Alvo, Nebraska

Messrs Bert Kitzel and Lyle Miller were over near Walton last Monday, where they were attending a public sale which was held that day.

W. W. Coatsman and the good wife of Elmwood, were visiting the day last Sunday at the home of R. M. Coatsman and family, they driving over in their car.

Kenneth Bailey has been enjoying a slice of the mumps during the past week, and is getting along very nicely now, but he sure thought it was rough usage for a while. Under quarantine the work of the barber shop on last Saturday on account of a very sore arm of the popular barber, resulting from vaccination.

John W. Hanning was moving into the house near the old church during this week. A. B. Stromer having wired the building last week so that electric lights might be installed.

Spreading it on thick is the way that C. D. Ganz thinks of the troubles that come from the scarlet fever when he was placed under quarantine for the third time last week.

S. C. Boyles, who was called last week to Overton, in the western portion of the state, reports that there is much plowing being done in that section of the country at this time.

The Manual Training department of the Alvo High school, whose place of work is in the Coleman building, sure are a busy bunch when they all get to working and as we passed the place last week, they were as busy as a hive of bees.

Herman L. Bornemeier, the irreplaceable and good natured farmer, living just out of town, was in the week for the first time following the stage of small pox which visited his home. The quarantine was raised on last Tuesday, and the family are sure thankful.

George Eldenmiller will move from the farm near Alvo to Elmwood in a short time, where he will make his home for a short time. Mr. Eldenmiller is desirous of purchasing a barber shop and will make his home in Elmwood until he gets an opportunity to get into business.

Mrs. M. L. Gollhier, of Grand Island, a sister of R. M. Coatsman, has been very ill for some time and the doctor, Mrs. William Coatsman, of Weeping Water was out to care for the daughter, being taken out by Paul Coatsman last week. Later Philip Coatsman took his aunt, Miss Gladys Coatsman out to care for the sick sister and brought Grandmother Coatsman home. Mrs. Gollhier is still quite ill.

Two Dances Before Lent

Old fashioned dance, Sat. 18th and Collegians, of Lincoln, Monday, 20th, at Legion building, Plattsmouth.

Played Basket Ball

The Dixie Flyers, and they sure were rightly named, for they are a swift aggregation of basket ball tossers, from Lincoln, and all brunettes, were over to try out the Alvo team, and the end of the contest showed that the visitors had won by a score of 19 to 16.

As Well as Sick

Some of the people about Alvo think one had as well be sick really as to be vaccinated to keep from taking the small pox, for their arms are very sore and for a portion of the time they felt like they were worse than having the small pox. F. E. Dickerson, R. M. Coatsman and Carl Rose now were out put out of the running for a time, but are all back on the job again, although they are not feeling the best yet.

Will Reside in Alvo

Glen Foreman, who has been making his home near Bennett for the past two years, where he has been farming, moved last week to Alvo and will reside in the house formerly occupied by Mrs. M. O. Weed. Mr. Foreman will work with the Leonard Custom Tailoring company, and have Alvo as his headquarters.

From Thursday's Daily—
Marriage license was issued today to Harry A. Scheafer of Creighton, Neb., and Miss Mary A. Bauer of Washburn.

Edward Kelly, of Manley was here today for a few hours attending to some matters of business and visiting with friends.

F. J. Hennings and daughter, Mrs. Allie Meisinger and little son Marion, were in Omaha today where they spent a few hours with Mr. Meisinger at the Clarkson hospital where he is recovering from the effects of the infection that he has suffered from for several weeks.

Mrs. Rose Hriach, of Geneva, Nebraska, who has been here visiting at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. V. Belahavy, for the past three weeks, departed this morning on the early Burlington train for her home and after a most pleasant visit with the old friends.

From Friday's Daily—
County Agent L. R. Snipes recently notified Edith Robertson that she won a free club week trip, to be held in Lincoln early in June. This award was offered to four Canning club members in the state and Edith was the only one from Cass county to win it. Besides her outstanding record in canning vegetables, meats and fruits, she entered the Nebraska State Journal's contest for reporters, and she was successful with her canning club at both the county and state fairs.

The club plans to meet at Miss Lucille Christensen's home Saturday afternoon, February 11th, if the scarlet fever epidemic has abated.

Chance for the Grown Up to Finish High School

University Starts Teachers College High School and Which Many Attend.

Lincoln, Neb., Feb. 10.—"School days, school days. Good old golden-rule days."

The little red schoolhouse, so they say, is fast disappearing in Nebraska, giving people the opportunity to indulge in pleasant sentiment, they teach to the place where they learned the R's. But what about the grown-up who never finished his education, and has wanted to ever since?

There is a place for him, even now. W. H. Morton, director of teacher training in the University of Nebraska, said in a radio talk here last week—and that place is a modern, fireproof building on the edge of the state university campus, the Teachers College high school.

