Golden Text: "Faithful is the saying and worthy of all acceptance, that Christ came into the world to save sinners."—1 Tim. 1:15.

Saul's Life is Changed

Following the storming of Stephen and his death, the church was still persecuted very bitterly by the Jews in control of the temple worship, and as a consequence, the disciples were scattered, and they fled in all directions. However, the apostles remained in Jerusalem. Many went to Damascus, and there was a wonderful growth of the church in that part of the country.

Now comes a peculiar situation. A great many say that in all the bitterness of the man, Saul went to Damascus that he might still persecute the Christians there.

It would seem to us however, that with the execution of Stephen, when he was dragged out of the city and stoned to death, and the clothes of the martyr were kept by Saul, and as the sainted disciple looked up into heaven and said unto the Lord of the Universe, "Receive my spirit," and the blood of the innocent follower of the Master gushed out on the ground, and when he had died, the friends buried him and mourned for him many days. "Seeing all this must have left an impression on the mind of Saul that could not be eradicated.

When Saul asked for letters to the city of Damascus, that he might go there and cause the arrest of the Christians, he must have desired to have been transferred from the scene of the murder of Stephen, and thinking that new scenes might in a way make him forget the horribleness of the act of brutally killing an innocent man, as Stephen had been killed.

two twin stores Lancaster and B. H. Nelson store where some freight was unloaded for Harry Nelson, and as they were at the unloading and were just getting ready to leave the young son of Mr. Nelson awakening, saw the light and notified the father who got out his artillery, which consisted of a revolver and rushing out endeavored to shoot as the truck was hastening away, thinking they were robbers, and that they were leaving with a truck load of goods. Happily the gun would not explode, and the people in the truck were saved a wound for under the circumstances Mr. Nelson was justified in doing what he did to protect his property, for the burglars have been making havoc with his store and goods. There is a determined effort being put forth by all the citizens of Murray to stop the robberies which have prevailed, and any one who shall be caught will be dealt with summarily.

ENJOYS PLEASANT VISIT

Henry Snoko, one of the prominent residents of Eagle and former county commissioner, was here today in company with his son, Archie Adams and his brother, Hiram Snoko of Pine Grove, Pennsylvania. Mr. Hiram Snoko is enjoying a visit with the brother and family at Eagle while he is enroute to the west coast where he is to spend some time visiting at various points along the Pacific coast, and will, on his way back to Pennsylvania, stop at various points in the south to visit before he returns home.

over that convicted man, he was never-the-less in bonds, and was led by the hand into Damascus. There after three days of darkness in which he had time to think, there was brot home to him a realization of the real truth, and when he had gone to Ananias, who said, "Brother Saul, receive thy sight," the scales, as it were fell from his eyes and he was able to see.

Saul a Christian

Then, when Saul was convinced of the fact that Jesus was indeed the very Christ, he espoused the cause of Christianity, and went about trying as hard as he could to rectify the evil which he had done. But those whom he had persecuted did not care to trust him and it was some time before they put any confidence in the new convert to Christianity.

Then, when Saul had accepted the Christ who had died for the sins of the world, and of whom Saul after he had become Paul, said: "I am the chief sinner." Thenceforth, during his lifetime he did everything he possibly could to advance the cause of the Master, and at the end testified, "I have fought a good fight; I have kept the faith; I have kept the course, and now therefore, there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, and not for me only but for all those that love his appearing."

This was Saul's conversion, genuine and sincere, the same as every act of his life.

TRUCKS HAVE SMASHUP

From Tuesday's Daily— Yesterday afternoon the truck driven by Jess Whitlicker of Auburn was overturned in the ditch along the highway near the S. Y. Smith farm, south of this city and near the bank where a very serious case of severe scalp wound while the companion of Mr. Whitlicker, an aged man, was injured by having two ribs broken by the shaking up that he received as the cab of the truck was demolished.

Mr. Whitlicker had taken a load of stock to Omaha and was returning to Auburn when the accident occurred and he claims that another truck coming from the south struck his machine and caused it to turn over, rolling into the ditch along the highway.

