The Tragedy of the Ages
Golden Text: "Not what I will, but what thou wilt." Mark 14:36.

Eating the Last Supper

The mission of the Lord Jesus Christ was rapidly being fulfilled, and was soon to be completed. The Master had been faithful to the cause entrusted to Him by the Father, and was faithful unto the last. He had with the little band of the disciples been over to the land of Perea, and was returning, had come and made the triumphal entry into Jerusalem. The populace had acknowledged Him the Messiah, which should come to save the world, still little did they understand the true mission, and character which He was "Thinking that He perchance, might be one who was to redeem Israel from the bondage of the Romans, when in truth He was to redeem mankind from the bonds of sin, which was even much stronger than the bondage under which the Roman Empire ruled the then almost known world. He had arranged that they eat the last supper together, as he was to leave the little band. But a few days before this last supper, He had been present at the home of Simeon the Leper when a supper was given for him and at the time which Mary anointed the Lord with the Alabaster box of ointment, and from which Judas and others made objection for they said why was not the ointment saved and sold and the proceeds given to the poor. Not as Mark says that they cared for the poor but that Judas was the treasurer and a thief, and had been stealing from the little band. Now Christ said, let this woman alone, she hath wrought a good work on me, for she has anointed her body for the burial. He also said: This act shall be told of her wherever the gospel shall be preached, and as a memorial for the gracious act which she has done. Then a few days later Jesus sendeth two of his disciples into the city of Jerusalem to make preparations for the celebrating of the pass-over, and it is thought that they were Peter and John, and when all things were in readiness he comes with the twelve to the upper chamber, where the celebration of the pass-over, and the bondage of Egypt, was to be celebrated, and the greater deliverance also from sin was to be consummated and before they were to eat this last supper. It is a very fine thing when one of our friends are leaving to give him a farewell supper, and recount the things which have made us friends during the years past and extend the best wishes for his future, and he for ours. Indeed a great demonstration of earthly friendships, and how much more so, when it comes to the friendships which existed between the Master and the band of disciples. For the love was such there was no way of measurements by earthly standards, and it most fittingly expressed in the golden text of the scriptures, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Jon. 3:16.

The Traitor Made Known.

As they were eating the Master being oppressed by the knowledge that He was to go and pay the penalty for the sins of the world, and still after the three years in which they had been so closely associated together, the band of disciples, for the love was such there was no way of measurements by earthly standards, and it most fittingly expressed in the golden text of the scriptures, "For God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten son that whosoever believeth on Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." Jon. 3:16.

ADMISSION

Gents, 40c Ladies, Children, 10c

you enter not into temptation, and I will go pray for you.

Christ Prays in Agony.

Then throwing himself prostrate on the earth, Christ prays to the Father, knowing full well, the suffering which the morrow was to bring to Him and says, Father if it be possible that this cup shall pass and I not have to drink of it, do so, but not my will but thine be done. He willingly submitted to the terrible ordeal which was to come with the morrow, for the crucifixion was one of the most horrible of deaths, as the suffering was of such intensity, and so prolonged. The one to undergo the death in this manner was first placed on the cross at it lay on the ground, and the hands extended, and nailed to the cross piece of the cross, and the feet nailed to the upright, and spikes reaching through and holding, that when the cross was raised and dropped into the hole which had been prepared, the jerk when the cross struck the bottom of the hole was almost sufficient to tear the hands and feet loose from their fastenings. Then to remain during the day, with the accompanying suffering and the loss of blood produced intense thirst, and all the time receiving the gibes of the persons who asked, If thou art the Christ, come down from the cross and save your self. With this we understand some of the suffering through which the Master went for our individual salvation.

The next lesson will be the next step in the tragedy of the ages, "The Arrest and Trial."

A Referendum is Taken Among 1,500 Pastors of three Sects

Chicago.—Replies of 821 clergymen from a list of 1,500 show approximately 90 per cent in favor of organic union of the Congregationalist, Presbyterian and Methodist Episcopal denominations. Results of referendum, taken by the Methodist Episcopal church, were made public today.

