Governor Vetoes Four More Bills

Several Measures Fall Under the Executive Ax as the Legislature Adjourns.

Executive disapproval put an end Thursday to four more bills passed by the legislature, boosting Governor Weaver's veto list to a total of nineteen, while another measure, S. F. 44, the Wood driver's license bill, hung in the balance pending a special hearing granted by the governor to the supporters of the measure.

One of the four measures which the governor announced Thursday morning had been vetoed was S. F. 128, which Senator Clark Jeary introduced in order to permit the Lincoln school district to borrow money up to 70 per cent of the unexpended balance of any current tax levy, and 70 per cent of the uncollected taxes for the next preceding year.

At the time the bill was before the senate, Jeary explained that the school board is now compelled to issue registered warrants during a portion of the year to tide over the period when receipts from tax levies are not immediately forthcoming.

Permitting the board to borrow money, he explained, a considerable saving could be made in the difference in interest now paid on the warrants and that which would be paid on such borrowings.

"Fraught With Danger" Governor Weaver, however, feels that the measure provides an "easy and unbusinesslike method of putting the district into debt."

"These provisions represent a new policy which is fraught with danger," he said.

In concluding he asserts, "because this bill ignores the right of the voters to extend the credit of the district, I am convinced that it is opposed to sound public policy."

Other measures vetoed were: H. R. 224, appropriating $2,500 for the relief of Mrs. Catherine Lowry of Omaha, widow of a South Omaha policeman who was killed 20 years ago while making an arrest. Explaining his veto, Governor Weaver says that what ever payment is made should be made by the city of Omaha and not by the state of Nebraska.

Thinks Policy Unsound. H. R. 146, permitting repayment of tax money paid to a city by property owners in an improvement district, which district is later declared void by the courts. The measure was introduced by Representative W. H. Rockwell of Dakota county and was intended to remedy a particular situation existing in South Sioux City. The governor analyzes the bill as authorizing new taxes without a vote of the people where special assessments have been made illegally, and describes the policy embodied in the bill as unsound. He also asserts that it would provide an easy means of increasing local taxes.

S. F. 181, permitting the Omaha fund of $100,000 for the purchase of school sites and the erection of buildings. The present law limits the amount which may be set aside to $25,000. Declaring that the bill was a radical departure from the accepted policy of requiring a vote of the people on capital investments, the governor also objected to the fact that it did not provide the restrictions now contained in the present law with regard to such expenditures.—Lincoln Star.

Dry Raider-Slayer is Given a Clean Bill

Grand Jury Does Not Act Against Man Who Fired Fatal Shot at Illinois Woman

Geneva, Ill.—The Kane county grand jury failed to vote a true bill Thursday against Deputy Roy Smith, who shot and killed Mrs. Lillian De King in a raid on her home last month, according to reliable information. Eugene Boyd Fairchild, dry investigator, whose false affidavit of buying liquor at the De King home resulted in the raid, was charged with perjury in a true bill.

The action against Fairchild was taken after some hours of debate and two days and a half of investigation. Failure of the grand jury to vote bills against Smith and other members of the raiding squad gives them a clean bill of health.

The grand jury will meet again Tuesday to return the indictment against Fairchild. Further action might be taken by the investigating body at that time, although it is hardly regarded as probable.

It had been rumored during the day that many of the jurors favored indictment of Joseph De King on charges of dry law violation and also Eugene Boyd Fairchild for perjury. The surprise witnesses at the close of Wednesday's session testified to buying liquor of De King, husband of the slain woman, over a three year period. No other reason for this testimony could be found, except that it was to prove De King guilty of violating the prohibition law.—State Journal.

According to a statistician of prominence, there are now more chemists in the country than there are of any kind of scientists. Yes, and don't forget that it is another of the striking results of prohibition.
