University Class Visits Louisville

Bus Load from Department of Geography Spend Part of Day in That Vicinity Sightseeing.

A large interurban bus filled with the young people of the department of Geography of the University of Nebraska, under the escort of the head of the department, E. E. Lackey, arrived in town last Saturday morning on a tour of inspection and study. They visited the Kahler Potteries, where they were shown the intricacies of flower pot manufacturing. They also visited the quarries and other points of interest in this vicinity.

They wished to visit the state fish hatcheries west of town, but as their itinerary also included a visit to the Weeping Water quarries, they found a day too short and were obliged to change their plans accordingly.

Louisville is often honored with such parties from the university and is pleased to know that we have these places of interest to attract so many visitors.—Louisville Courier.

SECRETARY DAVIS IMPROVING

Secretary W. G. Davis of the chamber of commerce is showing much improvement in the last few days and with his present rate of gaining strength and vitality after his long illness, it is hoped that he may be able to be out a part of the time at least in the next few days. Mr. Davis after his operation at the Methodist hospital in Omaha came home and over exerted himself to such an extent that he suffered a relapse and was compelled to remain confined to the house for a period of several weeks.

Mrs. Albert Young Severely Burned by Steam Cooker

Explosion of Cooker Last Evening at Home Near Murray Causes Severe Injuries.

From Thursday's Daily—Mrs. Albert Young, residing five miles southeast of Murray, was very severely burned about the face and upper portion of the body last evening, when a steam cooker in which the evening meal was being prepared exploded.

The cooker had been in use for several hours and as the evening meal time arrived Mrs. Young had gone to the cooker to remove the contents and being in a hurry to prepare the meal had neglected to open the vent to allow the steam to escape, unfastening the top of the cooker which had a high pressure of steam behind it and as the lid of the cooker was loosened the steam caused the explosion of the cooker, the lid being hurled to the ceiling of the room and the meat that had been cooking, scattered over the room as the steam, heated to a burning temperature, rolled out of the cooker and caught Mrs. Young as she was standing close to the exploded cooker.

The steam caused intense burns on the left side of the face and the eye was also affected by the hot steam while the burning steam struck the left arm and hand and also the breast of Mrs. Young, making very painful burns that brought on the most intense suffering.

The force of the explosion hurled Mrs. Young away from the stove and as she was falling, Mr. Young ran into the room and was able to catch the injured lady as she fell.

As soon as possible after temporary relief had been given the victim of the accident, she was hurried to Plattsburgh by Mr. Young and taken to the office of Dr. G. C. Hudson, where the burns were dressed and Mrs. Young made as comfortable as possible altho the severe nature of the burns has made her suffering very great.

The reports from Mrs. Young this morning were to the effect that she was doing as well as possible under the circumstances.

SPEAKS ON C. M. T. C.

From Thursday's Daily—This noon at the weekly luncheon of the Plattsburgh A. C. club at the Hotel Perkins the members of the C. M. T. C. had the pleasure of hearing from Captain Hebert, plans and training officer of the 17th infantry of Fort Crook. The captain spoke briefly on the Citizens Military Training Camp which is to be held from August 1st to 31st, explaining that the camps that are held over the country are held as a means of recreation and training camps for the youth where they may receive the proper physical, mental and moral training that will fit them for better citizens by the teaching of the discipline in their lives. The speaker stressed the fact that the service in the camps was not of a nature that bound the young men to any service in the army as was the impression attempted to be created by those who have opposed the camp but was merely a needed training for the youth that he would find of the greatest benefit. The speaker pointed out the fact of the four courses, basic, red, white and blue, which were offered and at the completion of the four courses the student could apply for examination to admission to the officers reserve corps.

The Ad club also voted to have their places of business closed at 10 o'clock on Decoration day morning and will co-operate in making the day one of homage to the fallen heroes.

From Saturday's Daily—Chief of Police Johnson this morning took into custody Ray Neal, of Auburn, formerly a resident of this city, the young man being charged with having tried to pass a check for $10 drawn on the Omaha National bank and to which the name John Neal, father of the young man was signed. When taken to sign the father's name to the checks but the chief in a telephone communication with the father, who is employed at the Gayety theatre pool hall in Omaha, disclosed the fact that this authority had not been given and that the father had no account in the bank on which the check was drawn. The young man was turned over by the police to the county attorney for further action if desired. The young man since leaving this city last fall has made his home at Auburn and on his visit here he was accompanied, none of whom however, were involved in the check incident.

