HUDSON ESSEX CARS

Built a little stronger, with a bit more endurance. Much more economical in operation. Finished in harmonizing shades of dashing colors, both on the exterior and the interior. This is decidedly a distinctive line of motor cars—one that stands apart from the common run of cars on our highways... completely equipped in all its appointments from the bumper in front to the bumper in the rear—it is a motor car whose every line and action says: "Let's be somebody; let's go somewhere." And what is your answer?

Ray Produce company was a visitor in Plattsmouth on Tuesday afternoon of this week where he was transacting some business.

Robert Troop purchased a new hay rack, which has been recently constructed at the Geo. E. Nickles lumber yard, and which is an excellent one and will give good service.

Alfred Gausemer departed on last Tuesday afternoon for Belgrade and Pullerton where he was looking after some property interests which he has in that portion of the state.

T. J. Brendel the barber and Thomas Nelson of the Nickles lumber yard were called to Plattsmouth on Tuesday afternoon of last week where they both had some business matters to look after.

Harry Nelson and Herman Richter were down to Mr. R. H. Ingwerson on last Tuesday, where they were making some repairs on a tractor which they were getting in condition for the farming of Mr. Ingwerson.

Louis Mickluskey who has been assisting his father in the blacksmith shop, was visiting in Omaha for a few days during this week, and while he was away, his brother Vincent, was here assisting the father in the shop.

W. G. Roedecker of the Murray State bank, and which is one of the best financial institutions of this portion of the state, was called to Hamilton, Kansas, to look after some business matters connected with the bank here.

Dr. G. L. Taylor, Postmaster Will S. Smith and the owner of the garage, A. D. Bakke, were looking after some business matters in Omaha, they driving to the big city and going via Louisville to avoid the bad roads near Oregopolis.

While out to the farm a few days since Glen Boedecker was assisting with some work on the fence, and an obstreperous barbed wire gave a kick cutting the ball of Glen's thumb badly, which is, however, at this time getting along nicely.

James H. Brown and wife of Omaha were visiting for the day last Sunday at the home of relatives in Murray, driving down in their car and finding the roads not the best, for a stretch near the Platte river was more than bad. However, the enjoyment of the visit very much.

Or Sanders who is working this summer for Mr. Parr Young had the misfortune to run one of the times of a pitchfork through one of his feet some time since and it kept him from his work thereby. He is getting along nicely but it will be some time before he can get to work again.

A new awning has been placed at the Bank of Murray, it being installed on last Monday, while on Wednesday was one also placed on the building which is occupied by Tut and Brubacher. They both were needed and will serve nicely when the warm weather which is on the way shall have arrived.

Mrs. R. M. Taylor who has been quite ill for some time at her home near Union, and who has undergone many operations, for a malignant internal cancer, went to the hospital at Nebraska City on last Friday where she underwent an operation and passed away on last Monday evening at the institution. A more detailed article on her life will appear in the paper of the coming week.

Joseph C. Ellington, formerly a resident of Rock Bluffs town, and who was born within the sacred precincts of the everlasting hills of the once famous and rustling city of Rock Bluffs, was a visitor in Murray on last Tuesday and was meeting many of the old time acquaintances, and passing the day most pleasantly. We were glad to see you, Joe, and hear your dandy stories of the olden times.

Are Completing the Home.
J. A. Scotten, Fred Hill assisting Wm. Obernalt, were succeeding the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Scotten, by getting the outer corner of the home, and making it one of the most beautiful of the beautiful homes in the beautiful town of Murray.

Is Some Better.
Mrs. Fannie Crosser who has been keeping the home for her brother, Lee Nickles, but who has for some time been at the Swedish Mission hospital at Omaha where she underwent an operation and where she has been receiving treatment for some time past, is reported as being quite a bit better, and is able to be up the greater portion of the time, but who thinks it better to remain yet for a short time. Her many friends are much pleased that she is getting along as well as she is.

Was Visiting From School.
Miss Lorene Henrich is attending high school at Havelock, was a visitor in Murray and at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hatchett for the week end and Easter where all enjoyed the visit very much. Miss Lorene came to Plattsmouth on last Thursday evening, where she visited with the Plattsmouth high school, and with her friends, Mrs. Harry Noel, they coming to Murray together. Miss Lorene returned to Havelock on Sunday evening, accompanying Mr. and Mrs. Carl Humble, they also being accompanied by Miss Moore, a sister.

Was Making It Pay.
A big Cadillac touring car bearing a California license, was stuck in the mud near the Platte river and the caterpillar tractor operated by Albert and Bud, pulled him out, and was told by them that the road was good from there and he would not need chains. The owner of the car, however, kept his chains on and was able to pull out a number of cars from the mud and realizing quite a revenue for the same.