Many autoists took the two injured men into Union and they were left at the Vegota Hotel and Dr. G. H. Gilmore of Murray called and who soon reached the scene and dressed the injuries of the two men. The injuries are not thought dangerous but are very painful and will keep both men on the retired list for some time.

TAKE FORWARD STEP

The Interstate bus company, which has been operating lines of busses through this part of the west, has taken another step forward in transportation by adding to their line of busses, two planes that are to be used in service between Omaha and Chicago. There is an ever increasing demand for the plane as a means of transportation and the Interstate company is getting on the ground early to supply the desire for the rapid transportation and it is but a question of a few years when the plane as a means of passenger carrying will be very common and take up a great part of the long distance travel, providing speed and safety as air travel is developed to the standard that it is bound to reach in a few years. While the Interstate people are putting on the plane service, Ike Gillinsky, who makes the bus trips here from the Interstate station, says he will continue on the ground.

Nebraskans Organizing Big Wheat Pool

Co-Operative Marketing Plan in Effect When 50 Per Cent of Wheat Growers Join

Officials of the Nebraska Wheat Growers' Association Nonstock Co-operative state that nearly 5,000 farmers in Nebraska have signed contracts to market their wheat through the pool now in process of organization. Pool contracts will not become effective until 50 per cent of the wheat growers in the state have signed the contracts, and the time limit for signatures does not expire until July 1, 1929.

Those who have signed are not bound to market their wheat through the pool this year, but they may do so if they advise the headquarters office in Lincoln in time for officials to make arrangements with elevator companies to store and handle the grain.

Some misunderstanding of the limit and the obligations assumed under the contract seems to prevail, and the following statement from A. P. Sprague, legal counsel for the cooperative at Lincoln, should make these points clear to members of the organization:

A Mutual Organization
"The campaign being conducted by a group of Nebraska farmers, known as the Nebraska Wheat Growers' Association Non-Stock Co-Operative contemplates group marketing of 50 per cent of the wheat acreage of Nebraska by the growers themselves. The contracts are contracts among themselves."

"Those who have signed the 50 per cent contract and paid their membership fees of $10 each prior to July 1, 1928, have done so subject to the following expressed conditions:

"1. They need not deliver their 1928 wheat to the pool, because 50 per cent of Nebraska's acreage is not yet under contract and until 50 per cent is under contract they have the option to deliver to the pool or to market independently on the open market. The only requirement is that they notify the association which course they will follow so the association will know whether or not to make elevator and financial arrangements to handle their wheat.

"2. The organization is given until July 1, 1929, to complete the 50 per cent sign-up before cancellation is permissible.

"3. If the 50 per cent sign-up is not secured by July 1, 1929, such signers again exercise their option as to whether they will pool their wheat, or demand the cancellation and surrender of their contracts and permanently withdraw from the movement. Prior to July 1, 1929 in ample time, proper blanks for signing notice will be furnished the member the same as was done this year.

"4. If 50 per cent of the acreage of the state, as set forth in the contract, is signed up by July 1, 1929, then all contracts will be in full force and effect and the pooling of the wheat required.

Nothing to Worry About
"In other words, the member who signed the 50 per cent contract prior to this date, paid his small membership fee and notified his association that he does not desire to deliver his 1928 crop, has nothing to worry about. He is released for 1928. If the 50 per cent is not secured by July 1, 1929, he may exercise his option and be permanently released at that time. If 50 per cent is secured, it will be to his material advantage to participate.

"Fans, Tubs, Boilers and many other articles not mentioned.
We deliver free up to 50 miles on bills of $50 and up.

form his contract, since great volume is an instrument of economy in business operations.
"This commodity co-operative marketing plan is committed to the orderly marketing of wheat. It is the identical plan which has received the endorsement of both political parties and many of the great agricultural economies for four or five years past, and has never proven a failure when given a fair test and adequate volume."
