Court Holds the Fremont Occupation Tax Invalid

Peterson Bakery Company Gains First Round in Dodge County District Court

From Thursday's Daily—
The ordinance of the city of Fremont, levying an occupation tax on the non-resident baking companies, under the clause of the city ordinance on itinerant peddlers, salesmen, doctors and oculists, was declared invalid by Judge Spear yesterday in his court at Fremont.

The occupation tax ordinance, passed in 1927, imposes a heavy tax on itinerant peddlers, salesmen, doctors, and oculists. Judge Spear in his opinion referred to the tax as a protective tariff for benefit of Fremont business men, and said the word itinerant was intended to mean non-resident.

Testimony in the case indicated wholesale bakery business here amounts to 120 thousand dollars a year and that 12 thousand a year is taken in by distributing trucks of non-resident concerns, with profits of about 7 per cent.

The case will be appealed to the state supreme court by the city of Fremont. The city attorney following the decision indicated. This case is of interest here as this city the past year created an ordinance covering practically the same points of the Fremont ordinance by levying an heavy tax on the parties operating trucks as that imposed by the Fremont ordinance. Here the city ordinance was challenged by the bakeries who operate trucks and the case is now pending in the district court.

Escaping Gas Causes Trouble at McMaken Office

J. H. McMaken and Bookkeeper of Firm Suffer From Results of Escaping Gas from Main

From Thursday's Daily—
The gas main that is laid along South Sixth street and which is partially under the room occupied by J. H. McMaken and the McMaken Transfer Co., caused a great deal of trouble at the office for several days and resulted in Mr. J. H. McMaken and Miss Parilla Stoehr, bookkeeper at the office, suffering for a few days from the effects of the gas.

The part of the main under the walk in front of the McMaken building developed a leak unknown to the gas company or the members of the McMaken firm and for two days they noticed the smell, but were unable to decide the cause of the odor and did not suspect that the gas main was discharging its gas into the building. Both Mr. McMaken and Miss Stoehr who were at the office more than other members of the force, felt the effects of the gas in headaches and general weakness, but it was not thought that the gas was leaking until Henry McMaken, head of the Modern Construction Co., happened on the main at one place and identified the odor as that of illuminating gas.

An investigation was started after the discovery of the cause of the odor and the leak in the main discovered and reported to the light and gas company, who at once had the main repaired, and now the gas is gradually leaving the building, although the odor is still noticeable, despite the fact that the office has been aired out.

Mr. McMaken and Miss Stoehr are still suffering from the effects of having inhaled considerable of the gas in the several days that it was leaking, and will take some little time before they are entirely over the effects of the disagreeable experience.

Greenwood-Plattsmouth Legion Frolic

Storm and Intense Cold Fail to Restrain Live Wires From West Cass County City

From Friday's Daily—
Despite the fact that the weather was the coldest of the winter and blizzard like conditions prevailed last night, the members of Greenwood post No. 173 of the American Legion drove to this city, or rather the winking crowd did, to assist the local Hugh J. Kearns post No. 56 in the initiating of a group of the candidates for 1929.

The evening program opened at the American Legion community building when the ritualistic work of the Legion was carried out by the Plattsmouth officers and the meeting then turned over to the members of the Greenwood degree team the direction of Col. Phil L. Hall and the degrees conferred—and how.

The members of the team who were able to make their way through the storm for the ceremonies from the Greenwood post were Col. Phil Hall, commander, George Bucknell, adjutant, George Trunkenbolt, Earl Jardine, Dewey Hedley, Earl Stradley, Carl Elmud.

The evening was one of the greatest of pleasure and gave many stunts that kept everyone in the best of humor and proved one of the red letter occasions in the life of the local post as far as pleasantness was concerned.

At the session during the initiation short talks on the Legion were given by several of the local parties.

The fact that Greenwood is to be host to the American Legion of the First congressional district of Nebraska in 1929 was called to the attention of the Plattsmouth post by Mr. Bucknell who extended the invitation of the western city to the Legion post here and the posts of Cass county to come out and have a real time at Greenwood and to assist in making the convention a success in every way. That the convention will be a real one is no doubt among those who know the live wire residents of Greenwood and where the welcome will be a royal one to every service man in the district.