Rev. William F. McDermott who compiled the results, said: "They indicate that if a merger of these three great churches can be worked out, it will be the most extensive and significant in the history of the church in America."

The names of 500 ministers from each of the three denominations selected at random, although care was taken to include representatives of all sections of the country. They were asked:

"Are you in favor, in principle, of the organic union of the Presbyterian Methodist and Congregational churches?"

Majority Favor Union. Of the 821 replies, 736 or 89.6 per cent favored union. The ballot showed the Congregationalist ministers most strongly in favor of union, with a vote of 259 to 14, or 92.8 per cent, and Presbyterians 85 per cent in favor.

The vote was taken in confidence but a study of the replies revealed favorable opinion was based on the belief that the next great move in Protestantism would be toward union. Those against the merger held that both creed and church government of the three denominations offered insuperable barriers.

"The Methodist Episcopal general conference in Kansas City voted almost unanimously to open negotiations for church union," the Rev. Mr. McDermott said. "The Presbyterian general assembly at Tulsa, Okla., is expected to give the plan earnest consideration."

OBITUARY-EIDMANN

George Phillip Eidmann, a son of Phillip and Catherine Eidmann, now deceased was born in Pekin, Illinois, October 22, 1858, and died at Lead, South Dakota, May 21, 1928, aged sixty-nine years and seven months.

Mr. and Mrs. Eidmann, senior were among the well known and highly respected pioneer residents of this vicinity, and their son Phillip, as we knew him here, made his home near Stuart for a number of years in the "mines."

He went from here to Deadwood, South Dakota, where he made his home until just previous to his death, which occurred at Lead, as stated above.

He was one of a family of nine children; the one brother John, was called by death a few years ago, and of whom, Mrs. Horn of Omaha, and Mrs. Powell of Lincoln, were present at the funeral services. Ernest Horn of Omaha and Orlo Powell of Lincoln, nephews of the deceased were also present.

The remains arrived in Stuart Wednesday morning, and were taken to the Chittick home, where funeral services, conducted by Rev. Bell, pastor of the M. E. church, were held at 2:30 in the afternoon. Interment was in the Stuart cemetery.—Stuart (Neb.) Advocate.

The deceased is survived by several sisters, among them being Mrs. C. L. Herger and Mrs. Fred Ohlenhausen of this city, Mrs. W. G. Beardslee of Lexington, Mrs. Winick, living in Oregon and Mrs. Fred Pringle of California.

FAR NORTH HAS MYSTERY

Anchorage, Alaska, May 27.—The void of the northland held another mystery today in connection with the Fox film expedition, a week overdue in a round trip flight from Wiseman to Point Barrow. No word has been received from Matt Nieminen, pilot and Richard Hoyer, wireless operator of the cabin plane searching for the expedition.

The film expedition left Wiseman on May 11 in two planes piloted by Noel Wien of Fairbanks and R. S. Merrill of Anchorage. The relief plane, after leaving Kotzebue on Norton sound late Friday, flew into the void, so far as communications were concerned.

Nieminen had tentative planned to stop at Wainwright 100 miles southwest of Point Barrow, to take on additional gasoline. Hoyer was to establish communication as soon as possible after their arrival at Barrow. He had a wireless transmitting set in the plane.

DECORATING CHURCH

From Tuesday's Daily.—The interior of the St. Paul's Evangelical church in this city, one of the handsomest church buildings in the community, is being given a thorough overhauling and cleaning and the force of painters under the direction of P. R. Gobelman are busy today in getting the work of redecorating the main auditorium under way. The work is under the supervision of the committee consisting of A. J. Engelkemier and Henry Horn and who will see that the church has all the needed improvements and redecoration to make it one of the most attractive church buildings in this part of Nebraska.

The Dennison line solves the problem of mid-summer hostesses. Sold exclusively in this territory at the Bates Book and Gift Shop.
