S. R. McKelvie Speaker at Boy Scout Banquet Splendid Feature of Boy Scout Week

Activities-Local Scout Honored at Event.

From Wednesday's Daily-Boy Scout week, nationally observed and marking the 17th anniversary of the chartering of the Boy Scouts of America, was observed here last night at the annual scout banquet which this year was held at the First Christian church and was enjoyable and inspirational to all of those in attendance whether they were scouts of tenderfoot year or more grizzeled scouts in the battle of life.

The church was arranged with the ational colors of red, white and blue and the American flag, one of the Scout emblems of service, was evidenced in the large flags displayed on the walls and in the tiny flags used as the favors of the event. The banquet itself was one of the most pleasant that the scouts have held and the ladies of the Christian church preparing and serving the banquet deserve a world of praise for their delightful and tastily serv repast. The success of this pubc banquet that the ladies served was one that leads to the wish that they might be called upon for many and reduction of the possibilities of more such events. The menu was duced the speakers of the evening. Each speaker of the list was greeted by the Scouts with their enthusiastic songs and cheers and the members of the two troops vived, with each other in their greetings, to the guests of the evening, E. H. Wescott, chairman of the scout committee coming in for his share of the greeting for his work for the scouts.

Mr. Pollock in his opening stated that scouting was more than merely a good time for the boys, that it required time and training to perfect the scout and from the principles and teachings of the scouts was derived a real citizenship., That the scouts were real assets to the community, and to the speaker it was a regret that there were no scouts in his boyhood days that he might have had a part in their work. Floyd Flack. scoutmaster of Plattsmouth was the first speaker and made a short and pleasing address, thanking the ladies for their work in arranging the banquet and E. H. Wescott for his part in the success of the event. Mr. Flack stated that the address of James E. West, na tional scout executive was being broadcast through WEAF and that to those scouts that could not hear the address Mr. West sent the request that all join in the pledging anew in the scout oath. This was done by all of the members of the troop present. Mr. Flack called the attention of the audience to the fact that this was the 17th anniversary of the Scouts organizations having a charter from the United States government, others being the American Red Cross and the American Legion. million Scouts, one-third of whom had joined the past year. Scouting was growing in this land and others might be one of the scouts. It was a work that took the boy at the age of twelve and carried him through to his eighteenth year in the formative stages by good, clean training and living. Mr. Flack also mentioned the two
