Next Saturday, October 20th, Mr. Gallagher, the Libby Representative will be at our store to conduct a demonstration of the new 1928 pack Libby products. You are invited to come and sample the different items in this well known nationally advertised line and determine for yourself whether they are not better than 90 per cent of the "hit and miss" brands many dealers seek to hand you. We sell the entire Libby line, because it is uniformly good and back of it is one of the largest and most reputable companies in the business, owning its own canning factories instead of farming out its labels to the pack of a score of factories scattered over the country.

Carnival Days Require a Lot of Preparation

Legion Getting Busy with Arrangements for Harvest Festival—Nov. 10 to 17, Dates.

From Monday's Daily—Every year, "When the frost is on the pumpkin and the fodder's in the shock," the American Legion is wont to hold its annual Harvest Festival, usually centering around Armistice day—an event that meant much to the far-flung lines of Americans and to all the world. This year—the 10th anniversary of the ending of the world war—the dates have been set for November 10th to 17th, inclusive and already there are plans being formulated to make this year's offering the greatest yet.

The car committee has contracted for positive delivery of a Model A Ford Tudor by the closing night, so it can be driven home by some lucky person. Car tickets have been printed and are already being distributed.

The nightly door prizes will be selected by the General Carnival Committee this week and will be fully up to the standard that has been maintained the last couple of years.

In the matter of entertainment the greatest advance is promised. Negotiations are being undertaken for a number of big time vaudeville acts, to come here direct from Omaha theatres, also a number of radio stars, and in the matter of entertainment alone the public will more than get its money's worth on the 10c admission charge.

General Chairman Holly has been scouting around taking in a number of carnivals in Omaha and elsewhere the past year, and as a result several new and decidedly different concession features are promised the patrons this year. The old stand-by and ever-popular Bingo feature will be retained, however, with all the new and desirable prizes that make it go bigger and bigger every year.

The large bills and window cards will be out soon, giving general information and newspaper ads will follow with announcement of the many special features.

The proceeds from these carnivals is applied on indebtedness against the Community building, and to lay up a fund for its completion.

RETURNS FROM HOSPITAL

From Monday's Daily—Tony Kilmm, residing south of this city, who has been taking treatments at Omaha, at the St. Joseph hospital for some time, has returned home and while he is feeling somewhat improved, he will have to continue with the treatments for some time. Mr. Kilmm has had fourteen X-rays made while at the hospital to fully determine the cause of his trouble, which has been thought to be a real bladder infection and as the result of the examinations it is thought that some relief may be given the patient, although an operation may be necessary to give him any measure of real relief.

Supt. Taylor Urges Teachers Attend Meeting

State Teachers Association Will Be Held Oct. 31st-Nov. 2nd at Various Points Over State.

In this era of organization and co-operation in the midst of greater efficiency, educators of Nebraska have just reason to be proud of their professional organizations—The Nebraska State Teachers Association.

Kilpatrick, in his "Education for a Changing Civilization," speaks of the concept of the school as a place where "unwilling pupils daily went through the grind of acquiring for recitation purposes adult formulated statements of race-achieved solutions to past social problems."

There is an abundance of evidence to indicate that Nebraska is short and responsive to the demand that her boys and girls come into close contact with a type of education which will build attitudes and ideals which will equip our youth to meet the new and unforeseen problems of the next half century. As concrete evidence of this alertness, there may be cited the new "Character Education Law," the movement looking toward increased emphasis upon the teaching of the constitution, the study which is being made looking toward the development of a program which will equalize educational opportunity in Nebraska, and the revision of the High School Manual with its suggestive courses providing the growth through activity which is largely pupil directed.

In the development of this newer concept of education in Nebraska, probably no single factor has made a greater contribution than The Nebraska State Teachers Association with its membership of more than 13,500 teachers. Soon these members are to assemble in six great district conventions. They will mingle with and receive new inspiration from their fellow teachers. There they will have an opportunity to hear those who are prominent in the field of education. This annual gathering of the great educational forces of the state cannot fail to play a prominent part in keeping Nebraska in the front rank among the states of the nation.

At state superintendent of public instruction of Nebraska I therefore urge the boards of education to operate in making it possible for their teachers to attend these district conventions. Teachers, when given this privilege, should put forth every effort to attend and make their contribution to the success of their own organization which is safely and surely aiding in the blazing of new trails in matters educational in this state.

CHARLES W. TAYLOR, State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

These state teachers meetings will be held at several points, Omaha, Lincoln, Norfolk, Chadron, North Platte and McCook, the Plattsmouth teachers attending either the Omaha or Lincoln meetings, but of which the Omaha meeting is generally the largest in attendance from the counties nearby. The schools will be closed on the days of the meeting to permit the attendance of the local teachers.

MYNARD U. B. CHURCH

Sunday school at 10 a. m. Sermon at 11 a. m.

