. Nothing was left undone that would add to her comfort or pleasure, all of which was greatly appreciated by Mrs. Ahl.

The funeral occurred the following Saturday, on New Year's day, from the Glendale church. Rev. David Simpson, pastor of the M. E. church, at Louisville, officiating. The pall bearers were neighbors and friends and were J. R. Mayfield, George Hennings, Lloyd Group, Otto Sprick, Philip Hennings and C. J. Fankovich.

A male quartet composed of Rev. Simpson, William Schwalm, V. H. Breeden and J. R. Noyes sang several fine selections, accompanied by Mrs. V. H. Breeden. The pastor took for his text a most appropriate one, "I have fought a good fight; I have kept the faith. Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness." (II Timothy 4:7-8) and his remarks were very comforting to the sorrowing family. Interment was in Glendale cemetery.

MELLON THINKS BANKS ARE LOANING TO VETS

Washington, Jan. 6.—Declaring that banks generally are making loans on the soldier bonus certificates, Secretary Mellon said today he saw no need for the government going into the business of making the loans direct.

The problem confronting the banks in obtaining proper identification of the certificate holders would be a greater problem for the government, Mr. Mellon believes, in the event of approval by congress of the proposal before it that the treasury make direct loans.

Vet Meeting at Detroit.

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 6.—Having adopted resolutions characterizing as "unfair" the attitude of Detroit banks in refusing to make loans on demand on their government insurance certificates, Detroit war veterans were looking to a committee appointed last night to effect an understanding with the local clearing house association.

GARNER HAS NOT GIVEN UP

Washington, Jan. 7.—Representative Garner of Texas, minority financial spokesman in the house, said today some republicans would join the democrats in an effort to obtain action on tax legislation which had been shelved for the session by the ways and means committee.
