Wanting Better Radios.
Realizing that people want the best when they can get it, Mr. Dingee has contracted with the Eria radio manufacturers for the sale of this excellent creation and will have in a short time a stock of these excellent machines to offer to the inspection of the buying public. Mr. Dingee's long experience with the radio has given him a keen and exacting judgment as to the very best machines. Mr. Dingee will have something to say regarding the radio which will soon be in season as the fall comes on.

Believes in Correct Farming.
S. C. Boyles who has been farming for near fifty years in Nebraska, the past year had about one hundred and fifty acres of wheat, and which while not absolutely the best in the state made a good yield and paid a good profit for the land and effort expended to raise the grain. He will expect to seed about the same amount this fall, for the coming harvest next year. Mr. Boyles says regarding farm problems, that the retention of crops is the best way to succeed in farming, as each variety of crop requires a different substance in the soil, and that when the crops are rotated the soil gets a rest and the deficient portions of the soil are allowed to recuperate and in this way good crops can be expected with each returning year.

ERNEST TRUMBLE TO PLATTSMOUTH BANK
Eagle is to lose one of her keenest and most popular young business men this month. The Plattsmouth Journal makes public his selection from among many applicants for an important vacancy on the staff of the Plattsmouth State bank, one of the largest and strongest institutions of Cass county in this section of the state. This bank has resources of more than a million dollars and is still developing.

Ernest has had considerable experience in the banking business, having served in the Bank of Eagle and the First National bank at Greenwood before entering the hardware business here about four years ago. He is a keen and capable business man, and will undoubtedly rise to the top in banking circles. His many friends here will miss him, yet they will rejoice at his purpose to advance and his acceptance of opportunity.

The firm of Trumble & Quinn will be managed by Mr. Quinn unless some of the prospective deals for a sale are consummated. We understand two or three parties are considering its purchase.—Eagle Beacon.

WEAVER GIVES TALK ON APPLE INDUSTRY
Falls City, Aug. 12.—A. J. Weaver, Falls City, discussed the apple industry in southeastern Nebraska Wednesday afternoon before fruit raisers of this section who made a tour in this vicinity. Union, Nebraska City, Brownville and Shubert were among the places visited.

With the completion of his fourth year in the training camp Carl will be eligible for examination for entrance to the military academy and the chance of a commission in the army and with his ability and natural interest in this line it is hoped that he will take advantage of the opportunity that is offered.

The young student in a son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Kell of this city and a graduate of the Plattsmouth schools in the class of 1926.

One of the greatest literary successes of the year is "The Cutters," the latest work of Bess Streeter Aldrich, Nebraska's own authoress. For sale at the Bates Book & Gift Shop.

DEATH OF WELL KNOWN LADY

A well-known and highly esteemed former resident of this city, Mrs. Sallie Hinkley, died in Omaha at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Albie Hicks, Sunday, August 7th, and was buried in the Ashland cemetery yesterday.

The funeral services were held at three o'clock at St. Stephens Episcopal church of this city and were conducted by Rev. Father Gallagher, of St. Andrew's church, Omaha.

Mrs. Hinkley was born in Petersburg, Canada, but spent practically all of her life in Nebraska, the largest share of it in Ashland and vicinity. She was married in Plattsmouth to John F. Hinkley, who died at Farnam, Neb., Dec. 20, 1922.

She leaves one daughter, Mrs. Albie Hicks, of Omaha, who has a daughter, Betty Blythe. Mrs. Hinkley's circle of friends was an unusually large and devoted one. Her never-failing cheerfulness, her desire to be helpful to all with whom she came in contact, and her wonderful capacity for making and keeping friends were perhaps her most distinguished characteristics. Her life was certainly an inspiration and an example, and she will be sadly missed wherever she was known.

The friends from out of the city present at the funeral service were: Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Johnston and their daughter, Mrs. Harry Dempster; of Beatrice; Mrs. Carl Stein, of Lincoln; James Johnston of Des Moines, Ia.; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Hagar, of Lincoln; Mrs. Thea Hagar of Plattsmouth; Mr. and Mrs. Mains and son, Daniel, of Crete; Mrs. Gus Wagner and Mrs. Lona O'Kane, of Ithaca; Miss Alice Eaton, Mrs. Tim-gate, Mrs. Tom Brice, Mrs. Brooks, Miss Violet Dodge, Mrs. James Donnelly and daughter, of Omaha; and Mrs. Blanche Hinkley Graham, of Kansas City, Mo.—Ashland Gazette.

JUST A COLORADO TRIP
It was three o'clock in the morning. When we went out to see; How the weather looked above us, And behold it was as cloudy as could be.

Our grips were packed on the running board. So into the car we climbed; Paying little attention to the weather. But we started just on time.

For the rain came down, O! My O Me. It got as muddy as could be. But we were on the gravel and we rambled I must say.

For we ate our breakfast at Hastings. At eight by our time of day; When on and one we traveled And Walter would sometimes say.

I believe we will leave this mud before noon today. Just the same we did not. For at Atlanta we found We had left the gravel, And were then on muddy ground.

Now did you ask if I traveled 'Hi! I'll say. Our speedometer read ten and fifteen miles all the way. And as we ploughed through the mud Along came some folks that would say:

"Well Mister if you make it to McCook" You'll have to plow your way Just the same as we did. And it wasn't late that day.

