Believe Murray Fled to Canada; Search Montreal

State Prepares to File Charges Against Missing Dunbar, Nebraska, Banker.

Dunbar, Neb., April 7.—An intensive search has been started for Thomas Murray, missing president of the Dunbar State bank. County Attorney George H. Heinke of Nebraska City said he had no definite information regarding Murray's whereabouts, but that he hoped to locate him soon. Heinke expressed the belief that Murray may return of his own accord to answer charges that will be brought against him. Murray is known to have been in Corpus Christi, Tex., because letters sent from there have been received in Dunbar. Later he was in Denver for a week. It is believed that he has since fled to Canada, as a detective agency is reported to have traced him to Montreal.

C. J. Mullis, president of the Dunbar Grain company, said that auditors and representatives of a bonding company start checking up the grain company's books Friday morning. Burton Gorton, son-in-law of Murray, is manager of the company. Mullis said that notes totalling 14 thousand dollars, bearing the signature of the Dunbar Grain company by Burton Gorton, manager, will be investigated.

Notes Not Negotiable. "I understand these notes were sold to several Omaha banks," said Mullis. "They are negotiable unless they bear my signature, as Gorton was not authorized to make any notes, and if they bear my signature they are forgeries, as I never signed any such notes."

County Attorney Heinke said that at the present time Murray is the only person involved, and that a complaint will be filed as soon as he has definite information on which to base charges.

The sheriff here has offered a reward of two hundred dollars for Murray's arrest. Murray was a delegate to the last national republican convention and included Vice President Dawes among his close friends. Their friendship began when Dawes lived in Lincoln. It is said, and was continued after Dawes returned east.

County Attorney Heinke is preparing to prosecute Murray. "Complaints are being prepared and will be filed shortly," he said, but would not divulge along what lines the prosecution would be made. "I have been in conference with the examiners several days and the sheriff is doing all in his power to locate Murray," Mr. Heinke said. "We have no idea, however, where he is."

Mr. Heinke said that notes, believed to be forgeries, had been shown in connection with the banker's disappearance, but that investigation of them had not been completed.

Receiver Will Sell Bank Furniture, Fixtures

Order Granting Permission for Sale Granted in the District Court Here Today.

From Saturday's Daily.—The First National bank, established in 1871 and closed on December 14, 1926, will soon be but a part of history, as the receiver of the bank, Fred Buerstetta, has started the proceedings that will mean the cleaning out of the bank property as one of the steps of liquidating the bank and winding up its affairs and distributing the assets that are realized among the depositors of the bank.

Application was made today by Mr. Buerstetta, the receiver, for the necessary court order that would allow the sale of the furniture, fixtures and equipment of the defunct bank. The sale will include all of the furniture, office fixtures, clock burglar alarm system, as well as every article in the bank that is not a part of the building.

The sale order also calls for the sale of the equipment of the Sharp machine works and the Alfa-Maize mill, which are the property of the bank. The receiver hopes to clear up this part of the bank assets before starting the disposal of the real estate and which includes the fine bank building on Main street which was erected in 1908.

The festivities opened with a short program in the auditorium of the school where the class has spent four years in their study and in the class associations. ## Objections Filed to the A. B. Hass Will Guardian Ad Litem for Minor Son Objects to the Allowance of Will in County Court.

From Friday's Daily.—This morning objection was filed in the county court by William A. Robertson, guardian ad litem for George Hass, to the admission and allowance of the document offered in court as the last will and testament of Alfred B. Hass, deceased.

The objection was that the will which was made in 1921 was not the real will of the deceased A. B. Hass and that it should not be allowed to stand.

The deceased was possessed of quite an extensive estate in large holdings of real estate and personal property of the value of $24,000, a great deal of which had been acquired after the making of the will which has been offered in court as the last will and testament.

The will nominated E. C. Boehmer of Lincoln as the executor of the will and provides among other things that the minor son, George, should not come into the full possession of his share of the estate until he had reached the age of forty years, the estate being divided between the son and the wife in equal shares and in the event of the death of the wife the entire estate to come to the son but to be in the hands of the executor until the son had reached the age of forty.

The will provides that the executor shall pay to the son the sum equal to that which he earns at his occupation whatsoever that it may be, and not more.

The income of the estate that is paid to the widow is titulated to be $50 a month in case the widow remarries and which in the event she is again widowed she should have the use of the income from the estate less the sum that is paid the son.

E. church at Louisville, will be pleased to know that he was able to return home on Tuesday following a sinus operation at the Methodist hospital in Omaha last week. A complete diagnosis of Rev. ## THE ALL MASH WAY OF FEEDING CHICKS

There is no one best way to start baby chicks nor is there any one best chick mash. The all mash method of feeding which consists simply of keeping a good well balanced mash mixture before the chicks at all times, is growing in popularity because it is more sanitary and because it saves labor. A satisfactory chick mash mixture must be palatable, must be high in the essential vitamins and must have a good combination of proteins. Here is a simple mixture that will give good results when fed in connection with green feed such as clipped oat tops and when the chicks are exposed to direct sunshine for at least ten or fifteen minutes on days that sunshine is available. Mixture No. 1. Yellow corn meal ----- 4 parts Shorts ----- 2 parts Bran ----- 2 parts Meat and bone meal ----- 1 part Measure above parts by weight. When skim milk or buttermilk are available for the animal protein supply, the meat and bone meal in the above mixture may be cut in half. Another all mash mixture which will be a little more complete though it is more expensive can be made of the following ingredients. In this formula the parts are by weights expressed in percentages. Mixture Number 2. Ingredients Per Cent Yellow cornmeal ----- 44.0 Shorts ----- 25.0 Bran ----- 10.0 Cotton seed meal ----- 2.5 Meat and bone meal ----- 10.0 Dried buttermilk ----- 2.5 Alfalfa Meal ----- 5.0 Salt ----- 1.0 TOTAL ----- 100.0
