

"Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwilleantysiliogogorh" is the name of a village in Wales. It is the world's longest word. We don't know how it is pronounced but translated from the Welsh language it means "Church of St. Mary, White Hazel Hollow, Near the Rapid Whirlpool." SOME NAME! We would say off hand.

Statement of Candidate for District Judge

Attorney A. L. Tidd Gives Statement of Service and Position in the Campaign.

To the Public:
It is a well known fact that anybody can get a petition signed by any and all classes for almost anything.

In justice to the public and in justice to myself, I will say that I did not, before filing in the non-political primary, for the office of District Judge solicitor, nor did I ask or permit any of my friends to solicit the members of the bar or anybody else to sign petitions for me. I filed for the office in the same manner as most candidates file, even candidates for the governorship.

I have received my assurances of support since the publication of the news item that I had filed.
I have lived in the community for more than a quarter of a century, and have always stood firmly and fearlessly for what I believed to be the right, and for high moral character.

I have done something for the benefit of the people of this entire community. When you go to the post office to get your mail just remember that I was one of the active supporters of the Hon. E. M. Pollard when he was nominated and elected to congress and that after his election he asked me what he could do for me. I said, "I want nothing for myself, but I want a post office building for Plattsmouth." And we got it.

I served a few years as president of the library board and while so doing, solicited a donation from the Carnegie corporation for a public library building in Plattsmouth, and we got it. Please remember when you and your children go to the public library for books that it was through my effort and the assistance of the library board and Miss Olive Jones, librarian that this city has this beautiful building, and that it did not cost the tax payers one cent to build it.

When hundreds of soldiers are from time to time, stationed on the hills just west of this city, the business men and citizens should just remember that it was through my effort that the military committee came to Plattsmouth to look after a location for the rifle range and as the result of that visit it was located here.

I served for eight years as a member of the board of directors of the Commercial Club, and was a member of the committee that solicited the funds to grade the road from the foot of Main street to the ferry when it was first graded, and also to cut down the hill leading north on the Louisville road. I spent several thousand dollars of my own money in an effort to establish and maintain some industries in this city which resulted in a total loss to me. But, my money and my effort was spent in good faith to benefit my home town. These are only a few of the things I have done and tried to do for this community. If the people think these things are worthy they will have the opportunity to show their appreciation.

I have had more than twenty-five years experience in the active practice of law, and have built up one of the largest law libraries in the Second Judicial District. I have been a close student of the law, and have and have been able to meet in the trial of cases some of the ablest lawyers in the state with an equal measure of success. I have never been driven to disbarment or a court by soliciting business on the ground that I had any particular stand in with the court. I have always tried my cases on the ground of merit. I propose to present my case in this campaign on the ground of merit.

Very sincerely,
A. L. TIDD,

Artistic New Restaurant Room
Opens Saturday

Room in Bekin Building Arranged by Jack Estelle for Use of Cafe in Future.

From Wednesday's Daily—
The room in the Bekin building that was formerly used by the chamber of commerce as the office of the secretary, is being transformed into a very attractive spot that will be used in the future by Jack Estelle in an addition to his cafe and lunch room.

Mr. Estelle is having the front portion of the room arranged as the main restaurant where will be found the lunch counter, a very handsome counter of black and white marble being arranged along the south wall of the building. In this portion of the room there will also be several tables for the use of the patrons of the cafe.

To the rear of the main room there will be located a very pleasant and artistically arranged series of semi-private dining rooms or booths, where the patrons who desire to entertain friends may do so. The new private rooms have been arranged very prettily with lattice work ceiling through which the soft glow of colored lights are shown while there will be table lamps in each of the booths. The decorations of the booths are very attractive and makes the restaurant one of the greatest beauty. In the new addition it is planned to give a most comfortable and home-like setting for the cafe and to afford a large measure of privacy to the patrons.

The present room used by Mr. Estelle will be continued as a chili and hamburger shop and the counters rearranged and here also will be the kitchen of the cafe that will supply the new section as well as the present cafe.

The new cafe will be thrown open to the public on Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock and Mr. Estelle states that they will be ready for business at that time.

ROBERT EGAN AT REST

From Wednesday's Daily—
Yesterday afternoon, the funeral services of the late Robert Egan of Edgmont, South Dakota, were held at the St. John's Catholic church in this city. The body arriving here at 4:30 over the Burlington and being taken directly to the church where a short service was held by the pastor, Father George Agius.

The requiem high mass had been celebrated at the St. James church at Edgmont on Monday and the services here were for the large number of friends directly to the church where church to pay their last tribute to the memory of this splendid young man that had been taken from life while in the first flush of his manhood.

