Baccalaureate Sermon.

Last Sunday at the Baptist church was held the sermon in honor of the class of 1927 of the Union schools and was delivered by Rev. W. A. Taylor who is well qualified to handle this kind of a subject in the best manner, he having a wide view of life and all its imports. Special music was had, and all was arranged to give the setting of the meeting the most auspicious surroundings.

The address by the Rev. Taylor was one well calculated to give instruction to those who were just entering life after their period of study in the schools, as well as a guide to those who have already in a measure become veterans.

The following is a list of those who are participating in this institution of learning: Misses Margaret Cheney, Ruth Applegate, Ida McQueen, and Mildred Smith, Messrs. Donald McQueen, Patrick Roddy, Lucian Egan and Melvin Todd.

The instructors of the school who have guided their young people in the studies are James Marshall, the superintendent, Mrs. Lelia G. Keys principal, and Raymond A. Schreiner.

Graves who has been residing in the west for some time, and who has reached a very advanced age is in very poor health and that he was not expected to survive. Mr. Graves has been engaged in the ministry, and is well known in Union and the remainder of the county. He has been in the west now for a number of years. Rev. Enjoy May Festival.

The members of the grades of the Union school gave a most enjoyable entertainment at the Propst auditorium on Friday of last week at which there was a large number in attendance. The Home Economics department very graciously saw that the parents of all the scholars were pleasantly entertained, and a very enjoyable evening was spent, besides the excellent time which was provided. A neat sum for the use of the grades was realized. Miss Bessie Watkins was the one selected as the Queen of the May, and was one very well adapted to the part which she was to enact, for she surely made a very pretty and gracious little queen.

Jury Holds Five Guilty for Killing Hollywood Actor

Sentence, Penalty Being One to Ten Years' Imprisonment, Will Be Pronounced Friday.

Los Angeles, May 25.—Mrs. Sarah Kerrick and four others were found guilty of manslaughter here late Tuesday for the killing of Tom Kerrick, motion picture actor, at a drinking party in Hollywood early last April.

Those convicted besides the widow of the slain cowboy actor were Anita Davis, Iria Burns and Henry Isabell, motion picture extras, and Joe Hunt, Arizona cowboy, all of whom were members of the "moonshine" party at the Kerrick home, which the police characterized as one of the wildest ever to come to their attention.

Shows Little Emotion.

Mrs. Kerrick, whose testimony in her own defense was marked by hysterical fits of weeping and sobbing, evinced little emotion when the verdict was announced.

Sentence will be pronounced next Friday.

Trial of the quintet, each member of which attempted to throw the blame for the shooting on another, was unusual in that defense attorneys, through cross-examination, conducted almost wholly the prosecution case.

Asks Conviction.

When the time came for summing up, the prosecution made no attempt to fix the blame on anyone, but asked that all five be convicted.

Kerrick was shot to death early on the morning of April 9 in his Hollywood flat.

Penalty for manslaughter, under California law, is from one to 10 years' imprisonment.

UTILITIES MUST COMPETE WITH OTHER BUSINESSES

Distinguished from a manufacturing establishment, a public utility is generally non-competitive. Because of this the utility is hedged in with many laws and regulations intended to limit its operations and to control its financing.

It is frequently overlooked that two streams of money must be continually flowing into a utility property serving a growing community. One stream, from revenues derived from the sale of service, has to pay all operating costs, interest and dividends. The second stream is the new capital necessary to build extensions and serve new customers.

The utility must go into the open market to supply the second stream of money. To be successful it must pay the market price and must meet the market conditions of the moment. If not free to do so, new money will be diverted into other channels, and the company cannot properly grow to serve its public.

It is one thing for a regulatory body to fix rates which limit earnings on money already obtained, but it is quite another to hold them so low that investors cannot be induced to supply the capital necessary for expansion. For this reason, rate of interest or dividends that a company must pay in order to secure money for additional property, must be an ever-present factor in regulation of earnings.

Fourth Call for State Warrants

Plans to Call Registered Warrants as Rapidly as Receipts Justify, Thus Saving Interest.

State treasurer Stebbins is preparing to issue a fourth call for registered state warrants. It will be a total of $1,250,000 general fund warrants and will include all such warrants issued in February and March. His third call included all warrants issued in January.

Believing that the receipts of the treasury will be normal for the month of June Treasurer Stebbins said he would issue the fourth call dated some time between June 8 and June 15. He said he feels that he should take up registered general fund warrants as rapidly as receipts of his office will justify and thus reduce the indebtedness and obligations of the state. With this policy followed he states that he will have no idle funds on hand. A large part of the $1,250,000 which will be called for payment in June are held by the Woodmen of the World of Omaha and the Beatrice National bank.

Lancaster county made its second remittance in May to the state treasury Monday when it paid in $75,000 which goes for the redemption of registered general fund warrants. Its first remittance was $54,000.

The call for June now being arranged will make the total of four calls $3,141,185. The previous calls were for the following amounts: First, $586,611.46; second, $604,971.58; third $705,602.28.