It is hardly necessary to state that the Plattsmouth Legion membership is planning to attend the convention to a man and assist in every way in the success of the convention.

Following the initiation the members of the two posts enjoyed a fine social time in visiting and in participating in the luncheon that had been prepared by Henry Soenichsen, Robert Will and Harold Holcomb and which had all that was necessary to tempt the jaded appetites of any there were.

To add to the enjoyment of the feat the Legion had the pleasure of being regaled by cigars and cigarettes which were sent with the compliments of H. E. Wentworth of the Cream of the West bakery and which added to the enjoyment of the pleasant event.

Later the land was sold under a court order and bid in by the receivership of the First National bank to protect the bank equity and the land, now seeks restraining the payment of any sum of the crop proceeds to any of the other creditors except themselves as the present owners of the land. ### Vivid Presentation of Incidents of Establishment of the Ladies Fraternity.

From Saturday's Daily—
Chapter P. E. O. met at Sunnyside, the home of Mrs. E. H. Westcott, Friday afternoon.

After the usual order of business a Founders' Day program was presented. The program was in the form of an original play-pageant, presented by Mrs. E. H. Westcott, assisted by Mrs. John R. Hughes, of Omaha, past supreme president of P. E. O. who in a conversation with the young college girl, Mary Tidball, set forth the history, the aims and achievements of the P. E. O.

The seven founders were represented by seven of the P. E. O. daughters of the chapter—attired in gay colored tarlatan dresses such as was worn by the original seven when they graduated from Mount Pleasant of Iowa in 1869.

Hatten Briggs was impersonated by Helen Farley; Alice Coffin by Helen Westcott; Ella Stewart by Lorene Heineman; Zuelia Pearson by Ruth Tidball; Frank Rhodes by Allen Perry; Allie Bird Marlet Spier; Mary Allan, Alice Westcott.

GIVES FRIEND FAREWELL

From Saturday's Daily—
Last evening at the conclusion of the regular rehearsal of the choir of the Methodist church, the members were invited to the church parlors where a farewell was tendered to Mrs. Edward Roman, one of the long time members of the choir and in which she has been active for the past twenty-two years.

The occasion was one of pleasantness aside from the fact that the removal of Mrs. Roman from the city soon for Santa Ana, California, is bringing a great regret from the many friends and associates and in her going will leave a place hard to fill in the church activities.

The farewell was arranged by the committee headed by Mrs. E. G. Shallenberger and who planned and carried out the program in a most delightful manner.

The members were seated around the dining table where they were served with the most toothsome oyster stew by the committee composed of Mrs. Harry White, Mrs. Frank Barkus, Mrs. R. B. Hayes and Mrs. J. B. Rishel, and this feature was one that all appreciated to the utmost.

As a token of the esteem in which she is held by the church and by the friends and as a slight token of her splendid services in the musical department of the church, Mrs. Roman was presented with a beautiful silver tray from the choir.

A number of the members joined in the expressions of regret at the departure of this estimable lady from the city and among which was an original poem of tribute given by E. H. Westcott, veteran organist of the choir.

There were twenty-five present to take part in the event and who joined in the tributes that Mrs. Roman so well deserves for her long and unselfish services to the musical circles of the city and the church.

Mrs. Roman will sing at the evening services at the Methodist church Sunday a special solo number, "How Beautiful Upon the Mountain," by Scott.

CARD OF THANKS

It is with the deepest feeling of heartfelt appreciation that we wish to take this means of expressing our gratitude for the many acts of kindness shown us at the time of our deep sorrow, to those who furnished cars for the funeral services and those who sent the beautiful floral remembrances. We wish also to thank the choir of the St. John's school for their music and the dear friends and neighbors who were so kind in every way in the hour of trial—Edward Rummel, Mr. and Mrs. Cyril Janda and Family.

COLDEST OF WINTER

From Friday's Daily—
This morning the coldest day of the winter was registered, the mercury standing at seven below zero at the Burlington station at 8 o'clock. The cold was most intense and followed the night when the mercury sank to ten below and with a stiff wind blowing this made travel most uncomfortable and made the radiator or stove the most attractive place in the community.