The services were attended by a large number of the relatives and friends from out of the city and the funeral party from Edgmont comprised Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Egan, parents of the departed, Misses Catherine, Rose, Mildred of Edgmont and Miss Alice Egan, who is in nurse training at Holy Trinity, and being sisters of the departed and Morris Egan, only brother.

The other relatives and friends attending the services here were: Joseph Wales and children, Harry and John of Omaha, Misses Fern and Helen of Omaha, Mrs. Charles Olson, Omaha, Mrs. John Weber, and son, Joe, of Omaha, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Banning, of Alvo, Miss Mary O'Donnell of Union, Miss Alice Buck of Peacott, Idaho, Mrs. P. A. Welch, Omaha, Floyd Egan, Chicago, Miss Teresa, Omaha, Mrs. W. J. Wilkinson, Omaha, John Egan, Louisville.

LIKES CITY VERY MUCH

From Wednesday's Daily—
Yesterday I. Shirley, a former well known business man of Humbolt, Nebraska, was in the city and while here had occasion to visit a number of the local business houses. Mr. Shirley was more than pleased with the city and frank in saying that it was one of the neatest and most attractive cities that he had visited and he felt that the residents of the city could feel proud of the community in which they lived and which represented a very fine Nebraska city.

Lutheran Church to Open Campaign for Pension Fund

Efforts to Raise Funds for the Care of Retired Ministers to Open Soon.

From Wednesday's Daily—
Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 24.—Three laymen are the guiding spirits of the $4,000,000 pension fund campaign which will begin in every congregation of the United Lutheran church in American February 4th, and which will include the entire United States and Canada in its scope.

As the three chief officers in the board of ministerial pensions and relief, these laymen from the only group of their kind in American religious life as the pension boards and systems of all other denominations are headed by evangelism. This fact makes the anticipated campaign a "laymen's movement" in the strictest sense of the word. The three men are Paul E. Myers of Washington, D. C., president of the board; Peter P. Hagan of Philadelphia, Pa., secretary; and Herman G. Moore, secretary, also of Philadelphia.

Mr. Myers has two distinct services to his country accredited to him in addition to the service to his church. He is the author of the present income tax law, and during the late war in charge of the sale and distribution of the various Liberty Loan issues that made victory in France possible. He outlined the methods by which the bonds were sold because of his position at that time as assistant commissioner of Internal Revenue in the United States treasury department.

Later, while holding the same position, he took up the income tax problem, and wrote the income tax bill as it now stands. He also secured its passage through the senate and house of representatives. When the war in Europe closed, he became president, Mr. Myers resigned, and entered private legal practice. He is a graduate of Princeton university. While there he became intimately acquainted with the late Woodrow Wilson, who was then president of the United States.

Mr. Hagan's history is more intimately connected with the church which he now serves "full time." He spent his early years in many years in various other cities. He took up his new duties as secretary to the board soon after the death of the former official, the late Rev. Dr. Edgar Geim Miller, which occurred last May.

After managing sixteen years in the clothing manufacturing business in Philadelphia, Mr. Hagan headed the call of the church. Leaving the offices of the clothing firm which he had served as a directing official, he took up the leadership of the Lutheran Relief Mission in a congested section of the city, and at a crisis in its history.

With the mission put on a self-sustaining basis, Mr. Hagan assumed the general secretaryship of the Lutheran League of America, a young people organization within the church, and later the Lutheran church circle-church movement. At the completion of his tenth year with the league he resigned, however, in the firm conviction that no man should stay "too long" in any one position. He was at one time circulation manager of the Lutheran Church Work and Observer, a denominational publication, and later served as administrative manager of the Lutheran Publication House in Philadelphia.

Mr. Hagan, who is treasurer of the board since more than half of his time has been spent in the $4,000,000 campaign, is likewise a manufacturer in Philadelphia. His service to the church is given despite the fact that he is very busy man. He is chairman of the Pension Campaign Committee as well, and he has led to the large work-chimney of the drive that is to open February 5th, and which is to double the present pension paid the disabled and retired ministers of the church.

ENJOYS VISIT WITH SISTER

From Wednesday's Daily—
D. J. Skyrme of Garland, Wyoming, was here Monday evening to enjoy a visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Lightbody, the latter a sister of Mr. Skyrme, departing yesterday for Charles City, Iowa, where he will visit his father and mother at that place and also a sister, Mrs. Salisbury. Mr. Skyrme is the Burlington agent at Garland and is taking a short vacation from his duties and taking advantage of the occasion to spend a short time with the relatives in Nebraska and Iowa.

