CHARGED WITH INTOXICATION

From Wednesday's Daily—

Yesterday noon when the downtown dwellers were going homeward one of the autoists passing up the street became involved with the law of that section that covers the driving of a car while intoxicated.

The speed of the car attracted the attention of Constable Tom Svoboda who was standing along the block from Fifth to Sixth street on Main and when the "fast mail" swept by the constable followed up and issued a warning to the car driver to check the speed.

Shortly after the warning the driver of the car again swept up the street and at a rate of speed that caused the arrest and the escort of the driver to the county bastille.

This morning the driver of the car, giving the name of Glen Price of Omaha, was brought before Judge A. H. Duxbury to face the charge preferred by County Attorney W. G. Kieck, that of driving a car while intoxicated. The defendant entered the plea of guilty to the charge and was given a fine of $25 and costs and was also forbidden by the court from driving a car for a period of one year.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ELECTS

Sound Pictures Promise of New Parmele Owner

W. J. Seydlitz, Purchaser of Parmele Theatre Outlines Policies He Expects to Pursue Here

W. J. Seydlitz, of Lincoln, who is in the city today to arrange the details of taking over ownership and management of the Parmele theatre on Sunday, has given out for publication the following statement of the policies he expects to pursue in the conduct of his newest picture house. As heretofore stated, Mr. Seydlitz, who is a former Plattsmouth man, was for some time in charge of the Capitol theatre, at Lincoln, one of the finest moving picture houses in the capital city. Following is his statement:

"I wish to announce to the people of Plattsmouth and vicinity that I have taken over the interests of Messrs. Clouid and Moore in the Parmele theatre, effective December 30, 1928, and thereafter this theatre will be managed by me personally. I expect to put into effect at the Parmele the same kind of policy I had in the Capitol theatre of Lincoln, which made it one of Lincoln's finest and most successful theatres.

"I believe Plattsmouth is large enough to have sound pictures in its theatre, which I hope to put in my policy, providing I can put this house over as it should be. I believe the people are entitled to something bigger than just pictures as the Parmele is ideal in its height of ceiling and architecture of building for the sound pictures that are now taking the country by storm. All pictures will eventually be available for sound and nearly all the theatres having sufficient seating capacity to afford it, will be equipped with some kind of sound device.

"I might also mention that I will be at the theatre at all times and mothers need have no fear in letting their little girls and boys come whenever they wish, as there will positively be no loafing allowed around this theatre. Only the cleanest kind of pictures will be shown here and children will receive my personal care.

"I will have a matinee every Sunday at 2:30, beginning December 30th.

"I understand there is a 'dish' night at this theatre, which I do not quite understand but will leave same as it is for the present and if I decide to discontinue same I will give everybody a chance to fill their set of dishes. I also understand there is a family night. This I think is fine and will leave same as it is.

"I do not know if there are any more 'freak' nights or not, but will say I will leave them to the best of my ability and in conclusion will say that I wish you all a Happy New Year and hope to see some of my old friends and make a lot of new ones, as I was born here and lived in Plattsmouth myself; have two sisters here now and two brothers here on the farm; also have my parents here, so I do not feel like a stranger.

"Very respectfully yours,
W. J. SEYDLITZ,
Manager-Owner."

MARRIED LAST SATURDAY

George Gade, who is employed in the concrete works at Louisville and a trusted young man of excellent character, and holding a very responsible position with the firm with which he had been for the past year or more, and Miss Gladys Ellington daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ellington, who has been engaged in teaching school for the past number of years, and later employed at the Masonic Home and with a charming young woman, many accomplishments, visited in Omaha on last Saturday, where they were doing some shopping ere the new year, and the afternoon slipped away, before they were aware of it, as they had intended to have married in the metropolis, but as it grew late and the county offices were closed and they did not know where to find the necessary officer to obtain a marriage license, they returned to Plattsmouth and here found the accommodating county judge who issued the necessary license and they tied to the paragonage of the Methodist church, and there had the pastor unite them in the holy bonds of matrimony. They returned to the home of the brides parents where they are staying for the present. They received the blessing of the parents of the bride. Mr. J. C. Ellington has been sick at his home in Plattsmouth for the past, about six weeks and is confined to his bed at this time, but it is hoped that he is showing some improvement. The Journal is hoping he may soon be restored to his accustomed health. At the same time joins with the many friends of this excellent couple in extending congratulations and best wishes for a long, happy, prosperous and useful life.