By and by, he again got fast himself, and the boys with the tractor had to pull him out. When they found what he had been doing they sent him on his way, as they were looking after the assistance on the part of the state and doing it free.

Finds Very Bad Roads.
Last Monday morning Frank Mrasek started for Allerton, Iowa, with the household goods of Rev. Graham and family, but found the roads so very bad in Iowa that it was thought best to ship the goods from Sidney Iowa, to their destination, and Mr. Mrasek returned home on Tuesday with the goods, which could not be shipped with the remainder of the goods. Frank said the roads were just about as bad as he ever tried to travel on.

Social Circle Club Meets
The ladies of the Social Circle club east of Murray, who recently won the recognition of the county club leaders by the fact that they were at the county meeting practically 100 per cent, are winding up their regular season of outlined club work and are preparing to enjoy the summer months in a series of social meetings until September when the regular business sessions will be resumed. The Social Circle club met on Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. A. Young and at which there was a very pleasing number of the ladies present to enjoy the fine time in store for them and the very delicious luncheon that Mrs. Young served as a part of the afternoon of the rarest enjoyment.

The next meeting of the club will be on Tuesday evening, April 26th at the home of Mrs. Fred Hannl and it is hoped to have a large attendance of the members present to enjoy this social session.

The club expects at the opening of the year's work in September to get a real start on making the next year an even greater success than the present year has been.

BIBLE SCHOOL LESSON

Sunday, April 24th

By M. S. Briggs

Golden Text: "There came a voice out of the cloud, 'This is my beloved Son, hear ye him.'"—Mark 9:7.

Christ's Glory Revealed

Mountains have had much to do with the Bible story of the Holy Land. Away back at the time of the flood, the ark rested upon a mountain while the waters were awaged and the dry land appeared. The waters even covered the very tops of the mountains when they were at their heights. It was in the mountains that the Master went to pray, while the disciples were rowing against the boisterous winds on the sea of Galilee.

It was between two mountains that Joshua called the people when he renewed their covenant with Jehovah. It was on the mount that Christ ascended to heaven and left the work for the disciples to do, when he said, "Go ye therefore into all the world teaching the Kingdom of God, baptizing them in the name of the Father, the Son and the Holy Spirit. It was in a mountain where Elijah built the altar and the Lord sent fire down and consumed, and again when he had run away because he was frightened by Jezebel, the most wicked of women and communed with Jehovah at Mount Sinai, the place where the law and the commandments were delivered to Moses. What more fitting place could have been selected for the transfiguration than on the top of a mountain away from the sordid things of the world. The message was for the world but it was to be given to three specially trained ambassadors to be given in due time to the world that the glory of the Son of God might be made known and also that it might be an added evidence that he was sent from high heaven with a message of love and mercy to a lost and dying world.

When the transfiguration came with the immortal and divine portion of the Savior of mankind, there appeared such a wonderful purity and divinity about the scene, that the mortal could not stand it. Peter, James and John, all three rugged fishermen, who had often braved the rigors of the sea of Galilee in its most tempestuous storms, were not able to stand the excellency of the glory of their Master, when the glory was shown. There appeared with him Moses and Elijah, and Jesus communed with them. Then, in comparison with these great patriarchs, long called home to heaven, Elijah to be carried to heaven without having tasted death, and Moses, the law giver, being taken from the mountain top and buried there, for—

No man knew his sepulchre,
Nor no man saw it ere, fo
For the Angels of God
Turned the sod, and laid
The dead man there.

When compared with these two great men of the past, who had come from heaven on a special mission, the Son of God shone with exceeding brightness.

Father Testified of Son
Peter in this narrative tells of how a cloud overshadowed them and they appeared as dead men, but were able to know of the conversation of Jesus with the two patriarchs. That the world might know that indeed, Jesus the Christ was the veritable son of God, a voice from the Father called out of the cloud saying in the language of the Golden Text, "This is my beloved son, hear ye him." The most powerful testimony and coming from the Father, saying, "This is my son, hear ye him." At the baptism of Jesus, the voice said, "This is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased." The scriptures all testify that Christ was indeed the very Son of God. John, the Baptist, testified to this when he said, "Behold the Lamb of God, which taketh away the sins of the world." The woman at the well testified to the people of Sychar, when she said, "He told me all I ever did; is not this the very Christ?"

Martha and Mary testified that it was the Christ when they said, "If thou hadst been here, our brother had not died." The disciples on the boat that had been rocked hither and yon by the heavy wind on the sea of Galilee likewise testified to his identity when after Peter had gotten into the boat and the storm had subsided, with one accord they said, "Surely thou art the Son of God."

Peter's answer to the Christ himself, when he asked, "Whom do you say the Son of Man is?" was typical, because Peter, placing it in another way said, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God." Now comes the testimony of the Father, in the words and in the transfiguration, telling in the strongest possible way that Christ is his son. Again in the resurrection and the ascension to heaven of Christ, was it attested that Jesus Christ was and is the Son of God.

