

This modern age discriminates—and smokes Camels

THIS age is the hardest to satisfy—it's the most discriminating age ever known. That's why it goes to Camel for cigarette enjoyment. It takes real tobacco to satisfy modern smokers and Camels are made of the choicest tobaccos grown, marvelously blended. Smokers of today are right in demanding Camels; no better cigarettes are made, regardless of price.

To seek a real smoke is to find Camel—the choice of the modern world. Camels are a revelation of goodness, always mellow, smooth and mild. This age shows the way to smoke contentment—"Have a Camel!"

MYSTERY OF THE SHOE

As a bit of home work for the gentlemen who intertidally tackle the more recondite cosmic problems, we here suggest "the great shoe mystery," and venture complacently to anticipate their ultimate discomfiture. If, as is maintained of all mysteries, it has a solution progressive scientific forces would do well to concentrate upon its attainment before engaging theories and hypotheses much less momentous to the public at large.

Just why a shoe, the composition of which is rather generally known to be leather, and the simple and obvious purpose of which is to protect and ornament the human foot, should have its proportions cunningly concealed from the interested layman by a most elaborate and ingenious code system is in itself an enigma that challenges thought. What type of disturbing magic is this we find printed upon the box that contains our prospective footwear? Imagine selecting a shoe that offered this compendium of its characteristics: UX 32B Vici 3221. Here is brain exercise worthy of Mr. Holmes himself, who, with all his alertness for odd circumstances, has overlooked the homely opportunity. Here, if the sign be true, is intrigue, diplomacy, romance. Here, to be sure, is mystery.

Should one desire a collar, why a glance in any haberdasher's window will disclose an array of styles, the size of which are plainly displayed. Shirts, which may be assumed to rank as high in the scale of dress as shoes, are similarly frank in admitting their scope and limitations. It is simple, if monotonous, to select one's size in hats, or gloves, or belts, or, to approach fundamentals, underwear. No reticence has ever been noted in overcoats regarding the manner of man they were designed to encompass. Even socks, which might with reason have absorbed some of their neighbors' secrecy, profess plainly to their adherence to the 10, or to the 11 1/2 cut.

Yet, why clamor for the destruction of one of our few remaining illusions, in a world that grows vexingly realistic? Little there of of romance in everyday affairs, little enough that is not boring and transparent. Let us not lose the forces of fingerprints upon this admirable mystery of the shoe. Let us rather view with a new awe those patient members that leave "footprints on the sands of time," and give thanks that the shoe manufacturers are blessed with imagination.

To us, the most striking thing about Hiram Johnson's having the presidential germ eliminated from his system is the fact that he is not a democrat.

And it might be mentioned that Henry's coupe seems to have crowded the libel suit to the curb.

GOLD IN THE AIR

One impurity sent into the air by an industrial plant, is so valuable that a way has been found to recover it before it escapes from the stack. The offending plant in this case is the United States assay discharging into the air no less than fine particles of gold, carried upward in the gaseous fumes from the smelting furnaces. Not even the frequenters of Wall street, where the assay office is located, care to breathe cold, however fond they are of it in their pockets or in their bank deposits.

When once it was fully realized how much gold was being lost in these fumes, it took no prodding from the health authorities to set the management of the assay office at work searching for some means by which these vagrant particles might be arrested in their flight and brought back to their owners. Science has not great difficulty with the problem. A plant fan drives the dust-laden fumes through settling chambers, where the particles of gold are collected by an electrical process. Since this process of recovery was inaugurated, 600 ounces of gold have been saved, the value of which is close to $12,500.

We are not aware that any attempt has been made to trace the effect upon human lungs of breathing gold-polluted air, but as a general rule, lung tissue will always suffer more or less injury from metallic particles deposited upon it by the air which we breathe. Nail cutters, under the old manner of nail making, used to develop what was called "nailers consumption," from breathing in the minute particles of steel given off when they ground the edged tools with which the cutting was done. Some day, we shall insist upon freeing the air from virtually all the impurities, injurious to health and comfort.

GREAT—BUT WHAT FOR?

It's a marvelous automobile that Major Seagraves is exhibiting down in Florida. It has already reeled off a record of 207 miles an hour, and the major asserts it has hardly started.

A great deal of ingenuity and workmanship have gone into the making of that car. But after all, what is it all about?

When all is said and done, this new speedster is nothing but a toy. It seems a shame that all of that skill and energy could not have gone into the making of something useful.

Former Senator Lenroot has suggested that President Coolidge spend his vacation on an island, 11 miles from the mainland, in Green Bay, Wis. This strikes us as the perfect example of a member of the "Old Guard" suggesting more protection.

A girl coming home from a party at 5 a. m. in Chicago, shot herself when she met her mother who was on her way to church. Mothers shouldn't get up so early to go to church.

The movies must be emancipated, says Will Hays. And the subtitle writer who first thought up "Came the Dawn" is the first guy we'd like to see them emancipated of.