Birthday Dinner for B. B. Dean on 70th Birthday

Highly Respected Resident of Glenwood Has Attained the Age of Three Score and Ten

On December 24th, the members of the Dean family gathered together at the home of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Dean, in this city, the occasion being the seventieth anniversary of Ben's birthday, and his relatives came in to help celebrate the event.

It was a very happy family gathering. A fine chicken dinner with regulation trimmings (including birthday cake with candles) was served. The brothers gave Ben a very pretty pin and some very interesting relics of pioneer days, including a letter, giving many incidents of early family history.

The daughters gave him a very fine reading lamp.

Among those present were: Harvey Dean, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Dean, Mrs. Seth Dean, Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Dean, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Dean and children, Beth and Robert; Bessie Dean of Glenwood; Mr. and Mrs. Ray Wiles and daughters, Mary, Lois, Elizabeth, Margaret and Florence; Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Hutchison, of Plattsmouth, and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Groneweg, of Council Bluffs.

NAVAL ATTITUDE LAUDED

Chicago, Jan. 1.—Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy, in a message to the Chicago Association of Commerce, commended it for its stand in favor of the fifteen cruiser bill now pending in congress.

Congratulating William Dawes, president of the local association, Secretary Wilbur said that continued business prosperity for the nation depends upon its ability to defend itself against foreign aggression and the ability of its armed power to convince the world that it is able to protect the nation's prerogatives.

Would Take Appointment of Court Attaches from Politics—All Officers Re-Elected.

L. L. Turpin of Plattsmouth was re-elected president of the Nebraska Shorthand Reporters' association at the annual meeting at Lincoln Thursday afternoon. James M. Johnson of Omaha was re-elected secretary-treasurer. E. R. Mockett of Lincoln, vice president and librarian, tendered his resignation but the reporters refused to accept it.

The legislative committee was also re-elected and consists of the following: S. M. Smith, Omaha; W. F. Millotz, Omaha; E. R. Mockett, Lincoln; O. P. Heald, Lincoln, and Dale P. Stough, Lincoln. The program of the committee was not made known.

Harry E. Beach of Des Moines, president of the national association, urged the reporters in Nebraska to get a certified reporters law and take appointment of reporters out of politics. Ira Arch of Council Bluffs, in his talk also urged that action be taken along this line.

The reporters following the speeches went on record in favor of it. It is claimed that such a law raises the standard of reporters. It is also claimed that it would do away with the attempt of politicians to influence a judge to appoint some one to the position who was not qualified.

Each reporter would be required to take an examination by a state board before being certified. The judges, it was pointed out, would not be prohibited from appointing anyone they wished to appoint providing the reporter had been duly certified.

FARM BUREAU NOTES

Copy for this Department furnished by County Agent

Miss Edith Robertson won the 1928 news writing contest sponsored for boys and girls by the State Journal.

She will attend the next club week at the Agricultural College as a guest of the Journal.

Forty-nine boys and girls competed in the contest which was the largest of any in the state this year. Edith wrote seventeen different stories about her own club activities and covered the activities like a veteran community reporter. Her work was said to be the outstanding piece in the 4-H club news reporting in Nebraska in 1928.

Edith is only 12 years old but a sophomore in the Eagle high school where she holds a perfect attendance record since February 1924. She is the oldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Orville Robertson.

News writing occupied the interest of the entire Robertson family during a good share of 1928. Her mother gave her time off and all the encouragement she could in writing these stories. Her father took her to a special meeting for news writing at Weeping Water and helped her to go to other places where she might learn more about news writing. In addition to writing for the State Journal Edith has written local stories for the Plattsmouth Journal and the Elmwood Leader-Echo.

Edith is a member of the Sunshine Gleaning club, one of the outstanding clubs of its kind in the state. Her leader is Miss Lucille Christensen, a young lady just finishing club work herself.

Organized Agriculture.

The program for Organized Agriculture promises to be very interesting. On Tuesday morning, Mr. Fred Parks and Mr. Davidson, will give some very interesting facts about farm business. These men are both Illinois farmers who have been keeping farm record books just as a good many of our Cass county men are doing. Actual figures talk and the times these men have found out have been so forceful that they are glad to pass them on.

On Wednesday forenoon, the winners of the 1928 Corn Yield contest will tell how he raised his 108 bu. per acre corn. Here is a big surprise for someone, you.

You Had Better Plan to Attend
Wednesday afternoon Carl E. Day of Weeping Water talks on "Pasture Gains—Are They Economical?" Mr. Day makes his herd pay by creep feeding the calves while on pasture. Let's be among those present and see if we can't profit by others experience.