For we made it to Wray, Colorado And had good roads all the way; Now about the next day I'll tell you. When the mountains were first seen, I had never imagined they were so beautiful and green.

Now we started up them; I was astonished to see, That back of us It was steep as could be.

Now Walter was the driver Around those curves in Pancho Pass; And he could tell us when the cars were coming No matter when we ask.

Then when we reached Salida, We were very glad to know That the next day we only had One hundred and four miles yet, to go.

Now a little about the Chrysler Its Character do you ask, Had one flat tire And it drank forty-seven gallons of gas.

When we reached the cabin And seen the Rio Grande running by the door; Oh, Happy were we then To feel at home once fore.

So people may I tell you Who haven't taken that trip That is the best spot I have found To really unpack your grip.

STUDENT OFFICERS NAMED
From Friday's Daily—
The four companies of the C. M. T. S. at Ft. Crook have now been fully organized and the camp in full swing of the training period and accordingly the student officers of the various companies have been named by Col. C. A. Trott and the officers in charge of the training camp.

As captain of Co. C. of the student regiment, Carl R. Keil, of this city, has been named, a very fine recognition of the ability of the young man, who is now attending his fourth year student training camp. Carl has taken a great interest in the study of military science and his work at the previous training camps as well as his course at the Kemper Military school at Booneville, Missouri, last year, has made him one of the most valuable of the young men at the camp this year.

With the completion of his fourth year in the training camp Carl will be eligible for examination for entrance to the military academy and the chance of a commission in the army and with his ability and natural interest in this line it is hoped that he will take advantage of the opportunity that is offered.

YANK'S LEAD DUE TO GEHRIG'S BAT

Last season the New York Yankees early assumed a commanding lead in the American league race because of three sustained winning streaks, lasting over eight, 11 and 16 victories.

This year the Yankees are out in front because of the added power that Lou Gehrig has furnished at the bat. Not only has "Powerhouse Lou," as his teammates know him, stolen much of Babe Ruth's thunder, but he also has been a whale at driving in runs.

Gehrig, a good batsman last season, has been a truly great one this year. His superlative hitting has been the biggest improvement in the play of a club that has made progress in various other features.

Even if Ruth should catch and pass Gehrig in the stretch of the American league home run derby, the latter's great batting will stand at one of the high lights of the present season.

Gehrig has great power in his shoulders and arms, while Ruth gets his distance because of the "swish" of his swing. He starts far back and has a long follow through.

GAS INDUSTRY GROWING

A most promising future is predicted for the gas industry, with consumption increasing 10 per cent annually and 500,000 new customers being added each year.

An important factor entering into the increased use of gas in the change from low-pressure to high-pressure mains, permitting customers in suburban areas to be reached. Hot water, heating, incineration and refrigeration appliances also have played a great part in the development.

Charles R. Henderson, president of the Michigan Gas Association, says: "High-pressure distribution will tend to centralize gas manufacturing plants in the same way that electric power plants are centralized. The result will be an intensive effort to improve our operating conditions by development of proper machinery and suitable equipment, which would not be possible in a number of smaller plants. This will allow the gas industry to manufacture and expand in a few years in a way never dreamed of."

Changes at Parmele Near Completion

Popular Place of Entertainment Will Be One of the Finest in Small Cities of the State.

The work of renovating and making the changes at the Parmele theatre are progressing nicely and the management in a large ad in today's Journal is announcing the re-opening of the playhouse on Thursday evening of this week when the doors will swing open to greet the amusement loving public into a place of beauty and charm.

The theatre is filled with scaffolds on which painters are busily engaged in placing the attractive hues of paint to a 100 piece symphony orchestra. There are 28 miles of wire in the organ and the cables that lead to the console are 100 feet in length and carry the pressure to the heart of the organ where the tones are reproduced in great volume or with subdued sweetness as the will of the organist calls forth from the keys of the great organ.

The Wurlitzer company were the first, it may be stated here, that were able to develop the great symphony orchestra effect from the pipe organ and which has brought the organ music to the hearts of the American people as no other musical instrument has done.

The Parmele organ will have a full orchestra effect with a full and complete outfit of a trap drummer, bells, chimes, xylophone, and the drums and which give forth perfect music.

Every instrument will be clearly given and will make possible some very wonderful musical programs on the wonder organ.

The organ contains hundreds of pipes and which carry the twelve inch wind pressure into the organ and the hundreds of the German silver wires that are used in making the delicate contacts of the organ are truly wonderful.

The world has been called upon to supply the needs of the Wurlitzer organ as the different elements entering into the organ come from all parts of the world.

In speaking on this subject yesterday, Manager Cloidt pointed out that the ivory comes from the Jungles of Africa and India; copper from our great western mines; flax from the fields of Europe; rosin from the pine forests; leather from the cattle herds of South America; silk from the silk worm farms of Japan; metals from Sweden; wool from Australia, and woods from the tropical forests.

The new organ and the other improvements at the theatre are making it one of the finest theatres in the state and Messrs. Cloidt and Moore are to be congratulated on the splendid spirit of enterprise that they have shown in improving this playhouse for the people of Cass county.

Thomas Walling was a visitor in terminating John E. Curtis, national Union today where he represented vice-commander of the Legion and the local American Legion in one of the speakers at the reunion.
