Greenwood Observes Memorial Day

The city of Greenwood closed their business houses on last Wednesday, Memorial day, and with the city gallantly decorated with flags, and the band dispensing patriotic music, put every one in the spirit of giving honor to the soldier dead, and all others who had friends resting in the "Silent City" were out to the exercises, and also went and strewn pretty flowers on the graves of their loved ones, and thus bespoke the honor in which they held their friends of the other days. Very appropriate services were had and much honor and respect shown for the ones who saved the country both in the times of domestic trouble and in the world war. It is altogether fitting and proper that we pause once in the year and contemplate the sacrifices which our soldier, both dead and living made that we might enjoy the blessings of peace and prosperity.

Dies at Home of Daughter. Mrs. Harriet Jane Dunning, the mother of Mrs. O. F. Peters who has been very ill at the home of the daughter in Greenwood for the past few weeks, passed away on last Sunday after several weeks of severe illness. All care was given the patient by the daughter and sons, who came here from Denver and Pueblo, but while they did all possible the call of the death angel beckoned the mother away. The remains were taken to the mortuary of Castle & Roper, Lincoln, where it laid in state until Thursday, when the funeral cortege proceeded to Shelby, her former home where the services were held at the United Brethren church of that place and the body of the loved mother laid to rest, in the beautiful church yard to await the call of the angel of the resurrection. Mrs. Dunning was one of the very best of women, and was always looking for an opportunity to do some good service to some one. The husband had preceded the wife to the other world and is now joined by the wife in the last resting place until time shall be no more.

No F. F. Laughlin Poorly.

Reports from the home of B. F. Laughlin of Gary, Indiana, is to the effect that the veteran of many a hard struggle in the Civil war and who is well known in Greenwood having lived here for many years, and where he has so many friends, is very poorly at his home. He is one of the oldest of the Grand Army of the Republic, who are so rapidly vanishing from our midst. The observance of Memorial day was not the same without this veteran being present.

No Pool Hall.

On account of the refusal of a permit to operate a pool hall at the last meeting of the Greenwood city council, the pool hall had to suspend business for a period not definitely known until the granting of a permit to either the present owner or some one to succeed him.

Changes in the Burlington to be Made Sunday

New Trains Put On and Several Take-Off of Service—Substitutions to Be Made.

From Saturday's Daily—The Burlington is making several changes in their train service on the lines through this city which are effective tomorrow and which will make a difference to the traveling public that patronize the railroads as a means of travel.

The afternoon train from Omaha that reaches here at 2:07 p. m. and the train going to Omaha at 3:05 p. m. are to be taken off, as will be No. 14, the train from Omaha reaching here at 8:40 p. m.

The substitution for the afternoon train will be that the Schuyler motor car that now operates between Omaha and Schuyler will be sent through this city to Pacific Junction at 2:07 p. m., and returning will go via Cedar Creek, Louisville and Ashland, where connections for Lincoln will be made, but there will be no afternoon train into Omaha. The Schuyler train also will not operate on Sunday.

Replacing No. 14, the railroad will have a mixed freight and passenger train that will leave Omaha at 12:30 and reach here at about 1:30 p. m. to care for the late travelers over the railroad.

The Burlington is replacing in service west bound train No. 1 from Chicago to Denver which will reach this city at 6:20 a. m., with stops for passengers from Mississippi river points, as well as placing back train No. 10 from Denver to Chicago which will pass through this city at 2:30 a. m., but without stop.

These changes are made by the railroad company as the result of the constantly decreasing short haul travel over the railroads that make the operation of the trains very costly in proportion to the return and are leading to the short line trains over all parts of the system being removed and substitutions made.

The family will remain here for a time until they are able to join Mr. Reed and become settled in the new home.

In their residence here for the past six years Mr. and Mrs. Reed have made many friends and have been active in the community life and their going will bring a real regret to the host of friends. Mrs. Reed has been one of the outstanding musical artists of the city and her yesterday talent has often delighted the residents of this portion of Nebraska and her leaving will be keenly felt by the music lovers and her associates in the Women's club work. ### GIVE FRIENDS FAREWELL

From Saturday's Daily—Last evening the members of the Epworth League gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Bushnell in the Bekin building where they tendered a farewell to two of their members, Miss Isabel and Henry Marshall, who are leaving on Monday for Council Bluffs where they will make their home in the future.