The Master, in the form of a human, then comes to the disciples and touching them made them conscious in an earthly sense that they were indeed mortals and said unto them, "Arise, be not afraid."

Tells of His Crucifixion
Christ had hinted to the little band of disciples even before this that he was to be crucified and rise again from the dead the third day, but as they descended from the mountain, he charged the three to tell no one of the great experience they had seen until after he had been raised from the dead.

It will be remembered that Peter had told the Master that he who was the Son of God, could not be crucified by sinful men, and had been rebuked for his putting another interpretation on the plans of the Father. The experiences through which they had passed, made it plain that they should listen to the Master in all he said, and they refrained from making known what they had heard and seen.

They Wondered Themselves
When with their knowledge of the scriptures, they had read that the Messiah should come and again restore all things they had fondly believed that the meaning was that again the earthly kingdom of Israel should be established and that Christ would be the earthly king rather than the spiritual king of spiritual Israel. With this idea in their minds they were ready to fight for that very kingdom and the establishment of it. With this in their minds they wondered among themselves and discussed just what this rising from the dead might mean. They had seen Christ bring back to life Lazarus, and to the son of the widow of Nain, and recognizing in him this strange power could not understand how mortals could kill him, not knowing that it was a pre-conceived plan or that he would be able to rise again from the dead to provide for the salvation of the world. So they were naturally perplexed.

Peter Tells Later of This
Many years later when Peter and even Paul were preaching and establishing church organizations among those opposed to the work, Peter said, "For we did not follow cunningly devised fables, when we made known unto you the coming of our Lord, Jesus Christ, but we were eye witnesses of his majesty. For he received of the Father honor and glory, when there was borne such a voice to him by the majestic glory, 'This is my beloved son, in whom I am well pleased.' And this voice we ourselves heard borne out of heaven, when we were with him in the holy mount."

Peter, James and John were nearer to the Master than the others, not because the Master was partial, but because they were willing to be closer. These three were honored by closer association, because they entered into the life for which the Master called them.

In the after life, when the Master had been crucified, had arisen from the dead and had ascended to heaven, they carried the message of the beloved Master to the entire world.

James was the first to suffer martyrdom and give his life for the cause of the Master. Peter, like the Master, was crucified, but at the time he made request of his executioners that he be crucified with his head downward, as he felt that he was not worthy to meet death as did his Master, and his request was granted and he was crucified with his head downward. John lived to be the oldest of the disciples, though he was probably the youngest, unless it was Mark, the associate of Peter and for whom Peter caused a portion of the Gospel to be named, although he (Peter) undoubtedly had as much to do with writing it or possibly more, than did Mark, the younger apostle.

Here you hear the call of Jesus
Whisper, "I have chosen you!"
Does he tell you in communion—
What he wishes you to do?
Are you in the inner circle?
Have you heard the Master's call?
Have you given your life to Jesus?
Is he now your all and all?

OBSERVE ARBOR DAY
I never see young growing trees,
Outlined against the sky
But what I think of marching men,
Like armies passing by.

Who plant a single growing tree
Sends out an army strong,
To carry on the work of faith,
And help the world along.
For of their shade and fruit and wood
Shall other generations reap,
So plant these hostages to fate,
And faith of all our fathers keep.

April 22 is Arbor Day. Plan to get out some young trees. You will derive genuine pleasure from watching the grow and in time they will provide you with shade.
The Public Library has on display many attractive books on trees, shrubs, etc., in observation of "Garden and Forest Week."

FARMERS FIXED GAS ENGINES

One hundred seven old gas engines were put into running order by the 565 farmers who attended the 24 gas engine schools, held in Frontier county only two weeks ago, but out some of the largest crowds the season. R. W. Oberlin who had charge of the schools, said, "The farmers who came to these schools not only repaired more than a hundred of their own engines but they also learned many things about the care and handling of engines. They will undoubtedly be able to repair engines again whenever they have trouble. Under the plan that has been followed a county extension agent signs up a number of farmers to come to an engine school on a certain date at a certain place. He then gets the help of the state extension engineer and holds a two-day school for the farmers who sign up to attend. The farmers bring in their own engines and get their own engines and get their own repairs. Two or three of them may work together on an engine until they get it in good running order."

ST. MARY'S GUILD MEETING

From Wednesday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon the ladies of the St. Mary's Guild of the St. Luke's church held a very pleasant meeting at the home of Mrs. George K. Petring on high school hill and which was largely attended by the membership. The time was passed in the sewing and the planning of the work of the society for the coming summer and fall. At a suitable hour dainty refreshments were served by the hostesses that added to the enjoyment of all of the members of the party.