Judge Begley
Files for Re-
Election Today

General Demand From the Bar of the District and Friends Leads to Action.

From Wednesday's Daily—
The fact that the filing of Judge James T. Begley for re-election to the second judicial district was made and the distinguished jurist, who has been besieged by his friends over the district to enter the race for re-election, yielded to the wishes of his supporters and permitted the use of his name in the coming race.

Judge Begley has served on the bench of the second judicial district since 1913 when he was appointed to the position by Governor John H. Murchison, to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Judge Harvey D. Travis. Previous to his appointment Judge Begley had served as county attorney and county judge of Sarpy county.

The services of Judge Begley on the bench have been of a high character and his support from practically all of the bar of the three counties is an eloquent testimonial of his services on the bench of the district.

In the fourteen years of service on the bench Judge Begley has been called upon often to make decisions that have become a fundamental part of the state law and which have been sustained in the higher courts as establishing the law points that are embraced in the law interpretation of this and other states.

The broad legal knowledge combined with the personality of Judge Begley has made him one of the outstanding district judges of the state and to those who have had dealings in his court he has been a just and considerate judge.

It has been this splendid service that has been rendered by Judge Begley which has led to the large support that has been given by the members of the bar and citizens in general to the move to have Judge Begley again for the position that he has filled so well and ably.

The news of the filing of Judge Begley will find a general expression of gratification over the district among the hundreds of friends of Judge Begley.

FARM BUREAU NOTES
Copy for this Department furnished by County Agent

Corn and Hog Day.
This meeting was well attended and Albert Pool of Wabash gave the results of 4 years of following hog lot sanitation work. He showed it was possible to move the sows to clean farrowing ground and have an increase on the pounds of pork raised to pay for all necessary expenses caused by mofing and then you have a profit besides the satisfaction of raising 60 to 100 pigs with one or two runs. He was asked many questions which he answered very readily. Nelson Berger discussed how he secured 80-bushel yield on land which has been alfalfa or red clover, corn and oats. His soil tested 4 1/2 per cent organic matter when our virgin soil probably tested 5% but when a soil tests 4 per cent better, it will produce almost as much as virgin soil. The poor fields in the county tested 2 1/2 per cent organic matter and only yielded 20 bu. Mr. Stewart of the Agronomy Dept. discussed the reasons for high yield of corn, and Mr. Wegener of the Animal Husbandry Dept. discussed "Facts in Nebraska on High Lot Sanitation." It would be profitable if a meeting could be held similar to this about 3 or 4 times each year, other phases of agriculture being discussed at the other meetings.

Verification Insures Origin of Seed.
The careful Nebraska farmer who wants to start a field of alfalfa that will be hardy will buy seed that has been verified as to origin by the U. S. government. Three Nebraska seed dealers and 60 other large dealers in the country are now verifying all or part of the seed that goes thru their hands. They handle 90 per cent of the seed handled by commercial seed men, so it is possible for farmers in this state to get the verified seed. Verification guarantees the origin of the seed only, but does not necessarily stand for variety or quality of seed.

State experiment stations and farmers cooperating with county agents have proved beyond doubt that seed produced in warmer climates will not produce alfalfa plants that will stand Nebraska winters. The U. S. department of agriculture has set up the verification standards to make it possible for farmers to take advantage of what the experiments have shown. Verified seed can be recognized by the tag on the bag. The letters, "U. S." and the United States shield are on every tag.

Feed Grain First.

Most farmers who feed grain and good silage or alfalfa hay to their milk cows in the winter time have learned that it pays to feed the grain before the cows are given their roughage. Some cows relish silage so much that they will actually leave some of their grain in their troughs and clean up the silage. Four reasons are cited by practical dairymen why grain should be fed before the roughage is fed. The first reason is that heavy producing cows will get the concentrated grain feed that they need to maintain their production and clean up the silage. Four reasons are cited by practical dairymen why grain should be fed before the roughage is fed. Four reasons are cited by practical dairymen why grain should be fed before the roughage is fed. The first reason is that heavy producing cows will get the concentrated grain feed that they need to maintain their production and clean up the silage.

One pound of grain for each three pounds of milk produced per day is the usual amount fed. Four to six pounds is generally enough for heifers and 8 to 12 pounds enough for mature cows. With the grain the cow should be eating about 1 pound of hay and 3 pounds of silage for each 100 pounds she weighs, that is, a thousand pound cow would eat 10 pounds of hay and 30 pounds of silage per day.—L. R. Sulpes, Co. Extension Agent.

Progression in Nebraska is a monopoly of the political faction calling themselves Progressives. The real progression is public property and is shared in by all. Despite the Progressives the state advances to betterment.