It is to this high school, whose enrollment consists of regular high school boys and girls, university men and women making credits, and adults, that the grown-up may come. If there ever was a state high school, this must be it, for twenty Nebraska counties are represented in its enrollment, and among its students are many farmers and ranchers and housewives who are making up for what they lost in youth.

One farmer of central Nebraska, a man thirty years old with a wife and family, has finished harvesting a 90-acre corn crop and will be one of the pupils in the ninth grade next term. Another ninth-grade student is a married woman whose daughter is almost ready to enter high school. She intends to keep pace with her daughter.

The high school, said Mr. Morton, aims "to give an opportunity to Nebraska people to gain a high school education and to furnish a school in which the University seniors and graduates may receive practical training as teachers." But it is no mere practice-school. All teaching is under the direction of twelve specialized supervisors, and only the most competent University students are allowed to have classes.

The student body of necessity is limited, and is made up by applications. But it is open to all except the teacher, said Mr. Morton. The student body this semester number 187 regular high school pupils and fifty University students who are making up credits. Almost one-half the total enrollment live on farms.

BELIEVES ROAD WILL PAY INTEREST ON INCOME BONDS

New York, Feb. 9.—Robert L. Nutt, chairman of the Seaboard Air Line, believes the road will make the regular 2 1/2 per cent interest payment on its income bonds in June. Through error in transmission of a news story, he was incorrectly quoted January 31 as saying he sees no reason to suppose the payment will be declared. What Mr. Nutt said was that he sees no reason to suppose the payment will be declared.

WOULD BAN ARMY MOVE

Washington, Feb. 9.—An unsuccessful move was made in the house today by democrats assisted by a handful of republicans to prohibit the use of army transportation appropriations for sending troops to any foreign country without specific authority from congress. The proposal sponsored by Representative Collins, democrat, Mississippi was offered as a rider to the annual war department supply bills. It was rejected on a standing vote, 163 to 71.

This action came after the house, 149 to 49, had adopted an amendment to the bill, providing that to $55,000,000 for lump sum appropriation for river and harbor improvements, the increase to be applied mainly to development of the Missouri river. Republican, California, in charge of the bill, served notice however, that he would demand a roll call vote tomorrow on this amendment.

BECK ENTITLED TO SEAT

Washington, Feb. 9.—The position of James M. Beck as a republican representative from Pennsylvania was upheld today by an house elections committee, which voted six to three to permit him to retain his seat. The democrats had raised the question whether Mr. Beck, a former solicitor general of the United States, had met the constitutional requirements that a representative at the time of his election be an inhabitant of the state from which he is chosen.

While the contest was brought by Representative Garrett, democratic flood leader, and the fight in the committee hearings was waged by Pennsylvania democrats, the vote did not run strictly along party lines. Representative Cral, a California republican, opposed Beck's retention of the seat and Representative Bourne, a Massachusetts democrat, upheld it. With these exceptions, the committee's vote reflected its political apportionment.

P. T. A. MEETS AT CEDAR CREEK

On February 3, 1928, District 31, Cedar Creek, had its P. T. A. meeting. Under the leadership of Mrs. A. G. Auld, the lives of Lincoln and Washington were well reviewed and the topic "Crime" was well discussed by Mrs. Hans Franke.

After the business of the evening the people were invited to a valentine party at which games were played and enjoyed by all. Refreshments were served at a suitable hour.

"Where it is Safe to Economize"

A VETERAN FISHERMAN

Fifty years a Missouri river fisherman—then face to face with a new law forbidding use of his nets.

Anton Hasson, 72, wept as he contemplated life without a means of livelihood.

They're feeding all of us. They'll be feeding all of us," he said, despondently.

Hasson referred to Paul Ferrari, disabled fisherman, cared for by 40 Union Pacific employes.

He told how he had pulled from the river enough fish, marketed at a few enough cents a pound, to rear his 11 children. He and his sons helped rescue the drowning, and pulled many bodies from the river waters.

"No Game Fish in River."

"All I asked was to be allowed to take care of myself in my old age. Now they take my living away from me," he said. "The only fish left in the river are carp and buffalo. Oil from industrial plants has killed the rest."

"It is right that the state should not allow selling where game fish do their spawning. But they do not spawn in the Missouri river. And we couldn't catch one year's hatchling of carp and buffalo in four years. Catfish, white perch and spoon-bills have disappeared."

"All Missouri river fishermen have to pay $5 for fishing licenses, $2 for selling fish and $5 a year for a $200 bond."

Got $2 Fish First Haul.

Hasson explained how the fishing bug first "bit him."

"I was working in the railroad yards. One Saturday I put my net in the river and dragged out $2 worth of fish. I decided that was more profitable than the $1.10 a day I was getting. I was able to eke out a living for myself and family, but I never kicked. And now I'm finished. What can I do now? Nothing."

Hasson lives in a three-room shack at First street and Woolworth avenue, facing the river, where he has resided for 50 years. Eight other
