A hick town is one that has no traffic problem.

England now has thirty peers who are under 21 years of age.

The days are growing shorter. A lot of people are in the same fix.

Time never hangs heavy on the hands of the boy with his first watch.

It's going to take a real farm genius to keep from having a good corn crop this year.

Worn by Queen Elizabeth as a young princess, a nightgown recently was sold for $375 in London.

The latest model phonograph automatically stops at the right time, except for a record like "Ramona."

The railroads of the United States use about 130,000,000 new wood ties every year; there are about 3,000 to the mile.

There are 30,000 persons in Russia over 100 years old. Russians, including Trotsky seem to live longer than other people.

A scientist says that the teeth of a gorilla are so deep set they can't be pulled, but we have an idea he doesn't know our dentist.

And—we never thought of it until now—but there seems to be considerably less yodeling. Are the yodelers depressed by secret sorrows?

A prophet announces that America will sing under the sea. In the meantime, strenuous efforts are being made to keep the country dry.

One thing you can say for the motor mechanic; he's not finicky or uptight. He'd just as soon wipe his hands on a cheap seat cover as a costly one.

Our language is constantly being refined and beautified and the girl who only a few years ago used to say "Thanks, awfully" now says "Thanks, gobs."

Chicago's new chief of police announces he will enforce all laws rigidly. Let's see, wasn't the last chief there going to run all crooks out of town in 60 days?

A mile of newspaper will be made every three minutes by the greatest paper-making machine in the world, now being made for the Great Lakes Paper company, Ontario. This giant machine, weighing 200 tons, will produce paper 25 feet wide.

AN EXPERT ON THE FARM JOB

Chairman Raskob of the Democratic National committee, has retained Prof. Seligman, head of the economic department at Columbia university, to make an "exhaustive and non-political" study of the farm problem.

This is precisely what might be expected of a man of Mr. Raskob's business caliber. It is precisely the thing that industrial leaders do when confronted by difficult problems in their own spheres of activity. It is precisely what the great corporation with which Mr. Raskob has been connected did when the question of installment selling was agitating the automobile industry and was under the fire of alarming criticism and direful prophecy. And Prof. Seligman was the man whom General Motors chose for the task.

Mr. Raskob's position in the premises will appeal to the country's common sense. "There can be no question," he says, "that there is some manner in which the farmer's problem can be solved along lines that are economically sound; that orderly instead of chaotic marketing and intelligent business control of surplus crops will tend to give the farmer higher prices for his produce."

As regards the "equalization fee," which the consensus of expert opinion has pronounced unsound, Mr. Raskob is openminded. He is awaiting Mr. Seligman's judgment on that point as upon every other phase of the problem and is apparently prepared to accept his expert's report, which will be made only after "weeks or months" of painstaking inquiry.

It may be objected that the farm problem has been a pressing public difficulty for years, that it has engaged the earnest efforts of many able men, that no solution has yet been advanced acceptable to agriculture which the administration could approve or economic authority endorse. But there is nothing exceptional in that record. It is, in its essentials, the record of many public problems. Further, whatever solution Mr. Seligman may propose will be open to criticism. Further still, in whatever solution is finally adopted by legislative enactment will almost surely have to be amended, perhaps frequently, under the test of trial. But that, as Senator Watson pointed out in a discussion of the "equalization fee" in St. Louis just prior to the Kansas City convention, is the normal story of legislative experience. He offered as pertinent example, the Federal Reserve Act and could have cited many others had he wished.

The pith of Mr. Raskob's decision is this: It is the business man's method of grappling with a problem. That the decision further confirms the wisdom of Gov. Smith's selection of his campaign manager may happily be noted, we think, by all citizens regardless of their political persuasion. It surely augurs well for the nation when the management of a presidential candidate's campaign addresses itself to a problem of this character in a thoroughly businesslike, thoroughly nonpolitical manner.

There is honesty in Mr. Raskob's decision, and there is capacity. And these are cardinal virtues in public affairs as in private life.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

DEAD NOTE

When Geraldine Farrar was a little girl in Medford, Mass., and first began to show her musical talent, she drove the neighbors frantic with her budding vocal efforts.

"Do you really have to do that?" a little boy in the neighborhood asked her one day.

"Of course I do," declared "Jerry" "Beautiful music always seems to haunt me."

"That's because you murder it first!" decided the wag and the future grand opera star crossed his name off her party list.

Probably you will never be "presented at court" in London. But you can always go to the circus—which is much the same only better.
