LET MR. HOOVER DO IT

Senator Harris' proposal to provide an additional $25,000,000 for prohibition enforcement has met with a contradictory reception in the highest of dry circles. The Board of Temperance and Social Service of the Methodist Church South is enthusiastically for it and has reprimanded Secretary Mellon for opposing it and demanded "prompt reconsideration" of his position lest his sincerity for the enforcement of the law be questioned. A directly opposite view is held by the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, which shares Mr. Mellon's misgivings as to whether so large a sum "can be wisely used by the prohibition unit at this time." The divergence extends to the Anti-Saloon League, whose president, Bishop Nicholson, joined with the Southern Methodists in their peremptory telegram to Secretary Mellon, while the league's secretary, Dr. F. Scott McBride, at first joined with Mr. Mellon in opposing the Harris plan and was won over to that plan only when his superior officer announced his approval of it.

Such a division of opinion, or sentiment, among prohibition leaders probably reflects the confusions in the public mind on this subject. In any event, Mr. Mellon stated his objections to the proposed appropriation in a reasoned statement which must appeal to the country's judgment. He doubted that such a large fund could be economically expended. He pointed out the present court congestion which necessarily would be aggravated by the employment of a larger staff of agents and the consequent increased number of arrests. He was fearful the money would be extravagantly disbursed and fearful, too, that the Government might be led into a police activity never contemplated by the prohibition law.

His objections have not been answered by Senator Harris, or the Southern Methodist Board, or by any of the appropriators. Their only argument has been to impugn Mr. Mellon's sincerity. But now that the North Methodist board indorses Mr. Mellon's position in substantial part it may be assumed that members of Congress will pluck up courage enough to vote intelligently on the question, not in cowardly subservience to the prohibition lobby.

The Post-Dispatch believes that Senator Harris' resolution is ill-timed. It is patent, of course, that prohibition enforcement is a farce; that it has been such from the first; that it has reached a critical state of demoralization. It is patent to everyone, wets and dries alike, that something must be done. It was in this spirit that the dry organizations rallied to a man to Mr. Hoover's support. He declared his favorable attitude towards prohibition in a guarded utterance, to be sure, yet sufficiently explicit to win the loyalty of the dries. Impliedly, he promised a better degree of enforcement. He has, within the past few days, committed himself to a survey of the whole situation, and when the facts are obtained, to make his recommendation to Congress.

That seems to us the practical procedure. To that end Senator Glass, as good a prohibitionist as Senator Harris, has proposed an appropriation of $250,000 to defray the expenses of Mr. Hoover's fact-finding commission.

Senator Harris' $25,000,000 project should, in our judgment, be rejected. The Glass plan should be adopted. Mr. Hoover should be given the opportunity to apply his great ability to this difficult and ominous problem.—St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

MELLON ON FAILURE

Secretary of the Treasury Andrew Mellon, is not one of those who believe that the rise of large-scale industrial and business organizations has diminished the ambitious young man's chance to succeed in the world. Writing in the February issue of the Cosmopolitan Magazine, Secretary Mellon declares, that, on the contrary, he believes that opportunities are "indefinitely more varied" than formerly, that rewards are greater, and that the enjoyment is more immediate.

"It should be pointed out," he writes, "that as part of a large organization adequately financed and directed by men in touch with market conditions throughout the world, the average man's chance of failure is far less than it would be outside. I remember the time when we lived in a world of small competing units, and it seemed to me that the casualty list was very great."
