From Monday's Daily—
The marriage of Miss Delores Bosse, of Meadow Grove, and Giles Henkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Henkle, of Lincoln, was solemnized Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock at Meadow Grove. Elks Hold Very Beautiful Flag Day Services

History of the Flag of the Republic Is Presented in a Very Impressive Manner.

From Monday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon Plattsmouth Lodge No. 729 B. P. O. E. held their first flag day observance at the lodge rooms in the Elks building and which was attended by a very pleasing number of the members of the order and a number of the public. Heretofore the Plattsmouth lodge has joined with the Omaha lodge in the flag day services but this year decided to hold their own service.

The history of the flag was given by the various officers of the lodge, starting with the English flag and taking in turn the flags that had been adopted by the different colonies, including the famous rattlesnake flag and the pine tree flag that played so important a part in the early history of the colonies and later in the revolutionary war. The various adaptations of the English flag used in the war and then the Betsy Ross flag, the first recognized flag of the entire thirteen colonies and the basis of the present flag of the republic, were brought to view and at the close the present flag, which is the basis of the drive one through third base that had the felder handuffed, and while Herb was limbering up on the bases, Spidell, our fast young catcher, connected with one of the slants of Becker and whiffed it out into the right garden where Haly failed to secure it and our boy Spidell, was resting at second while Herb came in with the score.

The visitors started rather nasty in the first inning, when Frank Adair singled over second and was followed by Howell, who also singled to short left and with no one out the situation looked bad. Becker of the visitors, however, eased the feelings of the Platters with a long fly to center that Herbert Klauschie snagged. Schumann in an attempt to score his team mates, hit to short territory, where his effort was grabbed off by Newman, who stepped on second and retired Howell and also threw Schumann out at first, this fast double play shutting out the visitors.

The Platters in the sixth however gained a lead that the Springfield team could not overcome. Art Klauschie, who was having a bad day at bat, was out on a foul to Schuman, when Herold and McCarthy both hit safely and Newman was given a free trip to the initial sack and left the bases loaded. Swanson was batting and as the third strike came rolling over the plate he swung, missed and Schuman also missed the sphere, which rolled to the grand stand and in the meantime Peter came home while the manly form of Becker was covering the plate to take the throw from Schuman, with the result that Becker received a nasty rap on the left jaw that placed him down and out and for the remainder of the inning, Latham toiled in an effort to stop the locals and would have succeeded but for the fact that the first baseman failed to stop the grounder of Reichart, on which McCarthy and Hans scored, making the score 4 to 1 in favor of the locals.

The last scoring of the Platters was in the eighth frame when Beckler was again keeping the locals guessing and two had been retired. Hans Newman smashed out a triple to the right garden that came close to being a circuit blow, Hans scoring when Swanny singled over second base. The summary of the game was as follows:

Locals Win Five to One from Springfield

Slow Game and Lack of Much Fight on Either Side--Becker Hurts Good Game for Visitors

From Monday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon after the water works had subsided, the baseball fans commenced to wend their way toward the river where it was announced that the local kings of swat would mingle with the players from up at Springfield and quite a pleasing crowd assembled by the time the battle was started.

The visitors arrived shortly after the rain and when they had assembled on the grounds it was found that there were two of their stars missing, but they proceeded to fulfill their part of the bargain by playing out the game and losing by a score of 5 to 1.

The game was draggy, as neither team showed a great deal of pep and snap in their work and the Platters especially seemed to suffer in their batting, Becker being able to slow ball the usually dependable hitters of the local staff and while there were many slashes made at the ball by the Platters, the boy from Richmond was able to hold the locals in good shape and had the right kind of support being given Becker, he would probably have had another tale to unfold.

For the locals Swanson occupied the mound and hurled his usual good game and but for an unfortunate mix-up in the fifth inning would have chalked up a shutout on the visitors. The Springfield team secured seven blows from Swanny, but these were scattered like the democratic vote in Pennsylvania, and had little effect on the result of the battle.

The fielding of Newman at short and the work of Herb Klauschie in the center garden were the playing features of the battle for the locals, while aside from Becker, former supreme court justice, C. M. Skiles of Lincoln, attorney of the Nebraska bank guaranty commission, H. E. Kuppinger of Omaha and W. A. Robertson of this city.

The action is one in which E. J. Dempster, the receiver of the defunct Bank of Cass County, is seeking judgment on the stockholders of the closed bank who have not as yet paid into the state their double liability under the law for the bank stock that they held. A number of the stockholders have long since paid in the amounts covering their stock but others have not so far paid in and these the receiver seeks to have compelled to pay in their amounts.

ASHER CLARK DIES

From Monday's Daily—
The information has been received here of the death at Los Angeles on Wednesday, June 15th of Asher Clark, old time grocer of this city and who has been in serious shape for some time. Mr. Clark was very badly injured in an auto accident about a month ago while he was recovering from this, the severe shock had brought on an attack of heart trouble and from which he had failed to rally, gradually growing worse until his death.

The only sad feature of the reunion was that Charles E. Cook, one of the original family, was seriously ill at the Immanuel hospital in Omaha and unable to be present to enjoy the occasion. J. D. Cook, Phillip Cook, John Cook and Mrs. Bina Kitzel, members of the original family were also unable to attend the annual event.

WORK ON NEW AUDITORIUM IS PROGRESSING

Setting of Ceiling Joists and Completion of Steel Erection Change Appearance Great Deal.

From Tuesday's Daily—
The new community auditorium presents a very changed appearance in the last few days as a result of the erection of a greater part of the steel work and the placing of the ceiling joists, which are also to serve as floor joists when the second story is added to the building, being 2x12 in size. The brick masons are now filling in around these joists, every third one of which is tied into the wall with a strap anchor in order to further increase the rigidity of the structure and provide better bonding of the walls.

Over these will be framed the sloping temporary roof, the rafters for which are 2x8, of proper length for use in construction of the main roof over the massive steel trusses a few years hence. The shiplap can also be removed when the building proceeds and be used in the final roof. For the present structure a two coat mopped down asphalt roof will be provided, the specifications providing that it be laid by an experienced roofing contractor and guaranteed water and weather tight for a period of five years.

Inside the building a great deal of concrete floor is to be laid, including the concrete imbedded sleepers on which will be nailed the maple floor covering the 5x8x8 assembly room. After the concrete is thoroughly dried out the 6.500 board feet of maple flooring will be laid by an Omaha flooring concern, sanded, polished and made ready for lovers of the waltz, one step, Charleston or what not.

John Bauer, the plumbing subcontractor, is getting ready for the installation of the plumbing fixtures and sewer lines and water pipes will be laid underneath the floors. Beyers pipe is being used under the concrete floors instead of the common cheaper grades.

To protect the back from the embankment, a parapet wall will extend above the temporary roof to the level of the future stage floor joists in the main building. When the rest of the building is constructed a few years hence, this wall will work right into the plans and not have to be touched, so its erection now at a cost of some $150 additional, not only will protect the roof from the embankment but provide for future construction requirements as well.

The steel casements and French type windows will admit the greatest amount of light and ventilation and never rot out as would be the case with wood casements.

If you haven't noticed the progress being made with the work in the past few days, drop by the site and see how the work is moving along.
