THE FARMER'S CHANCE

The Post-Dispatch has not believed that the McNary-Haugen bill was economically sound. It commended Mr. Coolidge for vetoing it. Nevertheless, it admits the farmer's right to try this plan. If it failed, the consequences would be upon him. It is at most no more fantastic than the tariff is in many respects.

There has been but a single obstacle to the McNary-Haugen bill. That has been the White House. There was no trouble with Congress. The farmer, therefore, has a chance to remove this obstacle and try the McNary-Haugen plan. He has Gov. Smith's assurance that if a commission of experts reports a plan on which they can agree he will support it. They did have a commission of experts pass on the question. It passed on it from 1920 to 1928. It was as nonpolitical as such an inquiry could be. It resulted in the McNary-Haugen bill. There is no reason to suppose that if the process were repeated the result would be any different.

This is the farmer's chance. They have no assurance that Mr. Hoover would sign such a bill. Indeed, they have every reason to believe that since the same influences will be back of Mr. Hoover that are back of Mr. Coolidge, he would not sign it. The farmer, therefore, cannot expect public sympathy if he helps to elect a man who would again close the way when he could help elect a man who will sign the bill. If he helps elect Mr. Hoover, as he helped elect Mr. Coolidge, he will have made his bed. We hope he will lie in it without rousing the country through another seven or eight years with his lusty walls.

W. G. Clugston, a Kansas journalist, from whose article in the current Nation there is a reprint upon this page, thinks the farmers know the situation. He points out that the press in the grain states is chiefly republican, and that the people for whom the farmer usually jumps through and plays dead are aroused to prodigious efforts this year to pull the wool over his eyes. But he doubts if the farmer can be confused. The demagogues, such as Borah and Brookhart, who are telling the farmer now that relief can be expected only from the Republicans, cannot make him forget that they were told the same thing in 1920 and 1924.

SMITH AND TEMPERANCE

Did they get the relief? No. Their bill went twice to the White House, and it was twice vetoed. The farmer has means of finding all that out. The farm papers are not as subservient as the secular press is in the farm states. The farmer is mad, and to hold him on the subscription list the farmer paper has to be mad. There is, too, the radio, over which the farmer hears what Gov. Smith says. He says, "Bring on your bill. We will give it a try." That has a better sound than the usual Republican promise that something, they do not know what, will be done for them.
 So that, as Mr. Clugston says, there may be a revolt in the farm states. The farmer has his choice. So did the Republicans—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

You should try R. C. E. G.

IF YOU have used balanced Red Crown Gasoline for years—and your motor has always been quick-starting, had strong acceleration, plenty of power and gives you big mileage per gallon—you are inclined to stick to a good thing. On all these points you will look in vain for a better gasoline than Red Crown Gasoline.

But all motors accumulate carbon which builds up compression and causes gas knocks and loss of power. The new high compression motors can only do their best work on genuine high compression fuel.
 In either case use RED CROWN ETHYL GASOLINE—which works best when compression is high—actually makes carbon a source of added power and eliminates gas knocks. It gives all motors smoother operation and a higher power range.

This knockless motor fuel is always-reliable Red Crown Gasoline combined with Ethyl Brand of Anti-Knock Compound. Costs more by the gallon but less by the mile. You should give R. C. E. C. a thorough trial and find out what your motor can do using this improved Red Crown Fuel.
 For economy and satisfaction buy your gasoline and motor oil where you see the Red Crown Sign—the sign of quality fuels and prompt, courteous, obliging service everywhere in Nebraska.

SMITH AND TEMPERANCE

Here is something for those who are opposing Gov. Smith on account of his prohibition views to mul over in their minds.
 Insurance men throughout Maryland are being asked to join a League of Insurance Men for the Johnathan K. Voshell, manager of the state branch of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. Mr. Voshell, a former Republican, said he was not interested in the political affiliations of the recipient but he favored Governor Smith because he advocated temperance.

"Those of us in the life insurance business who have kept statistics showing causes of deaths know that the mortality due to alcoholism, cirrhosis of the liver and all of its attendant complications," the letter continued, "has increased by leaps and bounds since prohibition and it is steadily gaining and we are, therefore interested in our people to the extent of changing the thing which shows the reason for this increased death rate."
 More than 15,000 letters will be sent to the insurance men of the state asking them to join the Smith League.
 The Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, in a bulletin recently issued, showed 282 deaths among its industrial policyholders during the year 1927, against only two deaths from the same cause in the entire dominion of Canada.

The American people are not drinking as much liquor today as during the regime of the open saloon, but they are drinking varieties of liquor that quickly produce deaths, and this is the subject that vitally concerns the insurance corporations.

Morals and ethics, according to the Supreme Court cut no figure in the application of laws. Thus the law forbids the making and selling of liquor as beverages, also prize fights, but the government collects taxes on illicit stuff and taxes admissions to prize fights. No use criticizing this.