The time was most delightfully spent in games of all kinds that served to make the hours speed by and it was with real regret that the members of the party saw the happy occasion draw to a close and with it the sadness that came with the thought that they must soon part with the two associates that had been with them in the work of the league for a great many years that they have resided here.

At the close of the evening dainty and delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. Bushnell who was assisted by Mrs. Trively in the serving and entertaining.

Edward Swatek is Asphyxiated by Sewer Gas

Brother of W. A. Swatek of This City Is Overcome at Work in Omaha Friday.

From Saturday's Daily—William A. Swatek of this city received the message late Friday afternoon that his brother, Edward Swatek, 45, had died as the result of asphyxiation by sewer gas, with which he was overcome at his work as a city employe of Omaha in the repair of a sewer at Forty-eighth and Leavenworth streets, the death occurring shortly after 4 o'clock Friday.

The man had been sent into the sewer about an hour earlier, to locate a manhole whose entrance from the street had been covered over with dirt and lost.

Soon he was heard to tap three times, the signal agreed upon if he should find the manhole. The taps could not be located from the surface, however, and when Swatek did not return, after about 10 minutes, John Slepick, thirty-ninth and Patterson avenue, another laborer, was sent into the earth to hunt for him. Slepick went north in the sewer about 250 feet and found Swatek's lantern. Looking up, he saw the body, wedged near the top of the sewer. He could not move it, and he could not tell whether Swatek was dead or not.

While 25 men in the sewer crew attempted by digging from the surface to locate the manhole opening, firemen from Twenty-seventh and Jones streets arrived. They lowered ladders and put down a powerful light to aid in the search.

The body was soon located and the entrance to the manhole was uncovered by workmen who dug to a depth of about five feet through the earth. August Kdakovski and John Vail of Company 4 fire department, went into the hole for the body, and it took about 30 minutes for them to push it to the surface. The gas made the rescue work difficult and forced back from the scene the large crowd that gathered to watch the rescue work.

Although Swatek was pronounced dead when brought to the surface, efforts were made by use of a pulmonary to revive him.

The sewer that Swatek was lost in is about nine and one-half feet in diameter. Swatek is survived by Mrs. Swatek, 4363 So. 42nd street, three sons, Joe, 10; John, 19, and Edward, 20; a sister, Mrs. J. Kranosta, 5428 South Twentieth street, a brother, William Swatek, Plattsmouth, and his mother, Mrs. John Swatek South 20th street.

VERY PROMPT AND SATISFACTORY ADJUSTMENT

From Saturday's Daily—Last Sunday about noon the publisher of the Journal, R. A. Bates' home was visited by a very damaging fire, as has been previously noted in this paper. We carried insurance policies in three of the best companies in the land, namely the Insurance Company of North America, The Home Insurance, both of whom are represented by A. H. Duxbury, and whose adjuster, Mr. Bridges was the first on the ground Monday morning.

The third company was our own home Nebraska Union Fire Insurance company, of Lincoln, represented in this city by Miss Gertrude Morgan, whose adjuster, Mr. Vere, was here shortly after dinner Monday. Once upon a time long ago it was said that insurance companies were hard to deal with after a fire, but after a few hours visit with these three excellent gentlemen, and their local representatives, we emphatically pronounce this assertion erroneous. Neither of these companies had the slightest desire to do anything but what was just and right, and ever willing to accept each and every item of loss that we brought to their attention.

The loss to the building was much more easily adjusted than the loss to contents in the second floor of our home, and as Mr. Vere, of the Union Fire Insurance Co., held all this, as task and pleasant business relations with him was prolonged, till almost dusk, but we went through the debris very carefully, and everything was adjusted to our entire satisfaction.

We simply take this method of thanking these gentlemen and their excellent companies for their prompt attention, their fair adjustment and settlement of our claim, also their local representatives.

To the children is given the precious memory of the mother's undying love and her service to them will be always an inspiration.

The requiem mass of the church was celebrated by Father Jerry Hancock who gave the last blessings of the church to the departed and paid a fine tribute to motherhood as exemplified by the life of Mrs. Wooster. A vocal solo was given during the mass by Cyril Janda, a tribute to the memory of Mrs. Wooster.

At the conclusion of the service the body was borne to the Catholic cemetery where it was laid to rest beside that of the husband and father, the pall bearers being from the old friends and neighbors, James Holy, Sr., John Uhlir, Sr., John Juransk, Adolph Koubek, Frank Kontrast and Thomas Svoboda.
