Modified Farm Relief Measure Offered Nation

New McNary-Haugen Measure Proposes Federal Farm Board to Invoke Fee in Emergency.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The ground work for another farm relief battle was laid Friday with the reintroduction by Senator McNary, republican, Oregon, of the McNary-Haugen bill slightly modified from the form in which it was vetoed last spring by President Coolidge.

Senator McNary, who will be chairman of the senate agriculture committee, met some of the objections which the president vetoed to the old McNary-Haugen measure, but he is sticking by the controversial equalization fee provision as a means of raising funds to market surplus crops.

However, under terms of the new bill the equalization fee would be invoked by a proposed federal farm board only after co-operative marketing associations had found it impossible to cope with surpluses. It would take money from a $250,000,000 revolving fund available as loans to the co-operatives in marketing crops at a rate of 4 per cent interest.

President Interested. The bill also would make the equalization fee apply to all commodities, whereas under the vetoed measure the fee would have been imposed immediately on only a part of the crops.

Modification of the means of selecting the proposed farm board also is provided in the new measure the 12 members, representing each of the federal land bank districts, would be appointed by the president with the advice and consent of the senate. The vetoed bill provided that the members would be chosen by the president from nominations prepared by representative farm organizations.

McNary Is Hopeful. The move of Senator McNary in the farm relief situation had been watched closely by President Coolidge, who several times had informed visitors he was hopeful of the Oregon senator's efforts to find a solution acceptable to both the administration and congress. However, Mr. Coolidge voiced particular objections in his veto message of the McNary-Haugen bill to the equalization fee provisions which he held unconstitutional and which is still part of the senator's farm relief program.

While not informed of the views of the president on his modified bill, Senator McNary declared Friday night that he had "every expectation" that the chief executive would be able to approve the new proposal. He explained that the equalization fee provisions would not be invoked until an emergency was declared by the farm board.

Other Relief Bills. The first day for presentation of bills in the senate also found several other farm relief proposals being forwarded. Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the democratic leader, proposed a measure to authorize the payment of bounties on exports of surplus crops.

Senator Borah (R.), Idaho, advanced a new farm proposition in the form of a bill to license commission merchants, brokers and dealers in an effort to prevent unfair and fraudulent practices in the marketing of perishable agricultural commodities.

Senator Brookhart (R.), Iowa, introduced his bill to set up a revolving fund to meet all costs of marketing of surplus crops.

A bill to amend the federal farm loan act in regard to the appointment and duties of directors was submitted by Senator Ashurst (D.), Arizona.—Omaha Bee-News.

DEATH OF THERESA ASH

The funeral of Miss Theresa Ash, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Ash, of Weeping Water, was held on last Saturday morning, with interment in the Catholic cemetery at College Hill.

The circumstances of her death are very sad. She had come home from Omaha, where she held a position, to spend her Thanksgiving vacation with her parents and family and was taken ill with diphtheria.

Word reached her Louisville relatives and friends that she was out of danger and the next word that came announced her death.

This comes as a sad blow to her family. She was a very bright, capable young lady of most lovable ways and disposition and was loved and respected by all who knew her and her untimely death has cast a great sorrow over the community in which she lived, and the sympathy of all is with her sorrowing parents and relatives.—Louisville Courier.

House Now Ready for Tax Measure

Leaders Plan to Expedite Its Way Through Lower Body—To Go to Senate in Ten Days

Washington, Dec. 8.—On the verge of consideration by the house of the new revenue bill, the ways and means committee reported today that the total tax cut proposed by the measure amounted to $232,735,000 instead of approximately $236,000,000, as previously estimated. House leaders plan to start general debate on the measure with a view of expediting consideration so that it may be sent to the senate in about ten days.

Chairman Green drafted the formal report on the bill which was whipped into shape by the committee before congress convened. The total cut as estimated by the chairman, is $7,735,000 more than the $225,000,000 recommended by the treasury. Mr. Green said that requests for rate reductions approximating $500,000,000 had been submitted by various organizations and individuals to the committee and "that it was obviously impossible to make all the reductions proposed."

The reduction in rates was designed to give relief where the need seemed greatest, he added, with the view always in mind to prevent a deficit in the coming fiscal year when the full effect of the reduction will be felt.

Mr. Green's report stressed that the committee had not taken into consideration "expenditures which may be made in the future, above the sums appropriated in recent years, such as those for flood control, agricultural relief additions to the navy, public buildings, Boulder dam, etc."

"The treasury estimates the total surplus for 1929 at $274,000,000," the report continued. The bureau of the budget, in a more recent estimate, increases the expenditure estimate and indicates that the surplus will be $232,000,000 or $22,000,000 less than the treasury estimate, and that the surplus exclusive of non-recurrent items, will be $177,000,000.

"It is apparent then, that the committee has gone fully as far in tax reduction as ordinary prudence will justify."—State Journal.
