New Death House Erected at Penitentiary

New Structure to Cost $10,000; Intended to Avoid Outbreaks at the State Pen.

Lincoln, Neb., Aug. 14.—A new death house is being built within the grey stone walls of Nebraska's state penitentiary.

In a corner of the courtyard of the institution the prisoners themselves are building two additional stories upon the present one-story "jail" which is a prison within the prison, a prison to house outlaws among outlaws. They are building their own jail—if any of the prisoners at work should some time land in it.

The third story of the building which will be 40 feet square, is the new death house.

Two to Move Soon.

The two condemned men now at the prison, Frank Sharp, slated to die in October for the hammer murder of his wife three years ago, and Henry Sherman, 19-year-old slayer of his employer's family on a ranch near Rushville, will be moved to the new death house from the deadlock section of the main cell as soon as the new structure is completed.

There will be 15 cells on each floor of the new "jail."

Intended to Avoid Outbreaks.

The new structure will cost 10 thousand dollars. The money was appropriated by the last session of the state legislature.

The first floor will be called the "think it over" section, Warden Fenton told The World-Herald. Men caught in violations of the prison rules will be placed there, in "solitary," to have time to consider the virtues of obedience, he said.

The second floor will house incorrigibles and dangerous prisoners, and should materially reduce the danger of serious injury or death to guards from outbreaks, it is believed, besides providing new and more comfortable quarters for the condemned men.

Follows Other Changes.

The new "jail" is the last of a series of improvements at the penitentiary ordered by Warden Fenton following the serious attempt at dynamiting the penitentiary by Fred Brown, the Omaha "chain man," and his associates. The other improvements included several armor-plate cages and window projectors inside the walls and a machine gun tower on the outside, just opposite the main entrance to the building. This latter was intended both to frustrate any prisoners who might successfully break through the inner gates, and to guard against a rush of waiting confederates on the outside.

Smith Refuses Debate Stratton Outside Church

Asserts That Meeting Must Be Held in the Calvary Baptist Church or Not Held at All

New York, Aug. 14.—The New York Evening Post today quotes Dr. John Roach Stratton as saying that he is ready to repeat, in the largest hall he can find, his recent sermon criticizing Governor Smith, in the event that the governor refuses to debate with him in any place but Calvary Baptist church of which Dr. Stratton is pastor.

The newspaper's correspondent at Greenwood Lake, N. Y., where Dr. Stratton is staying, had informed Dr. Stratton of Governor Smith's letter demanding that the proposed discussion be held in the church or not at all.

Awaits Letter.

In reply, the Post correspondent quotes Dr. Stratton as saying: "I cannot reply until I receive the letter, but I can say this: It is a most remarkable letter that Governor Smith has written me—amazing to me. He talks about my traducing him as governor. That has nothing whatever to do with it. He wrote to me as a candidate for president of the United States and that is why he wanted to get into Calvary Baptist church.

"The heart of my reply to him will be to this effect: He challenged me to a joint discussion. I accepted. He stipulated that it be held in my own church. For obvious reasons that have been advanced it cannot be."

"But the governor does refuse on this ground then I will hire the largest hall I can secure and notify the governor that I am going to repeat, in that hall, the exact sermon to which he objected."

Albany, N. Y., Aug. 14.—Governor Smith today notified Rev. John Roach Stratton that their proposed debate on his public career must take place in Calvary Baptist church in New York City or not at all.

In a letter to the clergyman, who has expressed an unwillingness to meet Smith in his own church, the governor said he had no intention of conducting a political debate with him. It was from his pulpit that Dr. Stratton recently declared Smith was the "deadliest foe of the forces of moral progress in America," this charge leading the governor to demand the opportunity to reply.

"The answer to my request to appear in your church before your parishioners under the conditions I mentioned is yes or no," said the governor in his letter today. "Until I hear from you in the affirmative the matter is closed."—Lincoln Star.

County Clerk of Hall Quits His Position

Fred Griffin to Fill Position Left Vacant by Resignation When Accounts Found Short.

Grand Island, Neb., Aug. 14.—Fred Griffin, assessor, was appointed county clerk today after Clerk J. E. Lyle, who has served in that office for ten years, voluntarily tendered his resignation. A week ago, expert accountants showed Lyle short in the sum of $4,168 in fees earned under the law but some of which Mr. Lyle states were not collected. Mr. Lyle covered the reported shortage into the treasury and today, thru his attorney, asked only for time to check back.

The board, however, accepted the resignation effective at once. There was an additional overpayment of Omaha Structural Steel Bridge company of $2,000 which, it was found, had been in the First National bank since 1919 as a disputed part of a claim consigned to the bank by the Omaha firm. Mr. Lyle today stated that he did not know this money was there until his attention was recently called to the fact by the accountants.

The same firm of accountants found technical shortages in the office of the sheriff, clerk of the court and county court, the deficiencies consisting of fees earned but not collected and a few minor errors, all of which have been covered. The county board today ordered interest to be collected on the Lyle shortage but it is believed that will be the extent of any further action on the experts' report.

Mrs. J. L. Stamp entertained at a dinner party at her home south of town in honor of Geo. Pugsley, Jr., of Bayard, Nebraska, who is spending his vacation here.

The home was decorated in flowers and vines and the dining table for the twelve guests was tastefully decorated and with the candles and flowers was very beautiful.

Place cards and favors were used and each guest received a very pretty buttonhole bouquet at their plate. The evening was spent in music and cards that added to the pleasures of the occasion.

The Dennison line offers you year-round entertainment goods. Picnics, lawn parties and outdoor events can be supplied as well as interior decorations, favors, etc., etc. Call at the Bates Book and Gift Shop.

RATE INCREASES HELD UP

Washington, Aug. 14.—Heavy increases in rates on wheat, flour and bran which railroads propose to make effective tomorrow by a reclassification arrangement, were temporarily held up today by an interstate commerce commission suspension order. The commission's order required the carriers to maintain existing rates till March 15.

The commission announced that it will undertake an investigation into the justice of the proposed change.

Illustrating the effect of the new schedule, the commission said that the present rate on the flour from Minneapolis to Claymore, S. D., of 26 1-2 cents per hundred pounds would become 72 1-2 cents under the proposed reclassification, while the present rate from Minneapolis to Lemmon, S. D., of 26 1-2 cents would become 51 1-2 cents and the present rate of 67 1-2 cents to Billings, Mont., would become 75 cents. A somewhat similar effect would be produced on shipments thruout northwestern territory.

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 14.—Forest fires continued to spread in Montana tonight after burning over more than three thousand acres, but conflagrations in California and Idaho were under control.
