Ford May be a Defense Witness Last of Week

Nationally Known Figures Not to Be Called to Testify in Aaron Sapiro's Libel Suit.

Detroit, March 21.—Wide avenues of interest in Aaron Sapiro's $1,000,000 libel suit against Henry Ford converged Sunday night upon the motor manufacturer's possible appearance this week as a witness.

About Friday was the best guess of counsel Sunday night as to when Ford, central figure in American industrial life, would take the witness stand for the second time in his life. Eight years ago he sued the Chicago Tribune and secured a verdict of 6 cents for libel.

Ahead of Ford in the witness chair will be F. D. Black, business manager of the Dearborn Independent, possibly Spiro himself, and W. J. Cameron, Ford's editor, who was on the stand when court adjourned Friday.

It was the Ford-owned Independent which in 1924 and 1925 printed a series of articles which led to the suit.

Sapiro Asks Million.

Sapiro, a Chicago attorney at law, who admittedly never plowed a furrow or hoed a row of corn, claimed that his reputation as an organizer of farmers' co-operative organizations was damaged to the extent of $1,000,000.

Sapiro was accused in the articles of connection with an international Jewish conspiracy to control agriculture, of seeking to spread communism, and of exploiting the American farmer to the extent of nearly $1,000,000 a year.

Several nationally known figures mentioned by the Independent in connection with the alleged conspiracy to control agriculture, will not be called as witnesses, C. B. Longley of defense counsel announced Sunday night. They are: Bernard Baruch, member of the war Industries board under the late President Woodrow Wilson; Albert D. Lasker, former chairman of the United States shipping board; Eugene Meyer, jr., former managing director of the War Finance corporation, and Robert W. Bingham, publisher of the Louisville Courier-Journal and Louisville Times.

Testimony Halted.

Cameron's testimony was halted when William Henry Gallagher, attorney for Sapiro, demanded that a copy of every issue of the Dearborn Independent printed since it was taken over by the Ford family be brought into court. He also demanded all records of the publishing company for that period.

Dr. M. D. Reihart Dies After Stroke

Man Who Loved Horses So He Became Veterinary, Succumbs in Omaha Hospital Sunday.

Dr. Martin D. Reihart, 70, veterinary surgeon, 1302 South Twentieth street, Omaha, died suddenly at a local hospital Sunday morning after a heart attack.

Dr. Reihart was an old-timer in South Omaha, having come there in 1889 from Cass county in a covered wagon. He was a lover of animals and especially horses and in the days of the horse and buggy his horses were attractions on the South Side.

His love for animals became so great that in order to be of service to them he became a veterinary surgeon in 1911 and was active in his profession until his death.

His son, Dr. E. O. Reihart, is also a veterinary surgeon.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the Heafey & Heafey chapel, South Omaha, while burial will be in St. Mary's cemetery there.

Besides his son, he is survived by one daughter, Mrs. H. L. Hamm, Omaha, and two brothers, George and Jake, Louisville, Nebraska, and a stepson, Halpin, Kansas City.

Says Deficit is to be $7,000,000 by Next July

Senator Prince Pleads with Legislature to Fix Payment on the Installment Plan.

Lincoln, Neb., March 21.—The state senate tonight, weary with three hours of wrestling with the state deficit problem, voted at 5 o'clock to "report progress" on the senate finance committee's bill which directs the state tax board to pay the piper and to take the matter up again in the morning.

Throughout the afternoon the following observations on the deficit appeared in various parts of the debate:

The deficit will likely amount to seven million dollars on July 1. This was predicted by Senator Prince (rep., Hall).

The governor and the state tax board, by wilfully refusing to do their duty, are responsible for it.

It must not happen again.

The political onus must be shifted to the shoulders of the governor and the tax board and the members of the legislature must be kept free from responsibility.

Paying the deficit means that taxes for state purposes will be increased next year to "two or three times" what they are now. (This also is Senator Prince's suggestion.)

The failure to levy enough money to pay the state's bills was "a crime." (This suggestion was offered by Senator Smrha of Saline county.)

The total amount of money to be appropriated by this session of the legislature, exclusive of the special authorization of a levy to pay the deficit, will be equal to the total value of the state's wheat crop for one year, or 35 million dollars.

Would Penalize Board.

The first tilt of the afternoon came on an amendment offered by Senator Smrha (dem., Saline), which would have changed the whole method proposed for getting rid of the deficit problem. Smrha insisted that if the legislature were to recommend a specific special levy to clear up the deficit, two evils would follow: First, ty at a cost of more than $650. Many of these homes are being equipped with bathrooms and other fixtures that go so far toward making the farm home equal to that of the city one so far as comfort is concerned. During 1926 approximately 300 leaders of communities were trained in nine counties as to the methods of installing water systems. It is that that many more systems will be installed this year, both in these nine counties reached last year and in those in which the project is being given in 1927. Several farmers are known to have made their plans, from office for failure of any tax board hereafter to do its duty and to stand by the oath that the members take.

Smrha's amendment was voted down, but several opposing senators promised to vote for his separate bill, when it comes up, which imposes the penalty on the tax board for future failure to make sufficient levies.

Originally Senate File No. 309 carried a provision for a special levy of one mill each year to pay registered warrants. The one mill provision was amended out this afternoon, however, and no limit was fixed on the amount of the levy to be made. The amount was left to the tax board's discretion with the simple admonition that it be "sufficient" to pay the debt. This amendment was offered by Senator Osterman (dem., Merrick).

"Besides paying the present debt," Osterman said, "nearly everybody is in favor of the general provision for the future proposed by Senator Smrha. The tax board should be directed to perform its duty. It is a simple matter of arithmetical computation. The board should be severely penalized if it fails to do its duty."

FARMERS INSTALLING WATER SYSTEMS

To date about 40 farm homes in Nebraska have been equipped with running water as a result of the assistance given thru the Convenient Kitchen project of the agricultural extension service last year. These water systems vary in kind from the simple pitcher pump installed by John Prien of Valley at a cost of $22.40 to the complete water system installed by H. E. Glenn of Hall county at a cost of more than $650. Many of these homes are being equipped with bathrooms and other fixtures that go so far toward making the farm home equal to that of the city one so far as comfort is concerned. During 1926 approximately 300 leaders of communities were trained in nine counties as to the methods of installing water systems. It is that that many more systems will be installed this year, both in these nine counties reached last year and in those in which the project is being given in 1927. Several farmers are known to have made their plans, from office for failure of any tax board hereafter to do its duty and to stand by the oath that the members take.