River Destroys 600 Acres of Farm

Family of C. L. Schiefelbein Below Bellevue Marooned on Knoll Since the High Water.

More than 600 acres of a 1,300-acre farm owned by C. L. Schiefelbein, six miles below Bellevue, have disappeared in the Missouri river since the crest of the flood last Saturday. Indications are that the river will cut a new channel through a loop where Pappio creek empties into the river.

Mr. Schiefelbein's house and other buildings are built upon a knoll and they are all of the farm remaining out of water. Mrs. Schiefelbein, her five sons, another youth, 25 head of cattle, several hundred chickens and some pigs are marooned on the knoll. Wednesday Schiefelbein was preparing to move his family and other belongings from the knoll.

"Last Saturday the main channel of the river was more than a mile from my house," said Schiefelbein. "Today it is less than a half mile and still eating up my land."

After leaving the home last Saturday Mr. Schiefelbein attempted to return home on horseback Tuesday afternoon. A short distance from his home the horse mired in the mud and one of his sons came to his aid with a boat.

Shubert Paper Has Good Word for Plattsmouth

Current Issue of Citizen Has Numerous Compliments on Way the Convention Entertained

Down at Shubert where they are laying great plans for entertaining the fourth annual district convention of the American Legion next Thursday, the Citizen came out last week with the entire front page devoted to convention news, including several complimentary paragraphs on the way Plattsmouth went after the convention at Falls City two years ago and then made good on entertaining the visitors last year. We are passing several of them along to Journal readers, believing they will be of sufficient interest to warrant their publication.

"What happened at Falls City the next year? Plattsmouth came down with a whirlwind gang led by a minister, and say boy, such Legion pep you never saw before, and they promised each and every one a pie apiece who would come to Plattsmouth. Well, it seemed everybody was 'pie eaters' while at Plattsmouth, and such entertainment—well, most of you were there, so no use telling you. Only this I will say: You remember the Shubert gang who were in Plattsmouth at 7 a. m., spreading the good news to come to Shubert in 1927? Well, we are still at it telling you the good times you are to have here May 26. Our plans and programs are complete and we are ready for the gang. . . .

"We want you to come prepared for a good time and enjoy the friendly spirit which prevailed at Plattsmouth last year. . . .

"Plattsmouth has certainly been making plans on coming to Shubert from all advance reports they have sent down. We are very anxious to hear their drum and bugle corps. Maybe they will take the $25 cash prize home. . . .

"State Adjutant Conklin says the Lincoln gang are planning on coming strong, but I don't believe they will be any stronger than the Plattsmouth gang, who are going to bring their drum and bugle corps and a lot of members besides."

Daring American Conquers Ocean in Flight to Paris

Charles Lindbergh, Minnesota Man Crosses Seas in Plane, Reaching Goal Today.

Charles Lindbergh, 25-year-old aviator, with his craft, "The Spirit of St. Louis," swept out of the twilight skies of Paris today to reach the goal and dream of aviators of the world, the successful trans-Atlantic flight that established a record and a place in the halls of fame of the air history of the world.

The time of Lindbergh was five hours ahead of his schedule or hoped for time and the messages from England of his arrival there was sent to the French capital where thousands awaited his arrival in one of the greatest events in the history of the world and to accomplish which two daring French aces last week swallowed up in the mystery of the great ocean.

The messages to this country at 10 o'clock today announced that Lindbergh had passed over Liverpool on his way to Paris, this being 3 o'clock in the afternoon in England.

The plane landed at Paris at 11:15 central standard time, cable and telegraph messages from Paris states. The city was wildly stirred at the advent of the American air man, scenes not witnessed since the days of the world war victories being staged at the French capital, welcomed the daring Minnesota youth. With the enthusiasm of the French people was mingled the sadness at the loss of their two war air aces whose disappearance a week ago has kept the governments of France and the United States busy in searching the ocean in and near the Newfoundland coast.