We desire to call attention of our church and friends to our loss in Porto Rico and that we have just received word from our missionary in Porto Rico (Rev. I. E. Caldwell, superintendent), that the terrible cyclone that swept this island and the eastern coast of the United States has damaged our property to an enormous extent. Three of our chapels are a total wreck. Four more are badly damaged. Our Yaucan church was damaged to the extent that it will have to be all re-roofed. Two of our mission homes are destroyed and others badly damaged. The coffee crop, the largest for many years, is a total loss. The Red Cross is giving immediate relief, but we must rebuild our property. This is the work of the entire denomination—and we are asked to do our share here at Mynard. May we all come to the rescue.

G. B. WEAVER, Pastor.

OLD EAGLE RESIDENT DIES

CARD OF THANKS

To the many kind friends and neighbors who have been so kind to us in our bereavement in the expressions of sympathy at our loss and for the many friendly acts and the beautiful flowers at the funeral of our loved one, we wish to express our deepest appreciation and assure all of the friends that these acts of kindness will never be forgotten.—Mrs. William Puls and Family.

ANSWER TO STATEMENTS OF OTOE COUNTY BAR

To The Public:

When I filed as a candidate for District Judge, I did not ask the lawyers for their permission to do so. I did not propose to put myself under any obligations to any group or clique of lawyers. If I am elected Judge of the District Court, I shall not be controlled or dominated by any group or clique of lawyers. I shall exercise my best judgment on the law and the evidence in behalf of the people, and not in behalf of the lawyers.

Since one group of lawyers have seen fit to oppose my candidacy at the primary and now before the general election, and in a statement published, undertake to say that an opinion expressed as to the attitude of the opposing candidate is "untrue and made without cause or justification," leads me to submit the evidence:

In the case of Betts vs. Betts, tried in the District Court of Cass county, Nebraska, in July 1918, being a divorce case, in which the plaintiff undertook to blacken the character of his wife and to create sentiment against her, a finding was made by my opponent which is challenged on page 11 of a brief signed by three of the leading members of the Bar of Otoe County, in the following language: "The defendant respectfully submits that in said proceedings and decree there was error in the following respects, in each case prejudicial to the interests of the defendant: THIRD, In finding as in the FOURTH finding of fact that the defendant had been guilty of disloyal acts and words, that she had expressed disloyal sentiments in presence of her children, and that such sentiment had become of such public notoriety as to cause unfavorable comment and contribute to mob violence in the community because contrary to the weight of the evidence and entirely unfounded as to mob violence. And on page 12 of the same brief signed by the three distinguished members of the Bar of Otoe County and one distinguished member of the Bar of Cass County: "It is said there was to the defendant an adverse finding of fact in the trial court; by the trial court's decree she is found, in effect, to have committed adultery, the most critical period of its history, at a time when the civilized world was at stake. The appalling effect of such a decree upon the life of this woman is such as to require that it be entered or sustained only upon the clearest proof, by evidence the competency of which there is no doubt."

We will say further, that considering the tendency known to have been common than to manufacture, magnify, and give currency to every fact or rumor relating to her conduct, or to any person's attitude toward the War no adverse finding as to one's loyalty, in a divorce or any other suit should have been made at that time during that period, except upon proof beyond reasonable doubt." In this case my opponent entered a motion granting divorce to the husband against his wife and dismissing the wife's cross-petition. The Supreme Court, in its opinion, said there was no ground on which the husband was entitled to a divorce, and speaking of the defendant's cross-petition says: "Turning now to the question whether the defendant is entitled to relief upon her cross-petition, we are inclined to the view that the evidence taken as a whole establishes extreme cruelty in the dissemination by the plaintiff of false and malicious charges, reflecting upon the defendant's character. We find nothing in the record to excuse the malevolence with which he sought, by innuendo as well as by direct assertions, to blacken and destroy his wife's reputation in the community and in the eyes of her children. The Supreme Court further says: "We recommend therefore that the decree be reversed with respect to that portion thereof granting a divorce to the plaintiff, and that decree be entered in this court granting the defendant an absolute divorce from the plaintiff, as prayed for in her cross-petition."

This evidence clearly shows that the judgment entered was not based upon the evidence, but was the result of prejudice. Another bit of evidence: On May 5, 1927, in the case of the State of Nebraska vs. Will Hirz, and on May 6, 1927, in the case of State of Nebraska vs. Henry Bartek and George Bartek, complaints were filed against the three defendants charging them as one transaction with having entered a certain smoke-house in Heerman, Neb., stealing some amount of the value of $10.00. These complaints charged the three defendants all with the same offense. All three of the defendants entered pleas of guilty, and my opponent (then presiding as district judge) assessed FINEs against the two defendants who were not German, and against the one defendant Will Hirz, who was of German descent, a sentence of NOT LESS THAN ONE YEAR NOR MORE THAN TWO YEARS IN THE PENITENTIARY. An attempt to explain these sentences may be made, but the fact will remain that the defendant of German descent received the penitentiary sentence. Whatever statement of fact or opinion which have been, and will be, made in my behalf in this campaign, will be based upon record evidence and with justification therefore. Again I repeat that I do not bow down to the lawyers nor to any group or clique of lawyers in my candidacy, and if elected, my services will be given for the benefit of the people and not for the benefit of the lawyers as such.

Very respectfully,
A. L. TIDD.