A 5-H club demonstration "More Egg Money"—Mrs. J. J. Donshu's talk "My Experience with Turkeys," may be of interest to a great many. Programs for entire week may be secured at the Farm Bureau office.

4-H Clubs.
Don't forget the meeting to be held at the Farm Bureau office Wednesday, January 2nd at 1:00 o'clock.

Corn Cost Records
Mr. Art George of the Rural Economics department, was in the county last week, securing corn cost records. The farmers who are co-operating in this are doing much to help keep the cost of production before the public.

T. B. Testing.
The county is being tested again. Avoca and Weeping Water are tested and Stovecreek and Elmwood will be tested soon after Christmas. We will try to keep you informed in regard to precincts being tested.—L. R. Snipes & Jessie H. Baldwin, County Extension Agents.

Corn Yield Record Broken.

A new state record for the Nebraska 10 acre Corn Yield contest has been set this year in the eastern section, according to P. H. Stewart and D. L. Gross of the Nebraska Agricultural College who have general charge of the contest. During the past 4 years that the contest has been conducted 101 bushels per acre has been the highest average. This year one man grew 108 bushels of corn per acre on his 10 acre upland field in an eastern Nebraska county. The second highest yield was 102 bushels also grown on an upland field of eastern Nebraska. The names of these men as well as those of other winners in the contest will be announced at the Organized Agriculture program of the Nebraska Crop Growers Association, January 8 and 9 at the Agricultural College in Lincoln. The winners will give a talk on the methods which they followed in growing this corn. Every corn grower will meet to hear this discussion on which will be Wednesday morning, January 9. The two day program of the Crop Growers Association is chock full of good talks on live subjects. The public is invited to attend these meetings.

Burning the Fence Rows.

The farmers who have taken advantage of the dry days this fall to burn the grass and weeds along the fence rows, will find that the damage done to their crops next year will be less than that of his neighbor who did not do this. Burning weeds and fence rows in the fall is the best way to destroy chinch bugs, grasshoppers and other crop insects.

Cass Co. Cooperative Creamery.

175 farmers in the east half of Cass County have started a cooperative creamery at Plattsmouth. The plant cost $17,000 and is equipped with all modern machinery. This is another Cass County industry and deserves the backing of the people. Mr. Davis at the head of the Dairy Dept. of the University of Nebraska, Howard Briggs, from the Journal Stockman, Omaha, Mr. Leddie of the Nebraska Farmer, Lincoln, were all present at the opening of this creamery.

T. H. Pollock of Plattsmouth had charge of the meeting and introduced the speakers, W. F. Nolte of Mynard, President, Henry F. Nolting, Vice-President, E. H. Spangler, Treasurer, and Harrison Gayer, Secretary.

Organized Agriculture.

W. H. Brokaw, director of the Extension Service, says there are 150 topics on the entire program. 37 of these will be discussed by men and women from outside of Nebraska, 47 by the faculty of the University of Nebraska. The other 67 topics will be discussed by farmers and their wives and you may be sure that you will bet the farmers view point.

To Bid Poultry of Lice and Mites.

Discussion of insects and mites injurious to poultry is summarized in a new publication, Station circular 37 of the Nebraska Experiment Station, which is now available for distribution at the College and thru county extension agent's offices. The first part of the circular deals with lice and their control. It recommends for the control of lice the use of blue ointment, which is a paste, or a sodium fluoride, as a powder in winter or a dip in summer. Blue ointment is easily applied just below the vent. Two treatments a year to every bird in the flock is generally enough to keep the flock reasonably free from lice. A pound of the ointment will treat about 200 hens, since a piece the size of a pea is enough for each hen. Two people can catch and treat the birds at the rate of more than one a minute.—L. R. SNIPES & JESSIE H. BALDWIN, County Extension Agents.

STORES OBSERVE THE DAY

from Tuesday's Daily—
The greater part of the retail stores of the city took advantage of the fact of today being New Year's to have a noon closing and permitting the business men and their employees an opportunity of enjoying a part of the day at home or in some recreation that they might desire.

The banks, court house and Burlington shops were closed for the entire day and the force at the U. S. post-office also had the advantage of the holiday, service on the rural routes and city mail delivery routes being suspended for the day.

RETURNING FROM HOSPITAL

From Saturday's Daily—
Dr. R. P. Westover, who has been at the Methodist hospital in Omaha for the past two weeks recovering from the effects of an operation for appendicitis, has so far recovered that he expects to return home Sunday and will spend the remainder of his recuperative period here with the family.
