Ralph Johnson, well known employee of the Burlington in the local plastering mill, was taken to Omaha yesterday and placed in the Methodist hospital, the patient suffering from a severe case of gastric ulcers. HOW TO KEEP FROM GROWING OLD
Always drive fast out of alleys. Always race with locomotives to crossings. Engineers like it; it breaks the monotony of their jobs. Always pass the car ahead on curves or turns. Don't use your horn. It may unnerve the other fellow and cause him to turn out too far. Demand half the road—the middle half. Insist upon your rights. Always speed; it shows people you are a man of pep even though an amateur driver. Never stop, look or listen at railroad crossings. It consumes time. Drive confidently, just as though there were eighteen million other cars in service. Always lock your brakes when skidding. It makes the job more artistic. Always pass cars on hills. It shows you have more power; and you can turn out if you meet a car at the top. In sloppy weather drive close to pedestrians. Dry cleaners appreciate it. Never look around when you back up. There is never anything behind you.

From Saturday's Daily—
Last evening the Chaloupka bowling alley, situated in the building just east of the Journal office, opened for business and the ancient and honorable game of bowling is again a part of the amusement features of the city.

Several bowling teams are being planned among the societies, the different groups over the city and who will hold their regular contests at the Chaloupka alleys in the future. A group of the ladies of the city are also planning to start several teams and have a ladies' night at the alleys when the ladies of the city can enjoy this pastime.

Norris Says Hoover Should Speak on Oil

Says Record Indicates All of Harding Cabinet Knew of Plot—No Protest as Yet.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Senator George W. Norris (rep., Neb.) declared in an authorized interview before leaving for the west, that he did not see how Herbert Hoover could longer remain silent regarding the naval oil leases in view of Alfred E. Smith's direct attack in his Montana speech and the revelations in The World-Herald that this matter was repeatedly discussed by the Harding cabinet when Hoover was almost certainly present.

"It is perfectly preposterous to assert that Mr. Hoover as a member of President Harding's cabinet did not know about the leasing of Teapot Dome long before the contract with Sinclair was signed," says Senator Norris.

"The official records show that the question of leasing the naval oil reserves was repeatedly discussed in the cabinet. There appears to be no doubt that on at least one occasion when this matter was considered at length by the entire Harding cabinet, Mr. Hoover was present. This was six months before the contract was signed.

Whole Scheme Illegal.
"The record also shows clearly that even after this cabinet discussion Secretary of the Navy Denby was in doubt regarding the legality of the transaction. And yet with this doubt in the mind of Denby himself we have the testimony of an admiral in the navy that the plan was approved.

"It is hard to understand how anyone could have failed to see from the start that the entire program suggested by Fall was contrary to law. The very transfer of the oil reserves from the navy to the direct interior department was illegal. It did not require a decision of the supreme court to establish this. The very fact that the executive order by which this was accomplished was issued secretly and kept secret for nearly a year indicates that its questionable character was recognized by the Harding administration.

"The record shows that this illegal act of transferring the oil reserves from one department to another was considered by the cabinet, of which Mr. Hoover was a member, and it is difficult to understand how he or any other departmental head could have escaped knowing about it. One word of vigorous protest from him or any other responsible official would have prevented the issuance of this order.

Quotes Fall Statement.
"Fall's official statement to President Harding regarding these leases that 'they have been reported and discussed from time to time both privately with yourself and in the cabinet' appears to show conclusively that every member of that cabinet must have known about them long before the contracts were actually signed. If Fall's statement was not true, why was it not denied by some member of the Harding cabinet when it was made more than six years ago?

"I do not mean to insinuate," Senator Norris interjected, "that Hoover or any other member of the cabinet knew that Fall was being bribed. I do not believe they did. But knowledge of this corruption does not seem to me to be the essential point.

"The transfer of the oil reserves to Fall's custody and the leasing of them to Sinclair and Doherty without competitive bidding was illegal and a betrayal of the public trust even if Fall had not received a single penny.

"During all the weary grind of the long investigation which has dragged out, bit by bit, the truth about these transactions, Mr. Hoover has never, up to this time, said one word directly in condemnation of the disgraceful crime that was committed against the American people.

In his acceptance speech he denounced corruption in general and said that it touched both parties. But he has not directly condemned either the crime or those who were responsible for it.

"In view of the recent disclosures indicating that he must have known something about these leases before they were made, I do not see how he can longer remain silent."—World-Herald.

RECOVER STOLEN CAR

From Saturday's Daily—
Last evening Waldemar Soennichsen had a very uncomfortable experience for several minutes when his Marmon touring car was missing, apparently stolen. The car was recovered by the prompt action of Officers Joe Libershal and Dave Pickrel. The officers were notified of the theft of the car and borrowing another car, were able to get a line on the car of Mr. Soennichsen, finding it a short time after it was reported missing, the car having been apparently abandoned by the parties taking it. The car was restored to Mr. Soennichsen and he was correspondingly happy over the return of the gas wagon, as a year ago he had his car stolen from the streets of Omaha, where it had been driven by members of the family.

The fact that the police were able to get a car and be on the job was undoubtedly the reason for the recovery of the car and if the police department were supplied with a motorcycle and side car they would
